G. O. P. FIGHTING WALLACE IDEAS FOR U. S. TARIFF

Hull Asks Power for President.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 8.—[Special.]—The battle over the Roosevelt tariff policy involving removal of protection from industries dependent on subsidy for existence began in the house ways and means committee today when Secretary of State Hull, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, and Secretary of Commerce Roper argued in behalf of the President's request for blanket authority to negotiate reciprocity treaties.

With the Republicans up in arms against Mr. Roosevelt's design to lay violent hands on the ark of the protection covenant, Democratic senators were privately bemoaning the President's projection of an issue embarrassing to their interests in the congressional elections. Not fewer than a dozen Democratic senators have been heard to complain that they can support the President's tariff proposals only at the risk of defeat next fall.

Wallace Draws G. O. P. Fire.

Secretary Wallace drew fire at once from Republican members of the committee when he outlined his tariff theories.

In essence, Mr. Wallace declared that the rehabilitation of our foreign agricultural markets is the only alternative to drastic prosecution of "artificial methods of farm acreage control in this country. And in the rebuilding of those markets," he told the committee, "the efficient American industry must be safeguarded and the inefficient industry penalized.

"We will have more net material welfare in this country," Mr. Wallace stated in summary at the conclusion of his testimony, "if we produce things here that we can produce efficiently and exchange them for commodities that can be produced efficiently abroad."

In Mr. Wallace's conception an efficient industry is one which can produce a commodity cheaply enough to offer it in competition with similar commodities produced in other nations. An inefficient industry, on the other hand, he explained, is one which cannot send its products to compete with comparable foreign goods.

Raps Beet Sugar Makers.

"The beet sugar industry in this country is 'inefficient,'" he stated. "I do not say it should be abolished, but it should not be allowed to expand further at the expense of efficient agricultural industries. The production of beet sugar in this country robs the efficient wheat farmer of his markets abroad, it robs the efficient lard producer of a tremendous potential market in Cuba."

Chairman Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N. C.] inquired whether Mr. Wallace believed congress could approach the tariff problem directly rather than through a delegation of power to the President.

"It seems to me," the secretary replied, "that it would be impossible for congress as a whole, with so many diverse interests involved, to handle this matter in an emergency to the best interests of all involved."

"We've been doing it for 100 years successfully," countered Representative Isaac Bacharach [Rep., N. J.]. "That's a pretty broad statement you're making."

Wallace Strikes at Congress.

"Thrice after the war," Mr. Wallace argued, "the congress raised the tariff despite the fact that our creditor nation position made a lowering of the tariff imperative. At the same time this government continued to lend money abroad. It is because of these mutually contradictory policies, which the congress followed, that we are in such a serious situation today."

Representative Allan T. Treadway [Rep., Mass.] asked whether Mr. Wallace expected to take up the agricultural surplus in the export market through operation of the proposed bill.

"If we can't have a very real import increase," was the reply, "we will have to continue our present or similar efforts toward controling our domestic crops. If we increase imports we will not ave to decrease our acreage so much.

"There is a vast amount of goods abroad, in Europe and the orient, which could be enjoyed here to the great delight of our womenfolk," Mr. Wallace continued. "They are noncompetitive."

Mr. Treadway asked that he name some specific products.

"Well, there is lace of certain kinds," the secretary responded, "and there are various kinds of textiles."

CHICAGO YOUTHS BATTLE ICE IN A CANVAS CANOE

Memphis, Tenn., March 8.—(AP)—After a hazardous trip from Chicago, during which they had to battle their way through ice on more than one occasion, Jack Broberg and Don Hughes reached here today in their 17 foot canvas canoe.

"We had some sensational experiences just out of Chicago," the sun tanned 22 year old Broberg said with a grin. "I got this tan after we got south of St. Louis, but before then there wasn't enough sun to tan anything.

"Some places the ice was pretty tough to get around. For awhile we carried our boat over the ice on our shoulders. Then Don and I devised a sled, and that made things a little easier.

"Getting through that ice wasn't easy, and once or twice things looked bad for us and our trip as well. We both paddled away with full force, however, and eventually found our way through.

"We expect to start out for New Orleans in the morning. From New Orleans we'll paddle around the Florida coast and then to New York and up the Hudson. We hope to be back in Chicago about the middle of August."

THEY'LL STOOP TO CRIME, BUT REFUSE TO PEEP

A dozen women customers were sitting in the Charme Beauty shoppe at 3324 Armitage avenue last evening when two polite bandits, each with a pistol in his right hand, entered.

"Now, all you girls shut your eyes," said the first man, smiling. "You know it wouldn't be nice for me to be a Peeping Tom and it wouldn't be right or even safe for you to be Peeping Tillies."

The customers obeyed. They shut their eyes. Having taken $200 from the manager, Miss Loe Audy, and $4 from a customer, Mrs. Betty Guyer of 2053 Hancock street, whose hair was being dried in an electric machine, the men fled.

Nurse Prepares Room for Her Own Operation

For ten years Head Nurse Marguerite Efinger has been in charge of the operating room at the Lake County General hospital at Waukegan. For every operation she performed there she prepared anesthesia apparatus, sterilized all surgical instruments, and scrubbed the operating table. Three days ago, it was disclosed yesterday, Nurse Efinger repeated her routine and when all was in readiness she climbed on the table herself. Dr. Charles Lieber then performed a gall bladder operation. Yesterday he reported that Nurse Efinger was "doing nicely."

Pay a Million to Take Part in 1934 Fair

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

A Century of Progress had planned to sell $500,000 worth of exhibit space for the 1934 Fair, and another $500,000 worth of space and privileges for concessions. Already one of these goals has been passed and the other has been closely approached, it was learned yesterday.

Exhibit space rentals now contracted for total $459,800, according to yesterday's weekly report of the Fair's department of industrial exhibits and concessions, and the concessions' space and privilege total is $569,738. Figures on exhibit space sold in the various buildings are:

Foods and Agricultural building	$ 72,197
Electrical building	27,453
General Exhibits building	116,866
Hall of Science	49,926
Hall of Social Science	7,170
Home Planning hall	31,430
Model House installations	3,700
Travel and Transport building	97,057
Travel and Transport—outdoor area	14,250
Rental of special buildings	39,750
	$459,800

"The exhibits promise to be more entertaining this year," J. C. Folsom of A Century of Progress, in charge of special buildings, said yesterday. "That is one thing learned from last year. The public wants to be entertained more than lectured or instructed. Much actual entertainment will be included in industrial exhibits this year."

Hall of Science Leads.

With 90 per cent of its exhibit space already sold, the Hall of Science leads all other structures on the Fair grounds. Among the new exhibits in this building will be the Hall of Photography at the end of the 16th street bridge, where changing exhibits of modern photography will be held and home moving pictures shown. Another will be the American Asphalt Paint company's "Story of Paint in Color."

Eighty per cent of the space in the Foods building has been sold, with three contracts pending which if completed will reduce the unsold space to 5 per cent. The former Dairy building will be used by Continental Baking company. Both the General Exhibits building and the Travel and Transport building are 65 per cent sold as to exhibit space. Sixty per cent of Home Planning hall is contracted for, with two contracts pending which would increase this to 80 per cent.

Plan Modern Dairy.

In the Travel and Transport building the Studebaker Sales corporation and the Hupmobile company are important new exhibitors. United Aircraft again will exhibit, having engaged the dome of the building.

South of the Wings of a Century pageant will be an ultra-modern dairy barn, "as immaculate as a hospital," according to Mr. Folsom. There 35 cows will be kept in impeccable quarters and at 15 minute intervals one of the cows will be led into a milking parlor. However, no dairy maids will grace the parlor, as milking machines will be used. This exhibit is sponsored by the Brookhill Dairy.

Across the drive, north of the International Century of Progress egg-laying contest area of model hen houses, will be a model farm house designed to give the farmer the latest in operating efficiency. A live stock show nearby is another project the World's Fair officials hope to be able to show the 1934 visitors.

NAZIS SEIZE 14 BERLIN SOCIETY FOLK AS SPIES

Arrest War Chief's Son, Polish Baron.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ZURICH, Switzerland, March 8.—Richard von Falkenhayn, a son of the late Gen. Erich von Falkenhayn of world war fame, has been arrested in Berlin with a Polish baron and twelve other members of high society on charges of espionage.

The arrests have been kept secret by Berlin police in the hope that more incriminating material could be obtained on other suspects.

The Polish baron is George von Sosnowski, a cavalry officer in the Austrian army and later in the Polish army. He was one of the group which seized Vilna, birthplace of Marshal Pilsudski, from Lithuania, and presented it to the marshal on his birthday, giving the league of nations its first real headache.

Kept Racing Horses.

Since then the baron has lived generally in Berlin, where he, with Falkenhayn and his beautiful wife, Benita, kept a string of racing horses. Both Sosnowski and Benita often rode their own horses and won many cups. Falkenhayn divorced Benita, who later married the well-to-do Joseph von Berg, prominent engineer of the Siemens concern.

Meanwhile Baron Sosnowski entertained Nazi leaders long before the Nazis were in power. His banquets for the high nobility, Nazi leaders, and Hohenzollern princes, spiced with the presence of famous beauties, were the talk of gay Berlin.

A tiny black haired girl under the name of Countess Lehndorff, Polish, berian, helped him when he entertained.

Katia Also Arrested.

Last week Sosnowski, Katia, and her sister, the butler and servants were arrested at the same time as young Falkenhayn, who had been earning a living as a real estate agent. Benita von Berg and Joseph von Berg also were arrested, suspected of having knowledge of Sosnowski's activities.

Sosnowski has been under special police surveillance for years. Diplomatic circles were surprised to learn of his arrest at a time when Poland and Germany are protesting mutual amity. They suspect that a scorned lady friend cooked up the charges.

Falkenhayn's relatives, afraid of being involved in a scandal, have not dared to intervene in his favor, though convinced of his innocence.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 8.—The first showing in Germany of the film "Catherine the Great," with Douglas Fairbanks Jr. and Elizabeth Bergner, evoked an anti-Jewish demonstration in Berlin tonight. Hundreds outside the Capitol cinema yelled "Down with Bergner! We don't want Jewish actresses."

Entry for the audience was kept clear by police reinforced by storm troopers. The presence of British Ambassador Sir Eric Phipps helped keep the performance free from other incidents.

Pointing to the motorization of America as an example for Germany, Chancellor Hitler opened the international automobile show in Berlin today. He urged German manufacturers to produce a cheap popular car which could be bought by the millions.

Calls for More Autos.

The chancellor proclaimed that Germany is on the way to render itself free from the necessity of importing motor fuel. He pointed out that Germany should have 12,000,000 autos to have the same proportion as America. Germany now possesses only about 500,000 cars.

Meanwhile the government's determination to keep Ernst Torgler, former communist leader in the reichstag, interned was revealed today by Rudolf Diels, chief of the secret state police. Diels argued that the release of Torgler, who was acquitted in the reichstag fire trial, would necessitate the release of thousands of others jailed for the safety of the state.

Three of Torgler's co-defendants in the fire trial were recently released after they had taken out Russian citizenship. They were the Bulgarian communists Georg Dimitrov, Blagoi Popoff, and Vassil Taneff.

Diels announced that 9,000 persons are now inmates of concentration camps. He said 6,000 others had been freed.

Ernst Thaelmann, leader of the German communists, and other Red chiefs will be tried soon on charges based on documents seized by police in the Berlin communist headquarters.

LONDON, March 8.—(AP)—W. S. Soule of Sudbury, Ontario, finds life in England full of surprises. Yesterday, as a student flyer, he fell out of an airplane 4,000 feet up when his safety belt failed. His parachute worked. Today a cat walked in front of his automobile. He swerved to avoid it and wrecked the car. Soule was only scratched.

Dillinger Seen on South Side; Push Manhunt

John Dillinger, the elusive killer and bank robber, who strolled out of the Crown Point jail six days ago, was hunted on Chicago's south side last night after an attendant in a gasoline station at 73d street and Stony Island avenue told the police that he had seen and talked with Dillinger late Wednesday night.

Meanwhile the scandal created by Dillinger's nonchalant escape was assuming huge proportions and provoking political turmoil in Indiana. Assistant Attorney General Edward Barce asserted at Crown Point that indisputable evidence had been gathered revealing that Dillinger practically walked out of jail with the assistance of certain prison attachés.

Judge Orders New Inquiry.

Soon after this announcement, Judge William J. Murray of the Criminal court discharged the Lake county grand jury on the ground that its members were unfit to investigate the escape and summoned a new jury to be headed by a special prosecutor, who will supplant Prosecutor Robert G. Estill in the investigation.

The eyes of the nation were centered upon the political uproar in the Hoosier state, where the Democrats were beating their breasts over the affair. Attorney General Cummings in Washington described the escape as a "disgraceful episode." Investigators for the government, state, and other organizations swarmed into Crown Point.

Dillinger Seen in Chicago.

The cause of the furor, according to the story told by E. H. Deacon, the gasoline station attendant, is still in Chicago, not taking particular pains to conceal himself and apparently ready at any moment to dispute his capture by police with pistol bullets.

Deacon's identification of Dillinger furnished the first definite clew to the outlaw's whereabouts since the car in which he fled from Crown Point was found on the north side of Chicago last Monday, two days after his escape. It had been abandoned Saturday night.

Deacon, who is 35 years old and lives at 1208 East 73d street, told Grand Crossing police that late Wednesday night a gray automobile, lacking license plates and with the tail light extinguished, drove up near the filling station and parked beside a sign board. There appeared to be several men in the car, but only one man got out.

"He dragged his right foot as he walked up to me," said Deacon. "It seemed to have been hurt. I recognized him then as some one I'd seen, but it wasn't till later that I realized he bore a striking resemblance to Dillinger.

Carrying Two Revolvers.

"He came into the station and said he wanted to wash up. He took off his coat and I saw two revolvers in holsters under both arms. There was a cartridge belt around his waist. I thought it might be a stickup and tried to hide my money changer. He saw me do it and said: 'Never mind. I don't want your dough.'

"He washed his hands and face. He put his coat on and said: 'Don't you know me?' I said I didn't.

"'Well, you'd better not,' he said, as he went out the door. Then he turned around and said, 'You can tell your friends that I gave those Indiana coppers a good fooling.' As he walked across the lot I stood in the doorway and he looked back and said, 'Don't follow me, you ———, or I'll shoot the hell out of you.'"

"Too Scared to Tell Police."

Deacon said he was too frightened to inform the police until a friend of his, Joseph White, 7432 Stony Island avenue, walked into the station and Deacon told him his story. White called the police. A number of photographs of criminals were shown to Deacon and he unhesitatingly picked out Dillinger's.

"I couldn't forget that face," he said. "He was a tough looking fellow with a high forehead."

This evidence induced police to be-

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 8.—[Special.]—With the threat of a presidential veto hanging over them, Democratic members of the house of representatives tonight flouted the known wishes of President Roosevelt and refused to bind themselves to his program for holding down veterans' benefits.

Called into a party caucus to determine whether they would follow the course charted for them by the White House, Democratic congressmen not only refused to bind themselves to the President's program, but openly defied him by demanding the return of 98,000 veterans to the compensation rolls.

Vote on Spanish War Veterans.

Despite all efforts of administration leaders, the rank and file of the party voted to insist that all Spanish-American war veterans who served during the war period be restored 75 per cent of the pay they were getting before the President started his economy drive and also voted to restore to all world war veterans who served during the war period and who have presumptive disabilities 75 per cent of their pre-economy pay.

Revolt by the representatives followed a White House conference in which President Roosevelt evidently told house leaders that they must adopt some tactics to keep his economy program intact and to wipe out the increases in veterans' benefits and federal salaries which the senate had written into the independent offices appropriation bill.

The President is understood to be willing to veto any legislation which does not meet his wishes. It is doubtful whether he will accept the program laid out by the rebellious representatives tonight even though it is less of a blow to his economies than the senate's program.

Senate to Join Conference.

Calling all Democrats in the house to a caucus which lasted until close on to midnight, Representative Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.], majority leader, asked them to agree that the appropriation bill be sent into joint conference with the senate without any restrictions being placed on the power of the conferees.

Scenting an attempt by the administration to wipe out all increases voted to veterans by compromising them away in the conference, the rebel group in the house objected to giving the conferees a free hand.

On the motion of Representative Gordon Browning [Dem., Tenn.], the caucus amended the Byrns motion so that the house conferees are now to be instructed to press for the so-called Browning amendment to the appropriation bill. This amendment calls for restoration to the benefits rolls of 89,000 Spanish-American war veterans and 29,000 world war veterans. Although it is less drastic than the senate's rebuff to the economy program, the Browning amendment is understood to be repugnant to the President.

Two-thirds Vote Required.

By a vote of 118 to 89 the house Democrats passed the Browning amendment to Leader Byrns' motion, thereby insuring the house conferees would not compromise away all veterans' benefits thus far voted. The caucus then adopted the Byrns motion as amended by a vote of 136 to 71, and followed this revolt by refusing on a ballot of 130 to 78 to bind themselves to vote as a unit on the veterans' program. A motion to bind all members of the party to a single program requires a two-thirds vote to pass the caucus.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 8.—[Special.]—The house naval affairs subcommittee today climaxed its boisterous investigation of navy airplane contracts with a clean bill of health for everybody concerned.

The report filed by Chairman John J. Delaney [Dem., N. Y.] and signed by all but one of the investigators, asserts:

Profits realized by private airplane companies under navy contracts are reasonable and justifiable.

There is no evidence of collusion between the manufacturers who bid for navy business.

The system of negotiated plane contracts, as opposed to competitive bidding actually is in the best interests of the public and national defense.

Calls Profits Moderate.

The report filed today declared that "the profits made by the contractors from navy airplane business have been moderate and reasonable.

"It was shown that the overall profit in the cost of manufacture of aircraft and engines for the navy covering the period from 1926 to 1933 has been 11.5 per cent prior to deducting state and federal income taxes.

"The reason for the small average profit is to be found in the fact that the existence of the naval aircraft factory at Philadelphia has probably served as an effective brake on the price of airplanes.

Profits of Some Excessive.

"Over the period, 1927 to 1933, the average profit of the two principal contractors on navy engine business was 23 per cent," the committee reported. "The profits of one of these engine manufacturers, namely the Pratt and Whitney Aircraft company, were excessive during the period, 1926 to 1930, but have subsequently been brought to reasonable figures.

"There is no evidence of collusion between contractors or between contractors and naval officials. On the contrary, there appears to be keen competition in a limited market, and on the other hand, the navy seems to have made commendable progress in its aviation material, at the same time keeping costs well below original estimates.

Upholds Act of 1926.

"The committee was of the opinion that the policy pursued by the navy department since the adoption of the aircraft procurement act of 1926, is a practicable and prudent one and should be followed until a better plan is proposed," the report continued. "It is highly desirable that competition, both as to engineering merit and as to prices, be encouraged whenever possible but there will arise cases where such competition is impracticable and negotiations for equipment and prices must, therefore, be resorted to and awards placed without the benefits of competition."

AIR LINE CHIEFS HIT PRESIDENT'S NEW MAIL PLAN

Hold Short Term, Fixed Rate Contracts Unfair.

Air line operators in Chicago yesterday criticised President Roosevelt's outline of the legislation he announced in order to place air mail once more in the ships of commercial air lines, operating under contract with the government.

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, vice president of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., charged that the President's proposals to have commercial flying companies bid for three year contracts with a fixed minimum rate a mile was unfair.

"Why bid again for something you are entitled to?" he asked.

Attitude of Majority.

In this question he expressed the attitude of the majority of the air lines' officials. They contend that the postoffice department's abrupt abrogation of its carriers' contracts was a display of bad faith since, they declare, no proof of the graft charged by federal officers has been forthcoming.

Joining in this attitude was Richard W. Robbins, an executive of General Aviation, a holding company which controls T. & W. A., Western Air Express, Eastern Air Transport and several airplane and aero engine manufacturing concerns. Robbins' statement, issued in Kansas City yesterday was made public here by Capt. Rickenbacker.

Refers To Roosevelt Letters.

Referring to President Roosevelt's letters in which his sanction to renew commercial air mail contracts was made, Robbins said:

"This proposition does not settle the question of good faith between the government and its air mail contractors at all. No fraud or collusion has been proven. No air mail carrier has ever been accorded a hearing, although they have repeatedly requested it. According to American tradition and simple fair play the least the government can do is to grant them their day in court.

"The air mail carriers have ten year contracts which were let by public bidding for the most part during the Coolidge administration. These contracts expire on April 5, 1936, with authority in the postmaster general to extend some of them to Oct. 25, 1940.

Cites Air Lines' Expansion.

"On the basis of these contracts the air mail carriers have spent millions of dollars in ground facilities in the way of airports, airways, radio broadcasting stations and weather reporting and meteorological stations. Many of the carriers have entered into long term commitments for the use of airports and airways facilities with municipalities along their lines.

"Obviously it would be unfair to force us to give up our contracts and require us to rebid to carry the mail over our own routes, and if awarded a contract have it for a maximum of three years.

"It is a fair statement that never again will the post office department get as good a bargain and receive the same country-wide service as when it annulled these air mail contracts. It is also a fair statement that the air mail poundage has fallen off about one third of what it was before the contracts were annulled, and at the present time there is no air mail service worthy of the name.

"The air transportation system of this country, which prior to the cancelation of the air mail contracts was admittedly the finest in the world, has been done irreparable damage. It is presumed that before new legislation by congress is enacted full public hearings will be accorded all parties at interest."

SEE U. S. DEMAND FOR REORGANIZATION OF AIR MAIL COMPANIES

Washington, D. C., March 8.—(AP)—A complete reorganization of air mail companies whose contracts were canceled, including the dropping of many prominent aviation executives, will be demanded by the administration if those lines seek to carry the mail again.

This became evident today as congressional committees and postoffice department officials worked toward enactment of President Roosevelt's recommendations for returning the business of flying the mail to private carries on a basis of "honest payment for honest service."

At the same time army officials shaped plans to continue until June 1 or later with the new task so suddenly thrust upon them by the annulment of the old private contracts.

Postoffice officials estimated at least 60 days would elapse before new bids could be received from commercial lines and predicted several new companies, now operating independently on a comparatively small scale, would enter the air mail picture.

Meanwhile Paul Henderson, vice president of United Aircraft and Transport corporation, testified before the senate air mail investigating committee that he had lent $10,000 in 1930 to Chase C. Gove, deputy second assistant postmaster general under W. Irving Glover.

BOUND TO JURY IN $90,000 BONDS FOR MOTOR THEFT

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Stolen, 44; recovered, 68; stripped, 8 (from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Wednesday).

Joseph La Bow, 30 years old, 2908 Flournoy street, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $90,000 yesterday by Judge Joseph A. Graber in the Automobile court on charges of driving a stolen automobile and robbing four sisters.

La Bow was identified by Miss Katherine Killen, 4233 Van Buren street, and her sisters, Margaret, Jane, and Betty, as the man who robbed them of a total of $37.

In another hearing before Judge Graber, Stanley Gall, 26 years old, 1729 West 21st street, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $25,000 on a charge of stealing an automobile. The car, a new one, belonged to Edward Rix, 9031 South Elizabeth street.

MRS. ROOSEVELT SEES HOW "NRA PORK" IS COOKED

Reaches Porto Rico After Visit in Virgin Isles.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, March 8.—After a busy day exploring native customs and conditions in the Virgin Islands, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and her party arrived here by plane at 5:30 o'clock this evening and prepared to spend the night. The flight from St. Thomas was made in two hours.

In one of the Virgin island villages, the President's wife exchanged suggestions and advice on cooking with the native housewives. She found one native woman—Hilda Benjamin by name—who rather startled her. She had asked Hilda what she was cooking. Hilda looked up at her, smiled and answered:

"NRA pork."

Housewife Rained Upon.

Hilda, like other native housewives in that village, lives in a two-room home built by the federal government. She complained, however, that it often rained on her when she went from her living room to her outdoor kitchen. It was Mrs. Roosevelt's turn.

"Have your man build a gallery," she suggested.

Mrs. Roosevelt cautioned many of the native women about the ill effects of flies in the food. They in turn showed her how to prepare fine meals with only the crudest of cooking utensils.

The President's wife was given an enthusiastic welcome wherever she went. She began her day at 7:30 o'clock this morning with a swim at St. Thomas. In the morning she inspected the city's "Bluebird castle" which is destined to become a luxurious tourist hotel by means of federal funds. She also visited various farm projects and watched other constructive operations in progress on the island—school repairing, swamp drainage and road construction.

With Gov. Paul Pearson and other members of her party, Mrs. Roosevelt went for a half hour's plane ride from St. Thomas to St. Croix.

Bottle of Rum Is Gift.

There she was the recipient of three outstanding gifts—a big bouquet from a Negro child, a bottle of St. Croix rum 45 years old and an inlaid mahogany and sandalwood tea table. The rum, however, was given to her "to take to the President." The table was the gift of the island's Democratic club.

The return trip to St. Thomas was made by plane at 3:30 p. m. after which the party immediately left for Porto Rico.

Upon Mrs. Roosevelt's arrival here she was given the keys to the city by Benitez Castano, the city manager. The party was driven to the governor's pink palace at La Fortaleza. Crowds surged around Mrs. Roosevelt's auto as it moved slowly through the streets.

AIR LINE PILOTS LAUD MAIL PROPOSALS BY PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

Washington, D. C., March 8.—[Special.]—David L. Behncke of Chicago, president of the Air Line Pilots' association, today wired President Roosevelt saying that the new air mail proposals laid before congress yesterday by the President were "the soundest and most constructive moves yet taken in the entire history of air commerce."

Behncke told the President that he could count on the continued support of the air line pilots and that the pilots looked forward to a new and sounder air industry, if the Roosevelt recommendations are adopted.

The telegram, which was addressed to the President and which the White House made public, read in part:

"The air line pilots wish to express their great appreciation and congratulations on your letter to congress regarding proposed legislation for the reorganization of the air mail. . . . If your proposals are enacted into law, it is our sincere belief that air commerce will receive the stable and honest foundation which has heretofore been lacking. . . . Please be assured of the continued and full coöperation of the air line pilots."

REV. RYAN DENIES HE DISCUSSED CHICAGO CHARITY

Published reports that an eminent Catholic sociologist had asserted that administration of public relief funds by the Catholic charities of Chicago "is a mistake" were declared false yesterday.

Such a statement was attributed to the Rt. Rev. John A. Ryan of Washington, D. C., by leaders of a conference on social service held under auspices of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in New York early this week.

Yesterday Msgr. Ryan, who is spokesman for the National Catholic Welfare association, declared the statement "utterly false." In a telegram sent from Washington he said that he "had never discussed" the matter.

Wins J. A. Patten Award for Shooting a Bandit

Edward Cohen yesterday was named as the February winner of the James A. Patten award of $100, granted each month to an Evanston policeman doing outstanding work. On Feb. 9 Cohen, in a pistol battle, wounded and captured James Putney of Cleveland, O., shortly after Putney and a companion had robbed R. B. McCoy, 7423 Stony Island avenue, of his automobile. Putney has since been indicted for robbery.

Sherif Tiffany Feted by Lake County Farmers

Sherif Lester Tiffany of Lake county was fêted in Antioch township last night by 200 farmer members of the Pure Milk association headed by Don Geyer, general manager, and Henry Pfister, Lake county director of the association. The sherif is a candidate for the Republican nomination for state representative from the 8th district.

LABOR BOARD ORDERS VOTE IN CASE CO. STRIKE

Racine, Wis., March 8.—(AP)—The federal regional labor board today announced that arrangements have been completed for an election March 19 at which striking employes of the J. I. Case company, which operates two plants here, will choose a bargaining committee.

Recommending that the 1,300 strikers go back to work Monday, the board called for a mass meeting at the Racine county worker's committee headquarters tomorrow to explain plans for settlement of strike demands, including higher wages and recognition of new federal unions. The strike is in its third week.

The election was ordered after the board conferred with L. R. Clausen, chairman of the board of the Case company, who agreed to coöperate. Clausen contended, however, that minority of the company employes who have refused to join the new union have the right under the NRA to establish a minority bargaining committee.

The labor board planned to continue its mediation efforts tomorrow in Kenosha where 2,000 Nash company employes are on strike. Settlement of strikes at the Nash company's Racine plant and the Seaman Body corporation of Milwaukee, an affiliate of the Nash company, also hinges on the outcome of this conference. More than 4,000 workers in the three plants have pooled their demands of higher wages, union recognition and seniority rights.

N. Y. TAX EXEMPT PROPERTY WORTH 4½ BILLIONS

New York, March 8.—[Special.]—In naming an advisory committee today to study tax exempt property and inequalities in taxation, Aldermanic President Bernard S. Deutsch issued figures showing that the total assessed valuations of tax exempt property in the city amounted to $4,689,803,389.

The committee is composed largely of real estate representatives who will consider ways and means of placing at least part of the property now exempt under taxation.

POLICEMAN TRIES GUN, AND SHOOTS HIMSELF IN HAND

Policeman Charles Beasley, 27 years old, of the Marquette station, accidentally shot himself in the left hand with his own service revolver last night in the home of neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Floramo, 456 West 25th place.

Beasley and his wife, Marie, who live at 463 West 25th place, were visiting the Floramos, and during the visit Beasley unloaded his revolver for Floramo's inspection. Then he laid the gun and cartridges on the table. He and Floramo left the room.

Returning a few minutes later, Beasley picked up the gun and in routine habit pulled the trigger. There was an explosion, and a bullet tore through his left hand. "I thought I had unloaded this gun," the policeman complained. He had, but his wife, during his absence from the room, had reloaded it without his knowledge.

MARCONI BLAMES "HUMAN GREED" FOR DEPRESSION

Defends Science and 'Its Offspring, the Machine.'

ROME, March 8.—(AP)—In defense of science and "its offspring, the machine," Guglielmo Marconi struck out tonight at "human selfishness" as one of the basic causes of the world crisis.

"The affirmation that science and the machine are responsible for the world crisis and unemployment must be definitly rejected," the famous inventor asserted in an address before Italy's most distinguished scientists in the Palazzo Venezia.

"Science and the machine have made it possible for man, with enormously reduced effort, still to have everything he needs for a life of comfort," he continued. "It is not the machine or science that have provoked the ills from which we suffer.

Science "Not a Luxury."

"We have been cheated of the advantages they have brought by a defective distribution of the wealth and resources Providence has given us in abundance, and above all by human selfishness.

"The time when science was considered a luxury and merely a spiritual satisfaction has passed.

"It is now generally recognized that the collaboration of science, industry, and national defense will give a nation industrial and commercial superiority in time of peace.

"In time of war it gives technical superiority, without which sacrifice, courage, and even heroism are often unavailing."

In the audience was Premier Mussolini, who showed his approval with emphatic nods as the inventor developed his subject. Marconi spoke before the National Research council, of which he is president.

The body was recently made the government's supreme technical institute. It is charged with investigating, coördinating, and improving the nation's complex activities socially and industrially and in the matter of armed defense.

Marconi delivered a lengthy report on the council's recent accomplishments and mentioned particularly as one of its achievements the getting together on short notice of "convincing proof of Italy's great scientific contribution to world civilization which I am to exhibit at the Chicago Century of Progress exposition."

Speaks of Cosmic Rays.

He declared that the expedition sent by the council last summer to Eritrea, the Italian possession in equatorial Africa, obtained definite proof that the rays are deflected by the earth's magnetic field.

This, he said, "confirms the opinion long sustained by Italian scientists and rejected by a majority of foreign scientists that the cosmic rays are electrically charged corpuscles.

"It also establishes the fact that the corpuscles are extra-terrestrial."

LAWYER FOR AID OF STAVISKY TRIES TO DROWN SELF

Rescued After Leap Into the Seine.

PARIS, March 8.—(AP)—The Stavisky scandal took another dramatic turn tonight with police revelations that Raymond Huber, a prominent lawyer connected with the investigation, had jumped into the Seine river.

The lawyer was rescued promptly and, little the worse for a ducking, was taken to a hospital. Police said they did not know the reason for his act. He was one of the counsel for a secretary of the late Serge Stavisky, one Romagnino, now in custody of the police.

The main police investigation centered in the Paris underworld, where detectives were looking for a man "in a putty-colored overcoat," believed to be the person who bought the knife found at the side of the slain Judge Albert Prince, key man in the $60,000,000 municipal bank scandal.

Last Seen in a Bar.

The man was reported last seen in a bar in Montparnasse. He was also reported to have visited several notorious dives in Montmartre the last few nights.

Police officials also indicated they were getting closer to the trail of the Stavisky jewels, which, like the slaying of Judge Prince, play an important part in the investigation of the Stavisky scandal.

Judge Prince was poisoned and stabbed with a knife on a train between Dijon and Paris. He had been lured to Dijon by a fake message that his mother was ill. Papers that he carried were of the greatest importance in his survey of the pawnshop case, and these were stolen, it was reported then.

Police since have sought the owner of the knife found at Prince's side. Today they were given a tip that a man with an overcoat described as of "putty color" bought the knife which was used in the murder, and a general hunt was ordered.

Search Criminal Haunts.

Detectives searched notorious haunts of criminals in various sections of the city and thought they would be able to find him soon.

The first official report on the casualties of the Feb. 6 rioting which resulted from the Stavisky scandal was issued today. It put the number killed at 18 and said the wounded totaled 2,291.

It was admitted that the figures are incomplete, but a report was requested by the parliamentary investigating committee and the known casualties were listed in that manner. Officials said many civilians were treated privately and that their number is unknown.

All the dead listed were rioters except one guard. The injured included 627 rioters, 969 policemen, and 695 guards, gendarmes, and firemen.

RUNS DOWN GIRL AND LOSES RIGHT TO DRIVE A CAR

Edward Galloway, 15 years old, son of Dr. Charles E. Galloway, 940 Private road, Winnetka, yesterday lost the right to drive a car for six months because he injured a Northwestern co-ed with his automobile Saturday night.

The injured girl is Miss Dorothy W. Munshaw, 19 years old, of Grand Rapids, Mich., a daughter of State Senator George Munshaw of Michigan. She is now in the university infirmary suffering from cuts, bruises and possible internal injuries.

Police records show that young Galloway's car struck Miss Munshaw as he was driving east into Church street from Orrington avenue, Evanston. Yesterday an Evanston probation officer heard the case and put the boy on probation for six months, specifying that he should not drive an automobile during that period.

LEAGUE ASKS U.S. FOR DETAILS OF ROOSEVELT PLAN

'New Deal' Seen as Basis for New World Parley.

GENEVA, March 8.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's program for economic recovery may be used as the basis for a new world economic conference, it was rumored in league of nations circles today.

The report came to light in connection with the appointment of Prof. Jacob Viner of the University of Chicago as a special adviser to Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr.

It was believed that Viner's selection, as well as the forthcoming visit of Richard Washburn Child, new American trade investigator in Europe, indicated that some conference or series of economic discussions might take place.

Asks U. S. for Details.

The league today requested the United States government to furnish full details of the Roosevelt public works program, together with its relation to a rsumption of economic activity and employment, considering that the information will form the basis for a valuable comparison over the world.

Some officials said they were confident that a new economic conference will soon take place, and it was hinted that the Roosevelt program might be suggested as a possible basis for at least part of the discussions.

League officials said Viner's appointment was of the "greatest importance." Viner, who has been making special investigations of the continent, has often been consulted by the league on economic and financial problems.

Sees "Steady Recovery."

Viner praised the efforts of the Roosevelt administration to lift the United States out of economic difficulties. He said that steady recovery seems to have set in.

He has been absent from the United States about a year and has a firm grasp on European problems.

International quarters here understand that he expects to propose certain economic parleys, but he made no statement on this matter. He said he was going to Washington "with an open mind."

"Still a Private Citizen."

Washington, D. C., March 8.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau said today Prof. Jacob Viner "is not acting for the treasury in any capacity" during his European sojourn.

"Prof. Viner is still a private citizen," the treasury head said.

On April 1 Viner is to take a treasury post as special adviser to Morgenthau on economic matters.

600 REBEL AGAINST NAZI DICTATORSHIP OF PROTESTANT CHURCH

BERLIN, March 8.—(AP)—A determination to stand together in refusing obedience to Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller was unanimously voted tonight by 600 pastors and laymen, bitter foes of the bishop's dictatorship in Protestant church affairs.

Calling themselves a "free synod," the dissidents approved resolutions declaring their adherence to holy writ alone, that the German Swastika emblem had nothing in common with the cross of Jesus, and that worshipping the god of the Nazi "world philosophy" was plain idolatry. They rejected as "heresy" a tenet of the Nazi German Christians that Christ rules only an invisible church.

Complaints were heard from country churchmen that those who dared to support their pastors in opposition to the Nazi Protestant régime were subjected to threats by local Nazi "bosses." It was also announced at tonight's meeting that Pastor Petersen of Lichterfelde had been suspended for praying in his church for "our misguided reichsbishop."

Eastern Seaboard Dons Another Coat of Snow

New York, March 8.—[Special.]—Spring doubled back around the corner today as the eastern seaboard donned another coat of snow. The section between New York and Virginia got the worst of it this time. New England, which had borne the brunt of the winter's worst storms, was almost unscathed. Today's storm swirled over New York City just before noon and continued until nearly 7 p.m. The total fall measured 1.4 inches.

It will be made without a stop. Between Plymouth and Penzance stops will be made at all stations for the delivery of newspapers.

COL. JOHNSTON TO BE BURIED AT ARLINGTON

San Antonio, Tex., March 8.—[Special.]—Fatally injured in a polo game, Col. Gordon Johnston, war hero, internationally known military horseman and one time orderly to the late Theodore Roosevelt, will be buried in Arlington national cemetery following funeral services here Monday.

Col. Johnston, 59, who was said to have been the only United States army officer to win all the highest awards for heroism in action, died in Fort Sam Houston hospital today. He was chairman of the midwinter polo tournament here and was playing with the San Antonio freebooters against the air corps polo team at the time of his injury yesterday. His pony tripped, fell and rolled upon Col. Johnston, crushing the rider's head and chest.

Served Under Roosevelt.

He was born in North Carolina, but received his first appointment as an army officer from Alabama. He is survived by his widow and his mother, who lives in Tennessee.

Graduated at Princeton university in 1896, Col. Johnston became a mounted orderly to Col. Roosevelt in the Spanish-American war. The most coveted military award, the Congressional Medal of Honor, was given Col. Johnston as a result of service in the Philippines in 1906. His war services extended through the world war.

Honored by Foreign Nations.

He was recipient of the distinguished service medal, distinguished service cross, Order of the Purple Heart and Silver Star medal. Foreign governments also decorated Col. Johnston. He graduated with honors at various service schools. He also served as executive officer at the Fort Riley [Kansas] cavalry school.

Col. Johnston attended the Royal Military academy at Hanover, Germany, and in 1911 was a member of the United States army officers' team in the international horse show at London. In 1910 he won the plaza cup for officers' chargers at international military competition in New York. He came to Fort Sam Houston as chief of staf of the Second division last November from Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

PLAYED POLO HERE.

Col. Johnston was stationed at Fort Sheridan in 1922 and was prominent in polo matches at Onwentsia and Fort Sheridan. That he was killed by a fall from a polo pony recalled to Frank Bering of the Hotel Sherman, also a polo player, that Col. Johnston once related at an Onwentsia dinner how his life had been saved by a pony's speed in carrying him to safety during the Filipino campaign.

Operation Saves Baby with Pea in His Lung

Harry Pelicane, 2 years old, 852 Waveland avenue, was operated on yesterday at the Children's Memorial hospital for removal of a pea which clogged the air passage to his right lung. The pea was removed with the aid of a bronchoscope. Unless pneumonia sets in, attending physicians said, the boy would recover.

EDITOR DIVORCES WIFE WHO FLED WITH PREACHER

Village Parson's Romance Buds in Quarantine.

Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady of the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan yesterday granted a divorce to Paul R. Schlottman of Grays Lake, on the ground of cruelty after testimony had been presented to show that his wife, Mrs. Grace Schlottman, had fled with the Rev. James Inglis, former acting pastor of the Grays Lake Congregational church.

Schlottman, who is publisher of the Grays Lake Times, also was awarded custody of his two children, Muriel, 11 years old, and John, 3 years old. The elder child is now with her father, but it was reported John is with his mother, supposedly in Chicago.

Suit Is Uncontested.

Schlottman said that he and his wife, who is about 38 years old, were married in February, 1918, and separated Jan. 21 of this year. He charged that she struck and kicked him on several occasions. The allegations of unfaithfulness were made in his effort to show Mrs. Schlottman an unfit person to have custody of the children.

He had been informed, the husband said, that his wife and the Rev. Mr. Inglis, who is about 28 years old, lived in the same flat in Chicago after Mrs. Schlottman left him. The minister had resigned his pastorate telling his parishioners he was going to Canada.

Quarantine Stirs Romance.

Following the hearing the publisher's attorney, Bernard Juron, said that a romance between Mrs. Schlottman and the Rev. Mr. Inglis began last October, when he by chance was quarantined in the Schlottman home after one of the children became ill.

It was not explained in court where Mr. Schlottman got his information as to the wife's whereabouts, nor was her address made known.

The minister, it was explained in Chicago, is not regularly ordained in the Congregational church, but was acting pastor on the invitation of the Graye Lake church. Also, it was said, he has no assignment to any church in the Chicago area. He had been in Grays Lake more than two years.

DILLINGER SEEN ON S. SIDE; POLICE SPUR MAN HUNT

Judge Orders New Inquiry on Jailbreak.

lieve that Dillinger may have shifted his hiding place from the north side because of the scores of police thrown into north side districts with instructions to shoot the bank robber on sight.

Corroboration was given to Deacon's story when several persons excitedly called to the police yesterday afternoon that Dillinger, with a woman at his side in an automobile, had been seen speeding past the Southmoor hotel at Stony Island avenue and 67th street. All available police squads were put to cruising in the district.

Find Evidence of Collusion.

The statement of Attorney Barce that definite evidence of collusion between Dillinger and certain prison employes had been uncovered was only one of the revelations yesterday in Crown Point. Barce indicated that additional arrests would be made soon. Ernest Blunk and Sam Cahoon, fingerprint expert and turnkey of the jail, respectively, have already been formally charged with aiding and abetting Dillinger in his escape.

At Indianapolis Philip Lutz Jr., Indiana attorney general, said his investigators at Crown Point had obtained evidence that Blunk locked a special guard in a cell last Saturday shortly before Dillinger escaped.

Lutz said that Matt Brown, 84 years old, one of the special guards placed around the jail when Dillinger was brought back from Tucson, Ariz., had testified before Assistant Attorney General Barce that Blunk led him down a jail corridor and locked a cell door on him "before I realized I had been decoyed into the cell." Brown was quoted by Lutz as saying Dillinger appeared in the corridor a few minutes later carrying a machine gun.

U. S. Authorities Investigate.

Federal authorities entered the investigation on orders of United States District Attorney James R. Fleming at Fort Wayne. He assigned an inspector to investigate Blunk's connection with the escape and pointed out that Blunk, whom Dillinger took with him in Sherif Lillian Holley's automobile at the time of the escape, might be prosecuted for violation of the Dyer act if it could be shown that he helped in the theft of the car.

The streets of the Indiana town swarmed with investigators, each conducting a private investigation of his own and regarding all others with dark suspicion.

There had been a general inclination to place all the blame on the shoulders of Sherif Holley, who was not a candidate for reëlection, but Judge Murray stepped into the picture in the afternoon. To the dismay of all, he discharged the grand jury investigating the case and ordered a new one impaneled for Monday morning.

Calls for Special Prosecutor.

Summoning Prosecutor Estill before him, Judge Murray announced his decision to discharge the grand jury, impanel a new one, and put in charge of a special prosecutor who would supplant Estill.

"The present grand jury could not properly investigate the escape," the judge told Estill. "The foreman, Clyde Rothermel, owns the garage from which Dillinger stole the sherif's car, and is the employer of Edward Sanger whom Dillinger kidnaped with him for a few hours. We need a prosecutor here of high renown and with no political ambitions."

When the prosecutor objected the judge stopped him.

"This will be a good thing for your interests also," he told Estill, "in view of the fact that you are a candidate for reëlection."

"You're putting me on the spot," complained the prosecutor.

"No, I'm not," returned the judge. "The special prosecutor will be one of whom you will approve."

Sherif Defended by Judge.

The judge and Estill, formerly the closest of friends, have been bitter enemies since the judge refused a few weeks ago to accede to Estill's petition that Dillinger be transferred to the Michigan City state prison. Since the escape the judge has been a stout defender of Sherif Holley.

"She employed Lew Baker, a responsible and reliable person, as warden," he commented yesterday. "She did her duty."

"This investigation has been prolonged for no good reason," the judge added.

Al Farb, an Indianapolis bondsman, yesterday informed police that he had received a letter, apparently written by Dillinger. The letter, scribbled in pencil, had been posted in Indianapolis Wednesday afternoon. It read:

"Tried to get in touch with you by phone, not in. Al, see ——— and ——— [two Indianapolis attorneys] and tell them to go to Chi, night clerk hotel, Van Buren and State. He will contact them with me. Tell him 11-18-28. That will be enuff. 7 grand planted. Need go-between. John D."

The police, who have samples of Dillinger's handwriting, said the letter had apparently not been written by him and expressed doubt concerning its genuineness.

Gun-Port for Bandit Hunters

Inspects Invention

Police Commissioner Allman yesterday inspected a new type of automobile gunport which the inventor, Carroll M. Smart of Detroit, hopes to install in all Chicago's police cars. The port is designed to be placed in the windshield of the car. Rifles, shotguns, or pistols may be used in connection with it and its construction is so arranged that the firer may have full safety—provided the windshields are of bullet proof glass—a rest for his weapon and a full field of fire. Smart pointed out that the device would do away with the necessity of policemen leaning out or riding on running boards to fire while in pursuit of criminals' cars.

PIERPONT JURY HEARS SON OF SLAIN SHERIF

Lima, O., March 8.—(AP)—Sherif Don Sarber, 24, son and successor of former Sherif Jess L. Sarber, today told on the witness stand how he found his father dying on the floor of the jail office and John Dillinger's cell empty.

Young Sarber was called as a state witness in the trial of Harry Pierpont, former pal of Dillinger, for the murder of the late Allen county sherif.

"Did he say anything?" Prosecutor Botkin asked.

"I asked dad if one of the men was Harry Copeland and gave him a general description. He said: 'I did not know any of the men. They were all big men.'"

Defense attorneys were attempting to show that Copeland, now held in the Michigan City, Ind., prison for bank robbery, was the man who shot Sarber.

Copeland was indicted for the murder of the sherif along with Pierpont, Russell Clark, and Charles Makley, but has not yet been returned here for trial.

Deputy Sherif Wilbur Sharp, who was locked up in the jail with Mrs. Sarber at the time of the raid, testified Copeland was one of the three men who came into the jail office posing as Michigan City officers and then shot the sherif. But he insisted that Pierpont was the man who shot Sarber.

"L" Train Kills Man, 72; Police Call Death Suicide

Fred Niekom, 72 years old, 2225 North Leclaire avenue, formerly a janitor at the First National bank, was killed by a Garfield Park train of the Rapid Transit lines at the Des Plaines avenue crossing in Forest Park early today. The police expressed the belief that Niekom had lain upon the track with suicidal intent. W. T. Levander, 4848 Barry avenue, motorman of the train, discovered the body. Niekom is survived by his widow and a daughter, Emily.

Filipino Severely Wounded After Quarrel Over Girl

Blanton Santos, 24 years old, 312 South Marshfield avenue, a Filipino, was shot and severely wounded early today by another Filipino after a quarrel over a girl. The quarrel started in a taxi dance hall at 513 North Clark street, and the shooting occurred in an alley in the rear. Santos was taken to Passavant hospital, where his condition was pronounced critical. Police started a search for his assailant and for the girl.

France to Limit Foreign Workers to Help Jobless

PARIS, March 8.—(AP)—The French government backed a plan today to shut out excess foreign workers in order to reduce unemployment. A tax was proposed for transient laborers who escape the income tax. Officials were told that 900,000 foreigners are working in this country while there are 200,000 Frenchmen unemployed and able to work.

"KILLER" SERVES YEAR, SET FREE AS WRONG MAN

Real Slayer Admits Indiana Crime.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 8.—[Special.]—Within two days Otis Turner, Sullivan county farmer, who has served almost a year of a life sentence for a murder he did not commit, will walk from Indiana state prison at Michigan City a free man.

Turner received a pardon from Gov. McNutt after members of state clemency commission expressed "the opinion that Otis Turner is innocent of the crime of murdering Andy Reedy and we recommend a pardon."

Andy Reedy and his son, Oral, were killed at their Sullivan county farm home during the presence of a group of farmers. Turner was convicted in May, 1933. The conviction was based on testimony of the widow of the elder Reedy and on deathbed statements of the two men, both of whom said Turner was the assailant.

Testimony before the clemency commission showed that the murder occurred on a dark night and that the only light Mrs. Reedy had was a kerosene lantern.

Frank Vanderpool, another farmer in the neighborhood, who is serving a life sentence, finally confessed he committed the murder.

Turner and five others were indicted for the murder. Turner was the first to be tried. When Vanderpool confessed he named eight other men who were at the Reedy farm the night of the murder.

ASKS HIGH COURT WRIT TO HALT '32 VOTE RECOUNT

A petition for leave to seek a writ of mandamus to compel County Judge Jarecki to expunge his order for a general recount of the ballots cast in Cook county in the election of November, 1932, was filed in the Illinois Supreme court yesterday. The petition was filed by John R. Donovan as "a taxpayer."

Judge Jarecki said that he did not known Donovan, nor what his interest is in the case. The order for the recount was entered Jan. 20 on the petition of a citizens' committee headed by Joseph W. Badenoch. Attorney Theodore Levin, representing another taxpayer, has filed petitions for writs of mandamus and prohibition before Judge James J. Kelly in the Superior court to halt the recount. Judge Kelly will rule on these petitions tomorrow.

Congressman Is Arrested for Striking Taxi Driver

Washington, D. C., March 8.—(AP)—Representative Francis H. Shoemaker [F.-L., Minn.] was arrested tonight on a charge of assaulting a taxicab driver. At police headquarters he posted $25 collateral for appearance tomorrow morning. The warant was issued two days ago after Newman had alleged that the Minnesota representative had struck him in a row at a traffic light.

Dillinger's Exploits Will Be Made Into Movie

Hollywood, Cal., March 8.—(AP)—A scenario dealing with the exploits of John Dillinger, notorious Indiana outlaw, and entitled "A Man Without a City" was advertised by a writer today in a film trade publication. Paramount studios already have announced they will produce a picture based on Dillinger's life.

CUMMINGS RAPS INDIANA SHERIF AND PROSECUTOR

Dillinger Escape Arouses Ire of U. S. Officials.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 8.—[Special.]—High federal officials, including Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, today showered Lake county, Ind., officials with bitter censure and held them responsible for the escape of John Dillinger, gangster and killer.

After Attorney General Cummings had called the treatment which Sherif Lillian Holley and Prosecutor R. G. Estill had afforded Dillinger disgraceful, the federal government ordered all of its prisoners temporarily held in the Crown Point, Ind., jail from which Dillinger fled, removed immediately to other lockups.

Holding up a newspaper photograph in which Dillinger was shown leaning chummily on Estill's shoulder and talking with Sherif Holley, Mr. Cummings launched voluntarily into a tirade against the two Indiana officials.

"Here is a man accused of two killings and large scale bank holdups," he rapped out, "who is captured by a common sense, intelligent sherif in Arizona. Then he is put into the hands of these people who seem to think that it is all right to have a picture like this taken.

"It is one of the most disgraceful episodes I know anything about. And now it all ends up in his escape. The negligence of these people may ultimately result in the death of some person who is trying to capture Dillinger or who runs afoul of him."

TRANSFER EIGHT PRISONERS.

Deciding that the Lake county jail at Crown Point, Ind., from which John Dillinger escaped could not be deemed a safe place of incarceration for federal prisoners, United States District Attorney James R. Fleming of the Indiana district yesterday requested that all federal prisoners there be transferred to some other prison.

Sanford Bates, superintendent of prisons, yesterday instructed United States Marshal A. W. Hosinski to take the eight federal prisoners at Crown Point to another jail.

Hosinski said he planned to take the prisoners either to the Gary, Ind., jail or to the St. Joseph county jail at South Bend.

FIVE SENTENCED TO PRISON FOR COUNTERFEITING

Five men pleaded guilty to charges of counterfeiting yesterday before Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone and were sentenced to prison terms ranging from two to seven years. Stanley Yezdick, Edward Barron, and Ralph T. Conway, who were arrested several weeks ago at 616 Belden avenue, confessed making bogus 50 cent pieces. Yezdick was sentenced to five years, Barron to three, and Conway was placed on probation. Robert Thompson, James Stewer, and Frank Ausch pleaded guilty to manufacturing counterfeit federal reserve notes. Thompson and Stewer were sentenced to seven years, and Ausch to two years.

Mobilize National Guard to Quell Mine Disorders

Birmingham, Ala., March 9—[Friday.]—(AP)—Three companies of Alabama National Guard were mobilized early today for patrol duty in the strike stricken areas of Walker county, where more than 4,000 coal miners have struck demanding the "check-off system." Sherif A. N. Barrentine of Walker county wired Gov. B. M. Miller yesterday after more than 200 miners, armed with guns and clubs, had marched on the Coal valley mines of the Debardeleben Coal company, in an effort to enlist workers there in the strike.

Owner of South Side Cafe Shot by Gunmen in Auto

Benjamin Tortorici, 42 years old, 7136 South Artesian avenue, was shot in the mouth last night as he was standing at the window of the Jungle café, 2401 Wentworth avenue, of which he is the owner. So far as police could learn gunmen riding by in a car sent four bullets crashing through the window and then got away. Tortorici was taken to Mercy hospital.

Market Owners Robbed of $500, Day's Receipts

Three robbers held up the two owners of the Star Kosher market, 3447 West Roosevelt road, early today and took from one of them $500, the day's receipts. The victims were Max Cohen, 1847 South Kominsky avenue, who gave up the money, and near whose home the robbery occurred, and Harry Levin, 1827 South Karlov avenue.

Conspiracy Trial Witness Tells of 40 Bombings in Cleaners Violence Reign

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Louis Hollman, owner of the Michigan Cleaners and Dyers, yesterday described to the jury in the racket conspiracy trial the strikes, bombings, acid throwings and other violence which he experienced as a result, he charged, of his refusal to join the Cleaners and Dyers' institute in 1931.

Hollman had several strikes in his plant at 1339 West 63d street, he testified. During 1931 the plant and the Checker Cleaning and Dyeing stores, retail outlets which he operated, were the scene of more than 40 bombings and acid throwings, prosecutors said.

Charged with Violence.

Hollman himself was charged the following year with participating in the reign of violence which characterized the cleaning and dyeing business. He was indicted on a charge of bombing the City Dye Works, a plant owned by Walter Crowley, one of the defendants in the case on trial, but was acquitted.

With Hollman's testimony, Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber and his assistants returned to description of affairs in the cleaning and dyeing industry, in which Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, University of Chicago economist, a defendant, was set up in 1931 as dictator of the cleaning and dyeing industry. Most of this phase of the prosecution's case was finished several weeks ago.

"Protection" Pay Related.

Hollman's story, as he told it yesterday, went back to 1929. In that year, he testified, he started paying Sam (Doc) Ginsberg, a Capone gangster who was indicted in the present case but is a fugitive, $50 a week as protection money.

He made the payments, he testified, when Ginsberg promised to protect him against the Master Cleaners and Dyers' association which Crowley headed, and against the alleged exactions of various union officers who also are defendants in the case. Two of these union agents, James P. Gorman, head of the Retail Tailors' union, and Ben Abrams of the Inside Cleaners' union, had cleaning and dyeing plants of their own.

Hollman stopped paying Ginsberg, he asserted, after Ginsberg had demanded that he sign the Squires contract as a member of the Cleaning and Dyeing institute. On one occasion Murray Humphreys, Al Capone's heir to control of Chicago rackets, came to his office with Ginsberg and made the same demand, he said. Humphreys is also a defendant in the case but a fugitive.

Violence Described.

Assistant Prosecutor Thomas G. Bugan then led Hollman through a description of the strikes and violence directed against Hollman as he persisted in his refusals to sign the Squires contract. First, however, there was a strike called in April, 1930, before the institute was formed, which lasted but one day.

Later, in 1930, Hollman said, he started in the overall cleaning business, a lucrative and specialized trade.

Hollman said that in February, 1931, he was called to Dr. Squires' office, where Dr. Squires, Crowley, and union officials demanded that he give up his overall business, join the Cleaners and Dyers' association, and pay 2 per cent of his receipts as dues, Hollman testified.

Tells of Nine Weeks' Strike.

On March 4, 1931, Hollman testified, a strike was started at his plant and lasted nine weeks. Abrams and Gorman, with other union officials, came to his plant the day it started and told him that he was foolish to fight them, and would lose his life savings, invested in his business, he said.

When he offered to "get together" with the union heads, he charged, Abrams refused unless he would join the institute. While the strike was in progress, he continued, he went to the office of Attorney Morris I. Kaplan, a defendant, who was attorney for the institute, and Kaplan urged him to "go along" and sign the contract.

Two weeks after that meeting with Kaplan, Hollman said, an explosion in a tumbler in which clothes were being cleaned in his plant ruined the clothing. Abrams and Gorman visited him late in May, 1931, and again urged him to join the institute. He refused, he said, and on June 3 suffered an explosion similar to the first. There was a third and similar explosion the next day, he declared.

Cites Acid Throwing Incident.

On Aug. 5, 1931, Hollman charged, he arrived at his plant and found that all the clothing in the place, between 5,000 and 8,000 pieces, had been splashed with acid which burned it so that the various garments, riddled with holes, had dropped from their hangers to the floor. Damage on that occasion was about $20,000, he said.

Ten days later, he testified vandals invaded six of his retail stores within two hours, and sprayed the clothing with acid.

Because of the repeated outrages, insurance companies refused to write any more policies for him, Hollman said. He testified that he met Crowley at a meeting of cleaners and dyers at a south side hotel in the summer of 1932, and that Crowley told him there that he could get his insurance back if he would join the Cleaners and Dyers institute.

Hollman also charged that Crowley tried to use the indictment charging him [Hollman] and his partner, Louis Williams, with a conspiracy to bomb Crowley's plant as a lever to force him into the Master Cleaners and Dyers association. Crowley made an offer to have the indictment dropped at a meeting in the office of Attorney Leonard Reid of Litsinger, Healy and Reid, Hollman charged.

Mentions Prosecutor Swanson.

Hollman said that he met Crowley again in the office of Attorney Joseph Lustfield shortly before former State's Attorney Swanson left office, and that Crowley told him there:

"You'd better hurry and join or we won't be able to take care of the indictment. I know John Swanson, and spoke for him before the election. He will quash this indictment against you."

Hollman refused to join, he said. Last July Judge Thomas J. Lynch ordered a directed verdict of not guilty for him and Williams when two alleged co-conspirators who had confessed refused to testify against them.

PREDICTS RUGGED INDIVIDUALISM'S RETURN IN U. S.

Urbana, Ill., March 8.—(AP)—Speaking at a program in honor of Dean C. M. Thompson of the University of Illinois, Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, tonight opposed the introduction of a planned economy in the United States and expressed conviction that the nation will return to "rugged individualism."

Col. McCormick was the principal speaker on the program in which Dean Thompson was awarded the distinguished citizen award of the Urbana Association of Commerce.

"There is no reason now," he said, "to introduce a planned economy in America such as America borrowed from Europe during the great war and which proved costl."

Col. McCormick told of the rise of "rugged individualism" and declared that despite coercion "we will return to the American way and proceed forward."

After telling of recent inventions Col. McCormick said that with the radio "we returned in government to the feudal ages of Henry VII. of England, for our congress has set up for the government of radio that same system of licensing that he invented for the control of printing before Columbus set out on his voyage to discover the continent of freedom.

"It is not too much to say," he continued, "that in our colonial period the lot of mankind was raised from the dark ages to the highest pinnacle it had ever reached, surpassing the achievements of the ancients. Men learned to aspire to be free and from being property to own property.

"Our adopted European methods for a planned society for the war period gave us only a bonded debt. The war is behind us, but the poison remains."

Other speakers who paid tribute to Dean Thompson for his educational, civic and business achievements included Dr. David Kinley, president emeritus; Prof. E. L. Bogart, Federal Judge Walter Lindley, and Supreme Justice Lott Herrick.

Shake off that laxative habit

Physicians Warn Against Irritating Drugs

Medicine-laxatives—no matter how pleasant tasting—can often do untold harm. For most of them work by irritating the delicate membranes of the digestive tract. Soon they lose their force—compel you to take more and more.

That's why more than 50,000 physicians recommend Pluto Water. For Pluto is not a drug or medicine-laxative but a saline mineral water. The same amount each time—no need to increase it—always performs, does not gripe, gives positive results in less than one hour. It cannot give you the laxative habit!

Pluto Water is gentle—but speedy. It promptly opens the pylorus valve — permitting the flush to enter the intestines without anxious hours of waiting.

The proper dilution—one-fifth glass Pluto in four-fifths glass hot water — is practically tasteless. Take it whenever sluggish—get results within an hour—and end that laxative habit! In two sizes: Splits (8 ounces), 25c—large bottles (3 times the quantity), 50c. At all druggists.

NAME BANGHART KIDNAPER; TRIAL MOVES SWIFTLY

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

Two renegades from the once terrible Touhy gang went to the stand before Judge Walter P. Steffen yesterday to help send their former pal, Basil Banghart, to prison or the chair for kidnaping the wealthy speculator, John Factor.

In his opening statement of what promises to become one of the swiftest criminal trials on record Prosecutor Wilbert F. Crowley briskly demanded death for Banghart. He was followed by Defense Attorney William Scott Stewart, who, with equal alacrity, asserted Banghart had not abducted Factor. Thereupon, with express train speed, the state began calling its witnesses.

Defendant Looks On in Surprise.

The owlish eyed defendant looked on in mild surprise as the Touhy deserters, James Wagner and William [Buck] Henrichsen, placed him almost squarely on the scene of Factor's abduction last July from the Dells, a Morton Grove roadhouse. Henrichsen, a former county highway policeman, who quit the sheriff's service six years ago to become Roger Touhy's bodyguard, was the most telling of the two witnesses.

He placed Banghart in one of the Touhy cars that pulled away from Wagner's roadhouse north of Des Plaines the evening of June 30, six hours before Factor was seized as he left the Dells gaming tables. He placed him a half dozen times during the next two weeks at the house where Factor will later testify he was held and tortured in the basement.

Collects Factor Ransom.

And, to cap it all, he put Banghart with himself and four other Touhyites at Wolf road and 22d street the afternoon of July 12, where they exchanged Factor's watch charm for $70,000 handed them by a physician friend of the speculator, with a promise to turn their prisoner loose that evening.

In proof of his purpose to tell the truth, "the whole truth and nothing but the truth," Henrichsen admitted Roger Touhy had given him $1,000 of the ransom. Forthwith, he said, he took his family first to Minnesota, then to Tennessee, and was known henceforth as Wallace Gordon or W. Gustafson.

He told all this with a terrible fear in his eyes and a lump in his throat. For with Banghart and himself at the payoff scene, he put two Touhyites still at large, Charles "Ice Wagon" Connors and Frank [Porky] Dillon, against whom he will be required to appear after their arrest—unless they get him first. He and his family are now living under police guard at state expense at the Carolan hotel, as are several other state witnesses, he testified.

"I knew my life wasn't worth a nickel and it isn't now," he said under cross-examination by Attorney Stewart.

Chews Gum and Smiles.

The blond young Banghart, with the cavernous eyes and sunken cheeks of an Egyptian mummy, chewed gum and smiled, reflecting, perhaps, on some of his past exploits. He had testified as a defense witness at the recent trial of Roger Touhy, Albert Kator and Gus Schaefer that he had once "left the South Bend jail without permission with a machine gun that happened to go off, hurting a policeman."

They were a peaceful, home-loving crowd, the Touhys—prior to the Factor kidnaping, Henrichsen's preliminary examination indicated. The boys would cover "the district" all day in cars with machine guns in their laps, returning home to their wives and fireside radios. He was on the pay roll at $40 a week, guarding Roger Touhy and his three youngsters.

Crowley directed his attention to the evening of last June 30, some hours before the Factor kidnaping at 1:30 o'clock the following morning. Had the witness seen Banghart that evening?

"Yes, at Jim Wagner's roadhouse." the witness gulped nervously. "He and Roger and Al Kator and Gus Schaefer and Connors and Jimmy Tribbles drove away around 9:30 p. m."

"Had you rented two houses for Roger Touhy prior to that?" A.—Yes, one in Park Ridge and another at Fern and Elm streets, Glenview.

Q.—Did you see Banghart or any others you have named at either of these houses the next two weeks? A.—Yes. I saw them all on one occasion or another. I remember seeing Banghart on July 10 at the Park Ridge house. He was living at 302 Center street, near by.

Crowley directed his attention to July 12, on the evening of which Factor was released. Had he seen Banghart or any of the others heretofore mentioned on that day? Henrichsen cleared his throat and with great effort began speaking. Immediately he brought in the name of Joe Silvers, reputed employé at the Dells and alleged "finger man" in the Factor snatching.

Go to Touhy's Home.

"I saw Joe Silvers at the Dells," he said. "We went to Roger's home. Roger said to watch our step. We drove out on the Wolf road to a point near 22d street.

Q.—Who was along? A.—Banghart, Kator, Schaefer, Connors, and I was riding with Tribbles. We picked up a Checker cab which stopped. A man got out and handed Tribbles a package wrapped in newspapers. Tribbles handed the man a watch charm.

The prosecutor started to interrupt with a question, but Henrichsen raced on, determined to get the damaging evidence off his chest in this one effort.

"The man said something about when 'Jake' would be turned loose—Tribbles said to tell Mrs. Factor he would be back that night—then Tribbles turned to me and said: 'Duck.' We pulled away."

Q.—When did you next see Roger Touhy? A.—Next day. He gave me $1,000 to buy a car.

Q.—You testified earlier that your salary was $40 a week—did he owe you any salary at the time? A.—No, sir.

Wagner Less Flustered.

The bald, pink faced Wagner was less flustered than Henrichsen, but showed considerable apprehension on the stand. He testified having frequently seen Banghart in company with Roger Touhy and the others and on the evening of June 30 saw them all drive away with machine guns in their cars.

His wife was called to corroborate his testimony. Both are among the state guests at the Carolan hotel with Henrichsen, it transpired.

On cross-examination Wagner perked up to do what he could for Banghart and the Touhys without incurring Crowley's wrath by committing perjury. He said that neither on June 30 nor any other evening had he heard Banghart, Roger Touhy, Kator, or Schaefer ever mention Factor's name or discuss a kidnaping. Touhy, Schaefer and Kator, convicted of the abduction recently before Judge Feinberg, are now serving 99 year sentences at Joliet.

Prosecutor Crowley set the pace at yesterday's session of the trial by taking only twenty minutes for his opening statement. Attorney Stewart bettered that record by condensing his opening statement into fifteen minutes.

Rella Factor, the speculator's handsome wife, was the first witness on the stand. She was calm this time, for her testimony was already a twice told tale, which she had repeated at two previous Touhy trials.

Questioned by Mr. Crowley, she told of the party at the Dells, the gayety of which ended when a group of men in white shirts and straw hats stopped the car in which she was riding, poked a machine gun in the window and told her "to keep her head down."

"Did you get a look at the man with the machine gun," inquired Crowley. She assented.

"Is this the man?" handing her a photograph of Willie Sharkey, another of the Touhy group, who hanged himself in the St. Paul county jail following acquittal of the group on charges of William Hamm and before the Factor trials opened here.

Mrs. Factor said there was no question the photo was that of the kidnaper she had seen. She then described the ransom negotiations, her receipt of a six page letter from her husband pleading that she raise $70,000 and her raising of the sum.

Stewart's cross-examination was perfunctory.

TWO BOMBING RING SUSPECTS WILL GO BEFORE COURT TODAY

George Patris, secretary of the Restaurateurs of Illinois, and John Poulos, a restaurant owner, held in connection with an investigation into the activities of a bomb ring, will be arraigned in the Felony court this morning on charges of being accessories in a bombing.

Formal charges were placed against them last night by Assistant State's Attorney James A. Brown in keeping with a promise made earlier in the day to Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court to book them by today. The chief justice then dismissed a habeas corpus petition filed for the two men.

Four other men are being held for investigation in the bombing inquiry. They are Frank Currin and Harry Fitzel, whose reported confessions involved the others; William [Bunny] Walters, and John Eborich, the latter a hardware merchant, suspected of having aided in making bombs. Mrs. Sophie Svirsky, owner of a saloon at 669 West 18th street, is also being held. Her case will come up in court on March 22.

NEW CLEWS LINK FRANKIE POPE TO PAROLE RACKET

Girl and Two Men Quizzed at Inquest.

Additional clews indicating that Frankie [West Side] Pope was engaged in undercover transactions designed to assist prisoners in federal penitentiaries to parole were gained yesterday during and after the inquest into the death of Pope, who was shot and killed Wednesday in his room in a hotel at 758 West Jackson boulevard.

The star witness at the inquest was Miss Goldie Greenberg, a plump, dark haired girl who described herself as a saleslady in Dan Drexler's hot dog stand at Maxwell and Halsted streets. She was with Pope in a restaurant at 13 South Halsted street a few hours before the killing.

Girl and 2 Questioned.

Her statements on the stand were so indefinite and evasive that Deputy Coroner Jacob Schwebel ordered that she be taken into custody of the police. Drexler and Evangelo Pavlatos, owner of the rendezvous restaurant, also were taken to the Desplaines street police station for questioning.

There Miss Greenberg told Capt. Patrick Collins that Pope some months ago appealed to her for help in obtaining a job for one Robert Burke, alias Paul Stitch, a counterfeiter whom Pope was endeavoring to get out of Leavenworth penitentiary on parole.

Pointing out that it would be necessary for Burke to have a job awaiting him before he could get out on parole, Pope asked the girl to appeal to her father, David, who operates a leather business at 3425 West 16th street, to give him a job. The father, Miss Greenberg said, refused to have anything to do with the case.

Leaves Prison, Gets Job.

However, Burke left the penitentiary and did go to work for him at $14 a week, she averred. Later he left the job and the police have been unable to find him.

Drexler and Pavlatos could not or would not tell anything of value to the investigators. They, like the girl, professed to be unable to identify the killers of Pope from pictures shown them by the police. Both were released after questioning. In view of the slim evidence adduced, Deputy Coroner Schewel continued the inquest to March 22.

James Belcastro, long known as "king of the Chicago bombers," a suspect in the case, surrendered at the Des Plaines street station last night. None of the witnesses could identify him as having been with Pope and he was released.

An inquest yesterday into the killing of Daniel Losce, who was shot to death the same day as Pope in front of 2252 South Ashland avenue, was also continued to March 22.

TELL THRILLING RESCUE STORY; SAVE 61 AT SEA

Chicago Family on Ship in Crash.

New York, March 8.—[Special.]—A dramatic story of how 61 men had to remain an hour aboard a sinking ship in the fear that its cargo of frightened cattle might swamp the lifeboats was told here today.

Capt. Allan Murray of the British freighter Concordia, related it when he and his men were rescued by the Black Diamond freighter Black Eagle, which took them off just before their ship sank Monday near Sable island.

"I hesitated to launch the boats because a number of the cattle had fallen into the sea," the captain said. "Swimming cattle would be certain to swamp the lifeboats, so I waited about an hour aboard ship before putting out the boats."

Story Differs.

But some of the seventeen cattlemen in the hold when the crash came told a different story.

They said it was caused by the fact that the lifeboats were hard to launch. They had been "painted in" the chocks and some of them were stove in as the crew tried to free them.

The Black Eagle rammed the Concordia amidships in the fog and then stood by.

Chicagoans See Rescue.

Interested spectators of the rescue were the five Jonkers children returning aboard the Black Eagle with their mother, Mrs. Louise Jonkers of Chicago, from a visit to Holland.

There was one passenger aboard the Concordia. He was William [Bud] Fisher, being deported from Canada to Scotland.

The Black Eagle's bow was shattered and it got into port in Weehawken with its forepeak full of water. It carried a general cargo and $1,500,000 worth of gold bullion from Holland and a consignment of whisky.

EXPERTS DIFFER ON EFFECT HERE OF NEW BEER BILL

Mayor Says Chicago Can Halt Bar Sales.

There was some difference of opinion among legislative experts yesterday upon the effect in Chicago of the Devine amendment to the state liquor control law, which would allow municipalities to license the sale of beer over the bars. The amendment has passed both houses of the legislature and now is awaiting action by Gov. Horner.

Mayor Kelly, Corporation Counsel Sexton, and the latter's first assistant, Leon Hornstein, asserted that since Chicago does not have separate beer licenses, the sale of beer will not be permitted over bars here. They said that the amendment would merely give the right to cities to permit the sale of malt beverages over bars.

Arthur S. Smith, chairman of the state liquor commission, and Dewitt Billman, head of the legislative reference bureau at Springfield, who helped to prepare the amendment, placed a different interpretation on the bill. Smith said that unless Gov. Horner vetoes the Devine bill any licensed tavernkeeper in Chicago may sell beer at his bar.

Need Special Ordinance.

In a telephone conversation with Chairman Smith Billman took the position that, while the Devine bill would give tavernkeepers the right to sell beer over bars, the city could change this by the enactment of an ordinance forbidding it.

These expressions were given while the bill was being prepared for presentation to Gov. Horner at Springfield. Indications were that the governor probably would veto the measure. Cook county legislators predicted yesterday that the bill would be passed over the governor's veto.

"Chicago has a single standard license for the sale of both liquor and beer," the mayor said in explaining his interpretation of the measure. "This being true, the Devine bill will not affect this city. If we issued two licenses, one for beer and one for liquor, it would be a different matter.

Would Cut City Revenue.

"Were that the case I believe that the bill would cut in half the city's anticipated $4,000,000 revenue from liquor licenses. Everybody outside the loop where they would be directly under the eyes of the police would buy the cheaper beer license and then cheat on the side by also selling spirits.

"My understanding of the Devine bill is that it was designed, initiated, and put over by the small town downstate drys. I presume the Chicago legislators simply went along on the program the downstaters wanted.

"The small towns want beer but no liquor and the amendment will allow them to set up a license which will give them what they are trying to get. Also in the small towns the officials will be able to prevent cheating on beer licenses."

The opinions obtained from the corporation counsel and from Mr. Hornstein were somewhat more guarded than the mayor's statements. Both said that they "doubted very much" whether the Devine bill would change conditions for liquor sales in Chicago.

Plans Strict Enforcement.

Mayor Kelly promised strict enforcement of the liquor control laws and gave his ideas of what the public demands in the new tavern to eliminate the evils of the old saloon.

"I invite anybody to submit evidence of violations to me," he declared, "and I'll take away every license where the evidence justifies such action."

The mayor defined the modern saloon as a place with an open front, no back doors, no curtains, stalls, or booths, which enforces closing hours, and does not sell liquors to intoxicated persons or minors.

Liquor Show Guest

A recommendation that winemakers and wholesalers sell their wares through retail channels that are not connected with the distribution of hard liquors was made yesterday by Paul Garrett, president of one of the large wine companies, in a speech at the National Wine and Liquor Dealers' convention at the Hotel Sherman.

There should be special wine parlors, he said, in which the hard stuff would not be sold. He added that the appeal of the wine men should be to the housewife rather than to the saloonkeeper.

A dinner of the wine and liquor dealers was held in the hotel last night. Among the speakers were Edwin C. Lowry, attorney for the federal alcohol control administration; Baron William von Mumm of Rheims, producer of famous French wines; Arthur S. Smith, chairman of the Illinois liquor control commission, and L. A. Rothberger. Mr. Lowry stressed in his talk the fact that stability and order are coming out of the confusion that followed the repeal of prohibition.

BOY, 5, KILLED, 4 OTHERS HURT IN AUTO CRASH

A 5 year old boy was killed and two girls and two men were injured last night when their automobile was struck and overturned by another car at Paulina and Walton streets. The second machine was also overturned. Its four unidentified occupants fled on foot.

The boy killed was Walter Stetz Jr. of 1340 Hervey street. Those hurt and the injuries they suffered were Walter Stetz, 35, father of the boy, possible skull fracture; Tony Stetz, 27, of 1826 North Mansfield avenue, brother of the elder Stetz, right leg fractured; Dolores Stetz, 6, daughter of Tony Stetz, possible skull pracfure; and Mildred Durlak, 17, of 1821 North Hermitage avenue, pelvis fracture. They were taken to St. Mary's hospital.

Witnesses said that the Stetzes and the Durlak girl were proceeding north in Paulina street when their car was knocked over by the other machine, which was traveling west in Walton street. Police were unable to trace the license on this car. The Stetz boy's death raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to 226.

RUSSIA TO DEPORT 11 FOREIGNERS SEIZED AS SPIES

MOSCOW, March 9.—[Friday.]—(AP)—Abandoning a public trial, Soviet secret police have ordered the deportation of 11 foreigners employed by the Controll company, arrested on charges of economic espionage, sabotage and arson. It was said in authoritative quarters that the men will be released within a few days from prisons where they have been confined incommunicado since their arrests last January.

The Controll company, nominally a German firm identified as a branch of the Societe Generale des Surveillances of Geneva, Switzerland, is engaged in certifying exports from Russia to principal ports of the world.

LABOR REVOLT GROWS IN CUBA; REPORT 17 DEAD

Telephone Strike Adds to Disorder.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, March 8.—Seventeen persons were reported killed and a large number wounded in labor disorders in Cuba today as a result of increasing feeling against President Carlos Mendieta.

The deaths, according to dispatches from the interior, occurred in clashes with troops and police at Bayamo, Gibara and Antilla in Oriente province; at Camaguey, where soldiers charged a communist protest parade, and at Cienfuegos, Santa Clara province. In Gibara and Cienfuegos mobs attacked the local government offices.

Violence Follows Strikes.

Minor clashes between strikers and soldiers were recorded in Matanzas and Pinar del Rio provinces. The violence followed many walkouts which have assumed the proportions of a general strike throughout the island.

The tensity of the situation increased when 800 employés of the American owned Cuban Telephone company struck at noon in Havana today, supporting the dock workers. As a result the island's communication system was seriously hampered. Employés of buses, bakeries and meat markets will strike tomorrow. The tobacco manufacturing industry, Cuba's second largest, is almost completely paralyzed. It is expected that all transportation workers will be on strike by Saturday.

President Carlos Mendieta and Chief of Staf Col. Fulgencio Batista announced tonight that the government will not hesitate to adopt drastic measures to save the country from anarchism or communism.

Troops Leave for Trouble Zone.

Five troop trains left Havana tonight for the trouble zones in Oriente and Camaguey provinces. Two artillery battalions were sent from Camp Columbia to the hill regions of Oriente where bands of rebels infest the Sierra Maestra mountains. The rebels are systematically destroying valuable coffee, cacao and cane plantations.

Meanwhile the labor organizations which were dissolved by presidential decree have formed a "united front against Mendieta." They maintain he has "sold the right of the Cuban proletariat to attain independence from Wall street to Washington in exchange for its unconditional support" and the continuance in Cuba of the "Yankee imperialist policy of the dollar."

SPAIN TO STRIKE AT EXTREMISTS; RIOTING FEARED

Socialists in Madrid Fight Fascists.

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, March 8.—Having equipped itself with wide powers under a "state of alarm" declaration yesterday, the government tonight decided to take drastic action against extremist organizations, both right and left. Authoritative sources said that headquarters of the anarchistic National Labor federation, together with the largest Fascist organization and the Socialist youth organization will be closed at once.

This decision is likely to have serious repercussions, especially in anarchist quarters. The National Labor federation alone claims 400,000 members.

The Spanish phalanx of young Primo de Rivera, son of the late dictator, also is likely to cause trouble.

Fear Violence in Madrid.

In addition precautions will be taken against violence tomorrow when 15,000 metal workers of Madrid will go on a strike. At the present 30,000 construction employés are idle.

That trouble is brewing was indicated today when Socialist and Fascist bands clashed in the capital. Eight men were injured, one seriously, before police broke up the fight.

Two bombs exploded in Madrid several hours later. One damaged an electric transformer. Strikers attempted to burn a store in a Madrid suburb.

Meanwhile dispatches from Bilbao said eight persons were injured there in a clash between Socialist extremists and Fascists.

Plots Military Coup in Cell.

Threats of a military coup d'état to impose a dictatorship came today from Cadiz, traditional center of military conspiracy, and were brought to the capital tonight by the left Republican paper, Heraldo de Madrid.

Gen. Jose Sanjurjo, imprisoned leader of the abortive August rebellion, is said to be completing plans for the uprising in his cell in the fortress of San Catalina at Cadiz. The general is not the only center of activity at the fortress. Preparations are being made for the coup by army officers, the paper claims. Weapons and ammunition have been taken from armories and stacked in the officers' mess halls. Raw recruits, who ordinarily do not handle rifles for several months, are being put through musket drill eight days after they enlist.

Friends of Sanjurjo, says the Heraldo report, are confident the general will be in power before the month is over. He has completed his cabinet list which includes four generals. They are monarchists and were prominent supporters of the De Rivera dictatorship.

Count's Home Raided.

BARCELONA, Spain, March 8.—(AP)—Posing as special police agents, five men gained entrance to the palatial home of Count Sert tonight and walked out with several thousand dollars' worth of silver and jewelry. One wore the uniform of an assault guard.

Count Sert is a brother of the Catalonian painter, Jose Maria Sert, who is almost as well known in New York as the Sert mansion is known in Barcelona.

The five men entered explaining they had been assigned to search the house following upon reports that arms and ammunition were hidden there. They also intimated the count was involved in a revolutionary plot against the government.

One of the burglars guarded the countess in an upstairs room while the others searched the house. The count himself was absent. When they had finished they apologized to the countess for disturbing her, walked out with all the transportable things of value they could find, loaded them into the count's automobile and drove off.

SHE ATE ALL-BRAN TWELVE YEARS WITH FINE RESULTS

Delicious Cereal Relieves Constipation

Read this very enthusiastic letter:

"Something like eleven or twelve years ago, I began eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. When I started, it was simply called Kellogg's Bran, and I believe it was one of the first products of the kind on the market.

"My friends often laugh at my fondness for ALL-BRAN. It gives such a clean taste in the mouth, and I do not feel satisfied until I have had my ALL-BRAN.

"If the Kellogg Company should ever stop manufacturing ALL-BRAN, here is one who would be greatly disappointed."—Miss Amy Person, University Park, Iowa.

Science says that ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regularity. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. How much safer than taking patent medicines—often harmful. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily for most types of constipation. For serious cases, try it three times daily. If not relieved this way see your doctor.

DRAFT NEW PLAN TO AID SCHOOLS; READY TUESDAY

Expected to Win Support of G. O. P.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 8.—[Special.]—With the lower house wrangling and apparently no nearer a solution, the senate took the question of school legislation into its own hands today. A committee of 10 senators was dispatched to confer on the matter with Gov. Horner.

The upshot of the discussion was that a program favored by the administration and also supported by Republicans will be whipped into shape by Tuesday afternoon and passed by both houses with breakneck speed during the week. This is the plan unless somebody upsets the apple cart.

Graham Heads Committee.

The special committee, headed by Senator Richey V. Graham [Dem., Chicago, president pro tem. of the senate, discussed mainly a partial diversion of the gasoline tax to the state's common school fund. The annual appropriation for this fund is now $10,500,000 of which Chicago gets about a third, or $3,200,000.

Senator Graham said that one plan would be to take a quarter of a cent each from the gas tax share of the state, county and city governments, and add a quarter of a cent to the tax. The cent on each gallon thus obtained would go to the schools. The increase in the common school fund by this means was estimated at $10,000,000.

Under the present law the three governments receive 1 cent each of the 3 cent gas tax.

"If the plan of diverting part of the gas tax can't be agreed upon Tuesday," said Senator Graham, "we will explore the possibility of apportioning a part of the sales tax, so much of it each month for the support of the public schools."

Defeat May Bring New Tax.

If the state should end the year with a deficit under the sales tax diversion plan, Graham said, the next regular session of the general assembly convening in January, 1935, would probably be called upon to vote a new tax.

It was a sales tax diversion for schools bill that precipitated the appointment of the senate committee. This was the measure introduced in that body yesterday, providing that the first $2,500,000 of sales tax collections would be earmarked for the state's general revenue fund each month and the remainder placed in the school fund. After a brief discussion the bill was held on second reading and the committee was sent to confer with the governor.

It was said that the bill introduced in the lower house by Representative Thomas P. Sinnett [Dem., Rock Island], majority leader, providing for gas tax diversion, might be amended to facilitate action next week.

This measure would transfer two-thirds of the city's share and one-third of the country's to the school fund.

Revision of School Laws.

Just before the house adjourned it passed a resolution proposing a complete revision and new codification of the school laws of Illinois. The resolution, proposed by Sinnett, provides for the appointment of a commission to complete the task and report back to the next regular session of the legislature.

The commission would consist of three members of the house appointed by the speaker, three members of the senate named by the lieutenant governor, and three prominent educators appointed by the governor.

Considerable merriment was occasioned over the introduction of a bill to transfer state revenues received from the pari-mutuel wagering at the race tracks from the agricultural premium fund to the common school fund.

A bill sponsored by the Chicago Teachers' federation providing that a $5,800,000 debt of the educational fund to the working cash fund of the school board would not have to be appropriated for this year was advanced to third reading in the house.

Both houses adjourned to meet again at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Watchman Slays Prowler; Two Companions Escape

An unidentified prowler was shot and killed last night by James Daughenbaugh, 1131 South Sacramento boulevard, a watchman, in the building of the Consolidated Freight company at 3241 Shields avenue. The prowler was about 21 years old and poorly dressed. He was surprised with two other men in the rear of the plant. When Daughenbaugh called upon them to surrender they rushed upon him and he fired one shot. The bullet struck the youth in the abdomen. The two other prowlers escaped.

This Is Home for a Humming Bird

SPEED BUDGET TO GET FUNDS TO PAY TEACHERS

Push Move to Sell Bonds to U. S.

The board of education took action yesterday to bring about the payment of back salaries to Chicago's school teachers and to adopt the 1934 school economy budget.

A special meeting of the school trustees was called for this afternoon by James B. McCahey, president of the board, to receive drafts of the tentative economy budget. Hope of paying teachers by the sale of tax anticipation warrants depends on adoption of the budget, which must be passed before the warrants can be issued. Estimates submitted by school department heads call for a total appropriation of $71,242,610.

At the same time, Richard S. Folsom, school board attorney, who had returned from Springfield in the morning, left a few hours later for Washington where he will continue his campaign to sell $40,000,000 worth of school bonds to the federal government in order to give the teachers their back pay.

Would Pledge Property.

The plan, conceived by Mayor Kelly, is to pledge 30 million dollars worth of school property, not used for educational purposes, as additional collateral for the bond sales. Enabling legislation authorizing the school board to pledge the property has been passed by the state legislature.

Mr. Folsom will confer with Senators James Hamilton Lewis and William H. Dieterich of Illinois concerning the progress of the bill introduced in congress by Congressman A. J. Sabath which would empower the Reconstruction Finance corporation to purchase bonds of a school district that can offer collateral such as Chicago's school board is able to provide.

"One of the purposes of my trip is to find out what the hearings before the various committees have developed in the way of information on the number of other school districts that might qualify for the loan," Mr. Folsom said. He added that a survey of various school districts over the country now in progress by the board of education shows so far that fewer than five school districts "are in the same advantageous position that Chicago is." The results of the survey, when completed, will be presented in Washington.

School Trustee Irwin N. Walker, who is an attorney, will join Folsom in Washington tomorrow.

Depends on "Pegged Levy."

The special board session on the school budget was ordered by Mr. McCahey in the expectation that Gov. Horner would sign the "pegged tax levy" measure that was adopted on Wednesday by the senate. The tentative estimates drawn up by Harry Brackett, school auditor and his assistant, R. L. Douglas, are based on the revenue which will be provided with the adoption of this measure. The bill by fixing the tax rates would insure a revenue for the school educational fund of $44,000,000 for 1933 and $43,000,000 for 1934. [The difference between the amount of the educational fund and the total school budget is accounted for by the fact that appropriations must be made for several other funds the largest of which is the building fund.]

It was reported from sources close to the school board that the trustees would not favor any further reduction in teachers' salaries. The teachers and other school employés received a 23 per cent cut last year. Unpaid salaries due the teachers and other employés total approximately 29 million dollars, while unpaid bills amount to more than $5,250,000, according to Howard Savage, school business manager.

MYSTERY MURDER VERDICT.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of murder by persons unknown at an inquest into the death of Joseph Smith, 24 years old, 5016 South Union avenue, who was shot down Feb. 27 at 64th street and Lowe avenue.

VAST ECONOMIC PROGRAM FOR STATE OUTLINED

Ten Point Plan Ready for Legislature in January.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 8.—[Special.]—A vast program for the social and economic future of Illinois, and recommendations to make it effective, will be ready for submission to the legislature next January, Director Robert Kingery of the department of public works revealed today. The financial "angle" of the survey now being conducted is the federal PWA and work is going forward with the blessing of Public Works Administrator Ickes and the national planning board.

Data on 10 topics, broad in scope, is being collected by a staf of 65 persons and when they are through the Illinois planning commission hopes to be able to tell the general assembly whither the state is heading and the best way to get there, if there is a way of beating human nature and the flora and fauna.

Here's Outline of Program.

1. Preparation of a general zoning plan for the land of Illinois.
2. Investigation of the present agricultural trend with the view of perfecting the present policy.
3. Reconnaissance of the state park sites to carry forward an "aggressive" plan for state-wide recreation.
4. Extension of state forests, fish, and game reservations.
5. Definite plans for controling water levels, cleaning streams, repairing levees, building or abandoning dams.
6. Rapid elimination of stream pollution by municipalities and industrial plants.
7. Plans for improving or abandoning sections of the secondary and tertiary roads of Illinois.
8. Investigation toward making the best possible use of military and naval reservations in the state.
9. Future needs of public welfare institutions "where additional lands or revision of the present land and building utilization are needed."
10. Mapping of those sections of Illinois which have not been mapped by the U. S. geological surveys.

U. S. Pays Cost of Survey.

Since Jan. 1 the staf has been busy collecting data for the report, under the direction of H. L. Kellogg of Chicago, who has established headquarters in the administration building of the west park system. Chairman Kingery of the commission said that the federal grant of about $60,000 has enabled the commission to obtain expert field investigators, draftsman, zoning experts, and engineers, through the CWA, who are proving highly valuable. The state will not contribute to the survey save for stationery, mailing costs, and incidental expenses.

Mr. Kellogg is not yet ready to present his conclusions to Chairman Kingery, but the latter has been informed of one or two situations which will be embodied in the report. One of these contained the opinion that erosion on the southern one-third of the state—the hilly sections—has rendered much of the soil unfit for the production of heavy grains, rainfall having washed away the rich top loam. In their stead, truck farming and orcharding may possibly be adopted.

Result of Horner's Address.

Or, as Chairman Kingery theorized today, the legislature may suggest that farmers in the more barren regions move to state owned lands farther north where production is greater. This plan was suggested because of the reversion to the state of tax delinquent lands.

Clear title to this tax delinquent land will be another topic in the commission's report to the assembly. The investigators have reported that the question of whether counties or the state owns the land is not clear and it may be necessary to ask for additional legislation.

The commission came into existence as a result of a section in Gov. Horner's inaugural message suggesting that Illinois "take stock of its natural resources, look into the trend of industry, of agriculture, of population, and we should make intelligent plans for the future of Illinois." A senate joint resolution, introduced by Martin B. Lohmann [Dem., Pekin] was passed and the commission appointed last December.

DISSATISFIED RUN WORLD, SAYS FORD; NAMES ROOSEVELT

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

Fort Myers, Fla., March 8.—(AP)—Henry Ford, 70 year old automobile manufacturer who made a fortune by sticking to one idea, believes that the world is run by dissatisfied people.

"President Roosevelt is a dissatisfied man," said Mr. Ford. "If he was not dissatisfied, he would not attempt Herculean experiments to improve existing conditions. If we had not been dissatisfied with the first automobiles, they would have been discarded and the horse would have taken their places.

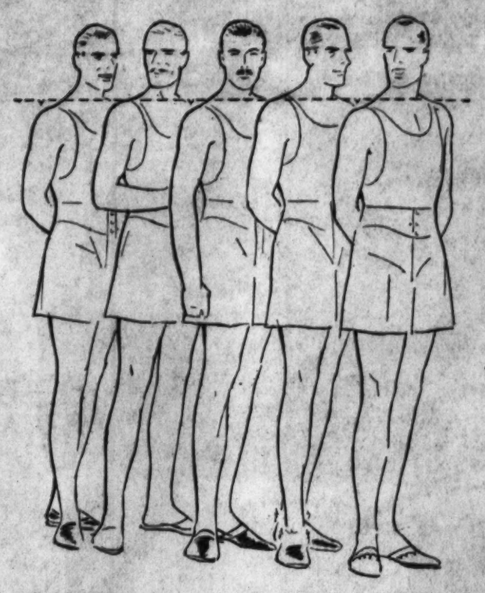
"When dissatisfaction leads to improvement and produces a better order, it is a good thing. That is why I am glad so many people are dissatisfied. Maybe they will help the leaders with vision enough to try to build a better world for all people to live in."

KELLY OPPOSES PLAN TO DIVERT GAS TAX FUNDS

Mayor Kelly yesterday announced his disapproval of the plan of the legislature to divert two-thirds of the city's share and one-third of the county's share of the gasoline tax to the state educational distributive fund.

"While I feel that every dollar for the schools is worth while," said Mayor Kelly, "any diversion from the gasoline tax should affect the cities, counties, and state alike."

THE STORE FOR MEN



5 Average Men, of even height, couldn't stand Shoulder-to-Shoulder

Take five average men of the same size, in bathing suits or gym clothes or in any place where they're exposing the shoulders nature gave them—and you couldn't line them up shoulder-to-shoulder! And the reason for that is that three out of every five men have right shoulders that are lower than their left.

We decided a year ago to do something about it. So, gentlemen, we give you "Right Shoulder Low" Suits. When we cut the suit we take the shoulder situation into account, and the right shoulder is cut low and built up when the suit is made. And that makes for comfort, for a smarter fit, and for better appearance. You can get this feature in all our suits for $45 and over.

NRA BOSS AND INDUSTRY MAP NEW PROGRAMS

Cut Hour Program Meets Strong Opposition.

Washington, D. C., March 8.—(AP)—Hugh S. Johnson and representatives of industry embarked today on conferences which may lead to a compromise program on the wages and hours proposals advanced for NRA improvement.

The NRA administrator, to all outward appearances, was firm in his belief the best way to get the 10 per cent reduction in hours he seeks to boost employment was through a presidential order.

Reconciled to some shortening of hours in comparatively prosperous industries, employers, or the great majority of them, insisted any such order would work hardship and delay recovery, even though exemptions for hard pressed businesses were provided.

The concentration today on ways and means to provide credit for capital goods industries showed some NRA officials felt business might be more inclined to go along with Johnson if it was assured the administration was ready to do something to get the heavier industries off dead center.

Johnson Talks to Sloan.

Late in the day Johnson had an extended conference with George Sloan of New York and the committee representing consumer goods industries on the question of hour shortening.

Sloan said all problems involved had been discussed; the industrialist had not made decisions on anything, but would confer with other members of their lines between now and the first of next week. Several on the committee, he added, were strongly in favor of curtailing working time further.

Sloan declined to speak for the cotton textile institute, whose code authority he heads.

The denunciation by Johnson of the average company union last night was followed by word from the department of justice there would be "news in two or three days" on the Weirton Steel case.

The crux of the Weirton dispute, involving the National Steel company at Weirton, W. Va., concerns the company union.

The national labor board intervened, but reported the steel concern rebuffed their efforts to supervise an election of company workers to choose their union representatives. After long negotiation the case was referred to the department with a request "immediate action be taken."

Leaders Meet Johnson.

Dividing into groups representing the capital goods industries, which includes those not engaged in the manufacture of products for direct consumer consumption and consumers' goods spokesmen, the employers spent most of the day talking to each other. They also conferred with Johnson.

Out of these discussions all came word that the capital goods group would draw a program, revolving around credit, for improvement in their field. George Houston of the Baldwin Locomotive works, chairman, said the plan was to be presented to Johnson and that the latter presumably would carry it to the White House.

One of the points before the other delegation, headed by George A. Sloan of New York, chairman of the code authority of the cotton textile industry, was "what can consumers' industries do to fortify the lagging recovery in many capital goods industries?"

Present U. S. Tax Evasion Evidence Against Levin

Federal prosecutors yesterday presented evidence of alleged income tax evasion by Hymie [Loud Mouth] Levin, former collector in the loop for the Capone underworld syndicate, to the federal grand jury. He was arrested recently on a criminal information charging evasion of several thousands of dollars on his 1929 tax payment, and is at liberty on a $10,000 bond.

G.O.P. ATTACKING WALLACE IDEAS FOR U. S. TARIFFS

Hull Asks Power for President.

textile industries of New England are inefficient. As a representative of that area, he declared, he certainly could not join in such a belief.

"Well, I am looking at this from a national standpoint," Mr. Wallace replied. "A domestic expansion of an inefficient industry causes unemployment in efficient industries and agricultural fields. I feel that if you had responded less to the organized efforts of small groups representing inefficient industries, your own cities would now be infinitely more prosperous than they are."

Bill to Meet Emergency.

Secretary Hull told the committee that the bill is designed to meet unprecedented economic conditions.

"If it is once agreed," he said, "that a normal amount of trade among nations is a vital and necessary factor in the restoration of full and stable prosperity, the conclusion seems clear that the proposed policy of bilateral trade agreements offers virtually the only feasible and practicable step in this direction.

"Most all countries have been invoking every conceivable domestic policy, method, and device in desperate efforts to extricate themselves from well nigh unbearable depression conditions.

"The field of international trade, however, upon the existence of which the economic lives of a score of nations depend, and the economic well being of all nations in important measure depend, is hopelessly clogged and obstructed by prohibitions, embargos, quotas, restrictions, and numerous other economic and currency impediments.

"Extreme obstructions to international trade inevitably result in serious economic controversies or wars, the minimum of commerce between nations, constant overproduction through lack of facilities for distribution, together with every sort of artificial device to deal with the domestic price situation, vast idleness of labor, and emigration of capital into thousands of foreign industrial plants, to say nothing of the difficulties of effecting transfers of debt service due from one country to another.

For More Liberal Policies.

"The alternative policy would appear to comprise a liberalization of the existing obstructions and restrictions by degrees and over a period of time through careful trade arrangements, to a more moderate and reasonable basis.

"It is manifest that unless the executive is given authority to deal with the existing great emergency somewhat on a parity with that exercised by the executive departments of so many other governments for purposes of negotiating and carrying into effect trade agreements, it will not be practicable or possible for the United States to pursue with any degree of success the proposed policy of restoring our lost international trade."

DEMOBILIZATION OF ILLINOIS CWA TO BEGIN TODAY

The Civil Works administration will close its operations in Illinois on March 31 and the Illinois Emergency Relief commission will assume the care of all former CWA workers in need of relief on April 1, according to an announcement yesterday by Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the commission.

This action was in conformance with instructions received from Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief and civil works administrator, and is the first step in carrying out President Roosevelt's new relief program.

Demobilization of the CWA army begins today when 5,000 workers are lopped off the pay roll in Cook county and an additional 5,000 downstate. Ten thousand more will be dropped March 16 and each week thereafter until March 31. There will then be approximately 115,000 CWA employés still employed. Of this number 65,000 will be in Cook county and 50,000 in downstate counties.

Those discharged first will be persons who have the least need for the wages, according to their private means. Those left on March 31 will be persons most in need of the money and the problem confronting relief officials is how many of the 115,000 shall be put on relief.

Only those CWA workers who upon investigation by the relief administration are found to be in need of relief will be employed after April 1 on the new work relief program which has been ordered by President Roosevelt. Workers found not to be in need will not be continued in employment after that date. Also, under the plan, only one member of the same family may be employed.

In general, desirable CWA projects in urban areas of 5,000 population and over may be continued under the relief administration, it was announced, to supplement the work relief projects to be established under the President's new program.

The amount of wages to be paid will be adjusted to the needs of the worker as determined by relief investigation.

PRINTERS OF NRA LABELS ACCUSED UNDER THE CODE

New York, March 8.—(AP)—One of the country's largest printers of NRA labels, the Ever Ready Label corporation of New York, has been summoned to appear before the compliance board to answer charges of violating the NRA.

The charges are being pressed by Typographical Union No. 6 and the Printing Pressmen's union, local 51. The charges are based on alleged intimidation and discrimination against union members in violation of section 7A of the NRA, which guarantees the right of collective bargaining.

James P. Redmond, vice president of the Typographical union, said there had been three strikes against the printery in the last seven months. Pickets were posted around the plant today.

"All I want to say at this time," said Mrs. Elinore M. Herrick, acting chairman of the regional labor board, "is that I think the unions have been more than patient with this employer."

The Ever Ready corporation has manufactured and distributed more than half a billion NRA labels.

Mail man finds freedom from furnace worries!

An interview with Mr. and Mrs. K. H. Wernicke, 15741 Marshfield Avenue, Harvey, Illinois

Mr. and Mrs. Wernicke are planning a new room in the basement now that the coal bin has been eliminated and there is no soot or dirt. The picture shows them going over their plans.

LET a U. S. Postman tell you what it means to have gas heat—and be free of furnace worries!

"I start my route pretty early in the morning," says Mr. Wernicke, "and I have to be out a good many hours during the day. Naturally, with our old heating unit, I worried about the furnace all the time. The house was always either too hot or too cold. I never knew what was going to happen next. But now that we have gas heat I never even think about the furnace. No more coal to shovel. No more dirty ashes to haul. And it's a treat to come home to a house that's always cozy and warm."

Thousands switching to gas as rates go down

Imagine your home free from soot, dust, dirt, and furnace drudgery! Imagine getting just the temperatures you want, night and day, by adjusting a little thermostat on the wall. Why put up with furnace worries any longer, when rates for gas heat are so low! Think of it—gas heating rates are now only half of what they were during the 1930-31 heating season.

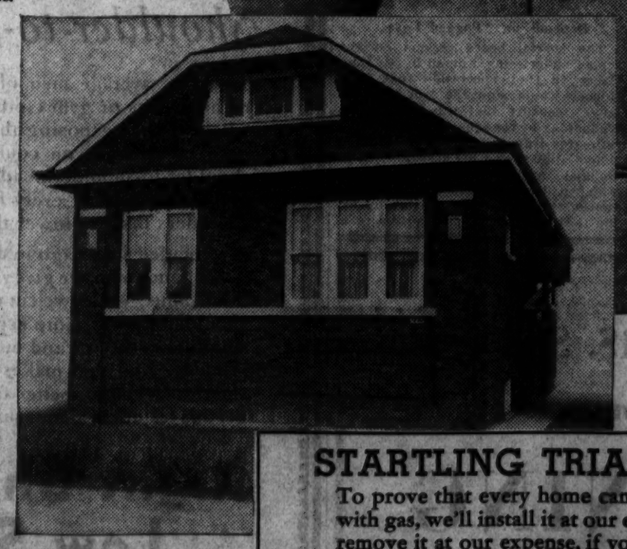
And—you can try gas heat without investing one cent! We will install a burner in your present furnace or boiler at our own expense. You pay only the rental on the equipment, which amounts to $3 a month in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. You try it for a month, two months, a year. And if within the year you find that you are not completely satisfied with gas, we will take it out at our expense and replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order. But—if you decide to keep gas heat—as we think you will—the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment.

Act now!

Don't delay! It is pure folly not to investigate this liberal offer on gas heat when it brings so many comforts and conveniences. Call your local gas company for full information.



The Wernicke home at 15741 Marshfield Avenue, Harvey, Ill. Over 20,000 Chicagoland homes have installed gas heat.

"Now that we have gas heat I never even think about the furnace any more," says Mr. Wernicke. "Gas heat is so clean, too."

STARTLING TRIAL OFFER

To prove that every home can afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense . . . and remove it at our expense, if you don't like it.

YOU INVEST NOTHING!

Without ONE CENT of investment by you, we install the most modern burner in your furnace or boiler. If you are satisfied, it stays. If not—and you are the sole judge—out it comes and your former heating system is re-installed—AT OUR EXPENSE. We make this offer because of our confidence in the perfection of gas heat.

GAS FOR ECONOMY

A little less than two per cent of the average family living cost is spent for gas service.

About 38 per cent of the average family living cost is spent for food.

A dollar's worth of food, plus five or six cents worth of gas to cook it, equals several dollars worth of meals for your family if it were purchased outside the home.

In other words, your gas range saves you money—a lot of money—on your food bill, in the economical preparation of food. And the more fully you make (wise) use of your gas range, the more you save.

The Favor of Other Men

Unless two pints of bile juice flow daily from your liver into your bowels, your food decays in your bowels. This poisons your whole body. Movements get hard and constipated. You get yellow tongue, yellow skin, pimples, dull eyes, bad breath, bad taste, gas, dizziness, headache. You have become an ugly-looking, foul-smelling, sour-thinking person. You have lost your personal charm. Everybody wants to run from you.

But don't take salts, mineral waters, oils, laxative pills, laxative candies or chewing gums and expect them to get rid of this poison that destroys your personal charm. They can't do it, for they only move out the tail end of your bowels and that doesn't take away enough of the decayed poison. Cosmetics won't help at all.

Only a free flow of your bile juice will stop this decay poison in your bowels. The one mild vegetable medicine which starts a free flow of your bile juice is Carter's Little Liver Pills. PLAN CAMPAIGN TO PASS MERGER PLAN FOR PARKS

Referendum to Be Held at April 10 Election.

A committee to campaign for public approval of the Chicago park district consolidation act in a referendum at the April 10 primary was organized last night. Representatives of 500 civic, business, and improvement associations, meeting at the Palmer house, pledged their support and elected John C. Bowers, vice president of the Chicago Real Estate board, chairman of the campaign committee.

The meeting was held at the joint call of seven major civic groups headed by the Association of Commerce, with Newton C. Farr, chairman of the Chicago Recovery administration, presiding. The park district act, which provides for the consolidation of the city's 22 park systems under one management with a single city-wide park tax, was passed by the general assembly at its last regular session.

Plan Is Indorsed.

With one exception, those who attended last night's meeting indorsed the consolidation plan. A number of experts in governmental economy stressed the benefits which would accrue to the taxpayers if the merger is brought about.

Judge Francis S. Wilson of the Circuit court, who sits on the Appellate bench, was one of the speakers who pledged his support to the movement. The Circuit judges at present elect the members of the south park board, but Judge Wilson said he would be willing to give up this power in the interest of consolidation. Under the park act the mayor would appoint a board of five commissioners to govern all the parks in the city.

Speakers who ridiculed the existence of 22 separate park bodies with their duplicating and triplicating activities were Prof. Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago, Prof. A. R. Hatton of Northwestern university, and E. O. Griffenhagen, consultant in public administration and finance.

Jackson Opposes Plan.

The one voice raised in opposition to the consolidation plan was that of David H. Jackson, former president of the Lincoln park board. He questioned the benefits that might arise out of the consolidation and asserted it would take home rule away from the small park districts.

This contention drew a reply from Prof. Merriam, who pointed out that there would be a real expression of home rule if the appointment of the west and Lincoln park commissioners were taken from the governor and that of the south park board from the judges. He pointed out that few of the Circuit court judges live in the south park district.

All Eggs in One Basket.

"Even assuming that we may find ourselves with a unified park board made up of rascals, it would be easier to watch the rascals in one place than in 22 different places," said Prof. Hatton. "Let's put our eggs all in one basket and watch that basket."

Mr. Griffenhagen enumerated the financial benefits under a single administration with coördinated activities.

"We have been preaching for limitation in taxes," said Mr. Bowers. "The only way to make that possible is through consolidation of the tax spending bodies. There is no question that this consolidation act will succeed with united support."

Mr. Bowers declared that he would meet next week with Douglas Sutherland and Bernard E. Sunny, who were elected secretary and treasurer of the committee, to plan the campaign.

The act consolidating the park systems is to go into effect within sixty days if accepted by a majority of those voting in the referendum.

80,000 RICKSHA PULLERS GIVE STRIKE WARNING

SHANGHAI, March 8. — (AP) — A threat of violence entered Shanghai's ricksha war today—a war in which foreign authorities are seeking to improve the well being of poverty stricken pullers. An obscure outfit, styling itself the Ricksha Pullers' union and claiming to represent 80,000 pullers, threatened that unless authorities abandoned their uplift crusade the pullers would strike against a plan "destined" to ruin them instead of help."

Newspapers—both foreign and Chinese—have taken up the fight against the ricksha owners, charging that the pullers' alleged threat is a spurious effort of the "owner-wolves, long fattening off the starvation of the pullers, to escape their doom."

The authorities are moving cautiously against the owners. They believe disorders might develop if the almost 100,000 ignorant coolies should become convinced they are being wronged instead of helped. Authorities recalled that 20 years ago they attempted to assist the ricksha men, but mob violence resulted when the pullers—believing street car interests were plotting their abolition—attacked car barns and street cars, causing authorities to abandon their relief efforts.

Swedish Prince, Movie Bride Speed Away on Honeymoon

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

LONDON, March 8.—Prince Sigvard of Sweden and his beautiful actress-bride, like many less famous honeymooners, gave a final romantic touch to their wedding tonight by departing secretly for Berlin just a few hours after their marriage.

"After Berlin I can't tell you anything except that I hope to continue my chosen vocation as a film director," said the dapper 26 year old prince who surrendered his royal rights by marrying the 22 year old blonde Erika Patzek in the Caxton Hall registry here at noon.

"We did not want any one to know about this," he said, smiling genially, shortly before the departure of their train. Previously it was announced that the couple would leave for Italy tomorrow on their honeymoon.

Rapid Fire Marriage.

The wedding ceremony was one of the most exciting civil marriages in London for a long time. It was rapid fire, taking only a few minutes, and was in strange contrast to the usual weddings of royalty.

Only one person was present at the station to bid farewell to the couple whose romance in defiance of the Swedish royal family's wishes tugged at the hearts of many.

The demure, sharp featured little bride, cocking her head quizzically in an effort to catch the English words used in the conversation, sat across the table from her husband. She was dressed in the same navy blue outfit, with a narrow-brimmed blue hat and a bandeau over her back hair, that she wore at the wedding. Orchids were pinned on her lapel.

No Word from King.

"I don't know anything about what has been done in Stockholm," said the prince when asked if he had heard of the formal action of the Swedish court and cabinet depriving him of his title and royal rights.

He confirmed reports, however, that he had received no word from his grandfather, King Gustav, who is in Nice, France.

Several hundred persons jammed the streets in front of the registry hall and twice broke through police lines—the first time when the dark-haired and slender prince and the petite golden-haired fräulein arrived, just as Big Ben nearby tolled the noon hour, and again when the couple left a few minutes later.

A municipal election almost disrupted the routine inside the hall, but the wedding was moved upstairs to a big council room.

Two Sentences Spoken.

The superintendent of the registry office and the assistant registrar married the obviously happy couple. Each had two sentences to say. The bride, who knows no English, had to memorize hers.

Her brother and George Gordon, the prince's attorney, were to have been the only witnesses, but there were two unexpected guests, Scott Cowan, the inspector general of registration from Somerset house, and Mrs. Cowan, who is Swedish.

After the ceremony the couple left in their big limousine—without delay, although the crowd wanted badly to see them. The bridegroom waved and laughed as he helped his bride into the car, and closed the door against a shower of rice.

Prince Sigvard was rumored engaged to Princess Juliana of Holland in the summer of 1931, but nothing ever came of it. The prince's match with the German actress flowered on the motion picture lots and in the home of Fräulein Erika's parents in Berlin.

Within a few months after the prince established himself as "Herr Holger" of Ufa in Germany, friends began linking his name with that of the fair commoner.

1931 REALTY TAX ASSESSMENT HIT BY H. S. CUTMORE

Big Owners Favored, He Charges.

Harry S. Cutmore, who was chief deputy under Assessor J. L. Jacobs until last September, testified yesterday before County Judge Jarecki that the 1931 real estate assessment favored owners of large properties and was discriminatory against small property owners. Cutmore was called as the last witness for the Chicago Real Estate board in the hearing on its petition to reduce by 15 per cent the 1931 assessments on the 438,000 homes and small flat buildings in Cook county.

Cutmore, who was once an employé of the old board of assessors and supervised the 1928 reassessment, quit Mr. Jacobs' staf because he had "been reduced to the position of a handcuffed office boy," he said yesterday.

Charges Conspiracy.

"Conditions had become intolerable for me in Mr. Jacobs' office," he testified, "and I was being steadily relegated to a position of impotence. Large property owners carried on a campaign of villification against me and engaged in a conspiracy to discredit me and oust me."

Cutmore charged that the 1931 assessment was a "mathematical one, not a legal one." He differentinted between this assessment and the 1928 reassessment, stating that the latter was based on cash values of properties, further investigated by field men. He intimated there had been no field investigation of small properties for the 1931 assessment.

"The 1931 assessment was purely mathematical," Cutmore asserted, "and, as such, discriminated against the small property owners, resulting in an overassessment in their cases of at least 15 per cent. Mr. Jacobs used the reports prepared by George O. Fairweather [assistant business manager of the University of Chicago] to favor the large property owners, but did not use them for the small properties. I was present when Assistant State's Attorney Hayden N. Bell told Mr. Jacobs that he would have to make a legal, not a mathematical assessment."

Under Cross-Examination.

Cutmore was cross-examined by Homer Cooper, attorney for several north shore park districts, which are opposing any cut in the assessment. Cooper tried to bring out that Cutmore had used systems of evaluation in the 1928 reassessment similar to those used by Jacobs. Cutmore admitted that the square foot base price method, used by Jacobs in computing valuations, had been used in the reassessment.

"However, these figures were checked by field men," Cutmore insisted, "and the proof of the pudding is in the eating. The reassessment has withstood all court attacks."

Further cross-examination of Cutmore was deferred to today. Attorneys for the board have indicated that they will close their case after his evidence is completed.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday, including those for 1932, were $433,233, making a total of $110,552,571 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collection of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
March 8	$ 16,656	$ 19,033
Uncollected	15,028,112	40,340,243
	1930.	1931.
March 8	$ 33,302	$ 124,072
Uncollected	63,866,016	60,514,006

The day's collection of 1932 real estate taxes was $240,756. The 1932 personal property tax collections totaled $43,199. The 1931 personal property tax collections totaled $9,435.

DEADLINE SET FOR PERSONALTY TAX SCHEDULES

The closing day for accepting personal property schedules from North township has been set for March 15, and the date for Lake View township has been fixed at March 26, County Assessor J. L. Jacobs announced yesterday. The deadlines were determined as the 1933 personal property assessment nears completion.

No corporation schedules will be accepted after April 12, and corporations in townships with an earlier closing date must comply with the township limits, Mr. Jacobs said. While the assessor's office was busy completing 1933 assessment work, small taxpayers continued to stream into the offices of the county treasurer to pay their 1932 personal and real estate taxes.

Tax bills now being sent from the treasurer's office will all be in the mails by March 15 so that the April 15 penalty date can be adhered to, said County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough.

Attorney William J. Grace appeared before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki yesterday and declared he wished to withdraw objections to 1928, 1929, and 1930 tax assessments on seven buildings occupied by subpostal stations. Judge Jarecki overruled an objection to the assessment on one of the buildings Tuesday, and Attorney Grace, who represents Raymond D. Brown of Indianapolis, owner of the structures, said his plea for the withdrawal was based on this ruling.

BRITAIN SERVES NOTICE OF ENTRY IN AIR ARMS RACE

Aviation Chief Points to U. S. Expansion.

LONDON, March 8.—(AP)—Great Britain plainly served notice upon the world today that she is determined to have parity in the air as long as other nations cling to their aircraft building programs.

She is unwilling, Sir Philip Sassoon, undersecretary for aviation, told the house of commons, "to accept a position of continuing inferiority in the face of rapidly expanding air forces in the United States, Japan, Russia, and other nations."

Sir Philip declared Britain has concluded she must, as long as air forces exist, "have parity in the air, howsoever that parity is attained."

World at Critical Point.

"The world has reached a critical point of extreme delicacy in the matter of disarmament," he said, during debate on estimates for increasing the British air forces by four squadrons. "Far from accepting our proposals, other nations have steadily increased the strength of their respective air armaments until they far outnumber our own.

"That is not the whole story. The latest developments are still more striking. The President of the United States has recently sanctioned an additional expenditure of some $15,000,000 on new aircraft for American naval and military air services. Russia and Japan also are expanding their air forces largely."

Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council, immediately afterwards also declared the national government is determined not to accept inferiority in the air.

Nation to Protect Air Power.

If negotiations for limiting air armaments are fruitless the government "will see to it that the air strength and air power of this country shall no longer be in a position of inferiority to any within striking distance of our shores," Baldwin asserted.

The undersecretary expressed the hope that Britain's decision to add the new squadrons under provisions of the air estimates would not serve as a spark touching off an armaments race in that field.

He described the air estimates—a part of defense force figures calling for the spending of $24,206,000 more on the British army, air, and navy next year than last—as "the outcome of our desire to pursue disarmament and study economy on the one hand and on the other of our reluctant conviction that a policy of postponement cannot be continued."

Total Military Bill.

Including army estimates made public today by Lord Hailsham, secretary for war, the total bill for the British army, navy and air force in the coming year will be $77,651,880. Estimates of expenditures in all departments of the British government in 1934 total $2,346,575,047.

The navy and air estimates aggregate $287,724,000 and $89,209,880, respectively—increases of $15,137,600 and $685,000 over last year.

Lord Hailsham said the additional army funds would be used for modernizing coast and other defenses, continuing the mechanization program, developing suitable reserves, improving barracks, and increasing training facilities.

His statement showed that the government will attempt to make the public more "conscious" of the army, especially in far-flung parts of the empire, by organizing recruiting services and making possible visits of relatives to army depots, to see the men both at work and play.

The faithful old army horse got another jolt with the announcement mechanization would be pushed—6,000 horses lost their jobs in the army since 1924.

In the military estimates a maximum number of 149,500 officers and men is provided for, an increase of 800, due mainly to a revision of units at defended ports.

France Pushes Arms Program.

PARIS, March 8.—(AP)—The chiefs of France's armed forces at a grave session today agreed it was impossible for this country to disarm and permit Germany to rearm without further security guarantees.

A decision on this point was reached as the council of national defense began its efforts to smooth out the French refusal to the British proposal on German rearmament, and shortly after it was learned that France will begin her 1934 naval replacement program immediately.

Debate Quitting Disarm Attempt.

The military heads weighed the question of whether France should quit trying to obtain "a bad arms convention" or whether the door should be slammed on all disarmament attempts in view of the German rearmament.

The naval program, which starts at once, includes a second ship like the Dunkerque, the new powerful warship, and three other vessels.

The total of 30,000 tons for 1934 is said to be under the average for the years from 1922 to 1932. No ships were laid down in 1933.

Parliament has been unable to agree on the program, so the government decided to start it any way in view of the general armament situation.

The chamber's naval committee approved the plan which calls for a total expenditure of about $59,345,000 for the new 26,000 ton man of war, two submarines and a destroyer.

ASSASSIN KILLS PRESIDENT OF TOKIO NEWSPAPER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, March 9.—[Friday.]—Sanji Muto, president of the Jiji Shimpo, one of the leading newspapers of Tokio, and a former president of the Kanegafuchi Spinning company, one of the largest spinning mills in the world, was assassinated this morning at his residence at Kamakura, a winter resort. He was shot with a revolver. Muto's steward also was killed. The assassin, known as Shinkichi, committed suicide.

Muto's paper has been revealing scandals involving industrialists and politicians regarding the disposal of stocks held by the Taiwan [Formosa] bank. Muto was 67 years old. He was a son of a late Kunisaburo Sakuma, a member of parliament, and later was adopted by Matsuemon Muto. He was graduated from Keio university in 1884 and later went to the United States as correspondent for the Japanese Gazette.

He at one time was assistant manager of the Kobe branch of the great Mitsui bank.

A BAD BARGAIN FOR UNCLE SAM.

The showdown in the senate on the St. Lawrence treaty with Canada is set for March 14. The friends of the treaty have sought to delay the vote as long as possible in the hope that they could break the ranks of the opposition. The opposition, of which Senators Lewis and Dieterich of Illinois have been leaders, has finally forced the issue to the front.

The vote will test the economic statesmanship of the senators. It will also test the sincerity of their protestations that they are representatives of their states and of the whole American people.

In particular the vote will test the honesty of the senators' promises to avoid all needless governmental expense. Here is a project which its most ardent advocates admit will cost the taxpayers at least $150,000,000, and in all probability will cost two or three times as much if the experience of previous government constructions can be taken as a guide. This figure does not include the costs of the power installations, which, in theory at least, are to be paid for by the state of New York. When the payments for harbor and channel deepenings are added, as they should be, of course, the total outlay from the federal treasury cannot be safely reckoned at less than half a billion dollars, assuming that the administration's plans to raise commodity prices prove unsuccessful. If the expected increase in prices comes the costs will be proportionately higher. This colossal sum, once the treaty is ratified, must be spent regardless of the stresses and strains under which the treasury is now operating or will operate in future. It would be difficult to conceive of a more reckless giving of hostages to fortune.

The treaty was negotiated under President Hoover in a vain attempt to retain the good will of the northwest. When the question was first seriously agitated, in the early '20s, long before Mr. Hoover's presidency, there was at least a plausible case for the St. Lawrence seaway. Our northwest was a heavy exporter of wheat and under the pressure of war the freight charges on export wheat were high. The northwest clamored for relief and the seaway seemed to offer it. A huge propaganda machine was created to agitate for canalizing the St. Lawrence on any terms which Canada could be brought to accept.

Since then the whole of this case for the seaway has been destroyed. Our northwest exports only negligible quantities of wheat and in the opinion of experts is never likely to export wheat in quantity again. But the half million dollars spent on propaganda cannot be unspent. The constantly repeated story that the northwest must have the seaway has convinced the northwest. They have forgotten the reasoning which no longer holds true, but remember the conclusion. Any of the northwestern senators who vote against the treaty will show an independence of mind and an honesty of character that will be remembered with pride by their grandchildren.

Some senators from the corn belt have shown a disposition to favor the treaty. In doing so they overlook the damage which the seaway will do to their own constituents. Even now a substantial amount of South African and Argentine corn is being sold in Canada. If the seaway is built, the Canadian imports will increase and our corn exports will decline.

While the agitation for the St. Lawrence seaway has continued without interruption, another waterway from the central farming area to the sea has been completed. That is the Mississippi connected with the great lakes by the Illinois waterway. One of the provisions of the St. Lawrence treaty is a restriction on the flow of water from Lake Michigan through the drainage canal into the Illinois river. There is the gravest doubt whether the Mississippi waterway will be commercially useful if it gets only 3,000 cubic feet of water per second at Chicago [1,500 feet by direct diversion and another 1,500 feet of domestic pumpage] as the treaty, in effect, specifies. No senator from a state which is in a position to benefit from the Mississippi waterway can vote for the St. Lawrence treaty without proving a traitor to his own constituents. On this question there is no room for partisan politics and no room for experiment. If the treaty is ratified the restriction is likely to be enforced as long as Canada demands it and as long as the United States honors its international obligations. Once the treaty goes into operation the chances of altering it must be regarded as negligible.

The senators from the Mississippi states cannot be reminded too often of this simple fact. Similarly the senators from coal bearing states cannot be reminded too often of the economic losses and individual suffering which will result in the mining towns if the treaty is approved. The demand for coal will be sharply reduced. The production of a huge surplus of power at the St. Lawrence dams, even though the production proves uneconomical, will destroy a market for steam coal used in existing and future power plants. The government of New York will have electric power to sell and will have to dispose of it at whatever price it can get, even though the price does not yield a fair return on the investment.

The same factor will be at work in the greater part of Canada, which until now has been dependent on our mines for coal. The Canadian market for our coal will be still further reduced when the seaway permits the direct movement of British collier carrying British coal to Canadian ports on the great lakes. Hamilton, Toronto, and a hundred other Canadian cities and towns are now served for the most part by American mines and American miners. Once the seaway is built that business and all the investment in mining, transportation, and loading machinery which is associated with it will be destroyed.

The St. Lawrence treaty is calculated to destroy a great American waterway and work irreparable injury to a seriously depressed industry and the men engaged in it. The proposal is to be condemned because it is certain to destroy more trade and more employment than its most ardent advocates can believe the seaway will produce if their fondest hopes are realized. The seaway treaty in its present form would be a poor bargain for the United States if the work were to cost our taxpayers nothing. In fact, the treaty requires our government to pay the lion's share of the costs, including the costs of Canadian labor and Canadian materials. The treaty will be rejected if the senators who vote on it have even a modicum of political independence.

THE PROPOSED REVENUE AMENDMENT.

With many other states engaged in a race to see which will reach bankruptcy first, the proposal to amend the revenue article of the state constitution is untimely and should not be pressed. The great state of New York under the direction of Gov. Lehman is a flagrant example which our citizenry and legislators cannot afford to ignore and we are confident the people of Illinois, apart from organized groups with special urges, have no disposition to follow in its wake.

Illinois has protection in its constitutional provision which if respected and retained will make it the industrial capital of America. Industry and capital seeking asylum from the ruinous impositions of other states and safe from such policies as Lehman is following, policies which even the resources of such a state as New York cannot survive, will come to Illinois to the great advantage of all the people in the state, the farmer and the worker especially.

Let us not be betrayed by misguided special interests and spoils politics into tearing down this barrier and cheat Illinois of its great opportunity.

BACK TO CIVILIAN AIR MAIL.

The tragic experiment which suddenly dumped the air mail into the lap of the army has come to an abrupt end. It has cost five officers' lives and some serious injuries, to say nothing of expense to the public treasury.

Nothing charged against the preceding administration, even if the charges are verified, which they have not yet been in any respectable sense, is more discreditable than the exhibition of unscrupulous politics given by this proceeding, including the favoritism shown to two lines which were immune from administration discipline and naïvely illustrated in free rides to influential individuals among the powers that be.

The proceeding, for all its pretense of moral indignation and devotion to public service, was obviously intended to be a dramatic political coup. It has fallen flat. The public has seen through it and has resented it. The only public benefit that can be hoped from it is an improvement in army aviation equipment and methods because of the glaring deficiencies in both exposed in this tragic proceeding.

Editorial of the Day

THE TWO-STATE SOLUTION.

[The Rock Island Argus.]

During the week of Feb. 26 the Illinois legislature is scheduled to give consideration to a resolution introduced on Feb. 22 by Representative J. Clinton Searle of Rock Island. The resolution provides that the speaker of the house shall appoint a committee of ten members, five from the county of Cook and five from downstate, who, serving without pay, shall take measures to ascertain the sentiment of citizens of Illinois on the formation of a new state from territory within the present jurisdiction of the state of Illinois and study the historical precedents and legal procedure, reporting their findings to the house in the 59th general assembly in January, 1935.

The resolution recites that more and more citizens are concluding that it would be more satisfactory to all citizens of the state if the county of Cook could be set apart as a state, with its own executive, legislative and judicial departments, the other counties of Illinois to be formed into a separate state. Then it is proposed that either Cook county as a separate state, or the remaining counties, ask congress to be admitted as a new state. Reference is made to the fact that Vermont was established from territory within the state of New York, Maine from territory within Massachushetts, Tennessee from territory within North Carolina, Kentucky from territory within Virginia, and West Virginia from territory within Virginia.

It is asserted that each passing year makes it more evident that the problems of Cook county and the remainder of the counties in Illinois are widely different and are becoming more incompatible. The wants and needs of the two sections are different. The resolution declares that downstate people carry heavy tax burdens, such as bond issues, because Chicago and Cook county fail and refuse to carry their fair share of the burden of government. There is constant turmoil and confusion at the seat of government in Springfield because the two sections, one metropolitan and the other rural, have such different governmental problems and "these irreconcilable differences can only be solved by a changing within the state of the form of government and governmental structure." The $30,000,000 of unpaid Cook county taxes, it is held, jeopardize not only the state's school system but the state government, and Cook county will not levy for its poor as have the other counties.

In short, in this resolution Mr. Searle summarizes the long standing differences between Cook county and downstate and, because he sees no other solution for the problem, proposes that a committee be named to make a study of the situation, with the erection of a new state in mind, and report its findings. We do not know how far this resolution will get, but we think a proposition of this sort is worthy of the serious consideration of the legislature. A situation somewhat similar in character exists in New York, where a movement, brought about by the different needs of metropolitan and rural areas, has for its object the creation of a new state. We see no reason why the legislature of Illinois should not appoint a committee to study this whole subject and make its findings known. The creation of a new state within the territory of Illinois might, conceivably, prove the solution of a problem that becomes more acute with the passage of time.

"WAR WITH U. S. 'Impossible,' Says Jap Peer."—Headline. It is improbable, but with war nothing is impossible. Which reminds one of the United States senator from Pennsylvania who a short time before the Civil war was so positive there would be no war between the North and the South that he publicly proclaimed he would drink all the blood that would be shed in such a war. And President Lincoln sent home the first completely equipped regiment of cavalry that was offered to the government because he said the war would be such a small affair cavalry would not be needed. But before the war was ended there had been approximately 300,000 cavalrymen enlisted in the Union army. And gosh only knows how many the Johnnies had. It's just about as hard to predict wars as it is to foretell earthquakes, cyclones, tidal waves or Sen. Huey Long.

RAVEL'S BOLERO.

Teasing the beat is, with insistent rhythm,
One instrument alone, one here, one there,
Till all the atmosphere is but a beat
And an insistent rhythm.
A nervous finger jerks within its glove.
A foot-tap may be heard, but neighbors frown
Among the audience.
Quiet, unmoved, how can they sit so still?
Stronger and more insistent comes the beat,
More strangely insolent the subtle air.

(Oh, what would chance if they could not sit still?
If here and there among the audience
Some slender girl, forgetting all but sound,
Rose to her feet, adventured to the aile
If here and there the others followed her,
Followed and swayed and stepped to the strange rhythm
And older men and women—young again—
Snapped fingers, swayed, and stepped with prancing feet?
At last the very quiet white-haired ones,
The black-dressed women, men with bald neat crowns,
So self-contained, emotionally secure,
They too rose up, their bodies in the beat?

Then all the audience would sway and bend,
Step and retreat, and turn in curious curves
Stylistically and silent, save perhaps
For snapping fingers and for deep-drawn breath?)

(And what would happen? Well, I may be wrong,
But still I think—bend closer with your ear.
I tell you confidentially, ma chère,
I think that Mr. Stock MIGHT look surprised!)

"Palos 4 precincts, 12 jobs a precinct, 48.
"Orland 2 precincts, 24 jobs a precinct, 48.

"But the other two jobs booked downtown to my precinct are held by Republicans in Oak Forest. This is on account of the County Commissioners Busse, Miller, and other Republican office holders. 'Give and Take' is the rule and always has been.

"Out of these 42 precincts there are 288 possible workers and probably 35 out of 100 are likely to be Republican. A precinct committeeman can't get more jobs on account of that.

"Wherein in Chicago there are 20 good Democratic city jobs whose holders can be counted on to bring in 10 to 50 votes in a piece to help you as a Democratic precinct committeeman on election day, here in Blue Island all is Republican and I have to overcome all this.

"I am again running for precinct committeeman and look to you for your support. Vote for Bettenhausen."

THE NEED FOR SUNSHINE.

DURING February, March, April, and May it is wise for young and old and all in between to get all the sunlight they can. The children require it especially. The younger they are the greater the need. It is especially necessary during all rapidly growing periods. Since the rate of growth of the first year of life is enormous, it is greatly needed then. But the second year is also a period of rapid growth, and the third, and in fact all the years of childhood. The pubertal years are also, and much sunlight is needed then.

After the years of growth have passed then come the years of strain, and that is a period when sunlight is needed in the late winter and spring. The day's work is often done in a dark factory, office, or city. Therefore occupation usually increases the need for sunlight.

In old age the strain of growth and that of work are gone, but a need of sunshine is still present. The old must resist the infections which cause colds, bronchitis, pneumonia, and some heart troubles. They, too, must strive for sunshine in this season.

The late winter and spring period is one of high sickness rates. With our large camp and shelter population this spring there should be some increase in measles, mumps, and meningitis. This is the season of colds, coughs, and pneumonia. About the best antidote for this entire group is life in the open with plenty of sunshine.

March is the month for meningitis. The people who get it most frequently are the members of the hot stove league. The days that spread it are those that are rainy and cold and in which the people crowd indoors and hug the fire. There is no sunshine inside a crowded room. For that matter there is none anyway on a rainy day. Those who can do so will profit from going where the days are not cold and there is little rain and the sun is always on the job. After May there are some people who will get more sunshine than is good for them, but before Memorial day the story is different.

In the deeper layers of the outer part of the skin there is a wonderful laboratory. It operates on somewhat the same principle as photography. The area has been termed a photograph gallery that makes no pictures. There are important chemicals in this area. These are changed by sunlight and the products are picked up by the blood stream and carried to different parts of the body to do different kinds of work.

The chemicals there are not rare or new. They are of a group that is rather abundant in the human body and in nature in general. They have been known a long time. What is new is our knowledge of what they do and how they are changed by sunlight; we might say of how they pick up sunlight, tie it up in packages, and carry it to distant parts of the body.

CATARACT.

W. M. T. writes: 1. What are the causes of cataract?

2. Would a blow on the head cause it? If so, would a blow on the head at 35 years of age cause cataracts to appear on the eyes at 70 years?

3. What are the causes of angina pectoris?

4. Do women ever suffer from the disease?

REPLY.

1. Among the causes are senility, diabetes, and exposure to glare, to heat, and to dust.
2. Trauma is an occasional cause. In this case senility is a better explanation.
3. Disease of the coronary artery (the artery of the heart wall), degeneration of the heart muscle, some kind of allergy.
4. Yes.

PROBABLY FATTY TUMOR.

Mrs. J. N. writes: 1. I had a discharge from the navel about seven years ago and the doctor told me to sprinkle the navel with talcum powder after each bath. I did, and in a short time it disappeared.

2. I have a soft swelling on my thigh about the size of a bun. There is no pain or soreness. I had an operation for a fatty tumor under my right breast a few years back. Could this be the same thing?

REPLY.

1. Thanks.
2. Yes, that is the best guess.

AVOID THE CAUSE.

S. A. writes:

1. I am bothered with boils under the arms. At times they disappear, but they always come back. What can I do? I have used many salves that have not helped.

2. What is a good remedy to purify my blood?

REPLY.

1. Avoid the cause. Do you use chemicals on the skin there, such as depilatories or sweat suppressors? Do you wear rubber shields? Stop using dirty salves. Keep the area very clean.

2. There are no medicines that act as blood purifiers, nor does your blood need purifying.

FORECLOSURE.

Chicago, March 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Kindly advise whether one has to pay a deficiency on a building lost in a foreclosure sale. 2. If so, who gets the money? For example, if I had a $700 deficiency and [3] was paying rent during a certain period, paying approximately $300, do I have to pay the balance of $400? If I had property elsewhere during the time I was being foreclosed, which was unknown to the party foreclosing, [4] would I have to pay the deficiency? I amply paid for the building I lost but had a stubborn mortgagee and today [5] I am a pauper. A. R.

1. Yes, if at the foreclosure sale the property does not bring enough to pay the mortgage debt plus charges.
2. The holder of the mortgage notes.
3. If you mean that you were paying rent to a receiver, the net amount after paying the expenses of the receivership would be credited on the mortgage debt and in this sense would be a reduction of the deficiency.
4. The deficiency decree would be a lien on property in this county.
5. If this is true, then there is no point to your previous questions.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WAGE ASSIGNMENT.

Chicago, March 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Several months ago my husband purchased jewelry on the credit plan. The terms were to be seven dollars per month, but since these terms were made my husband has worked very little, making it impossible to send more than two or four dollars per month. My husband's salary when fully employed amounts to $16 per week. He received a letter from the jewelry firm saying they would assign his wages unless he lived up to the terms agreed upon. 1. Can they assign his wages? 2. If he is willing to pay a small sum can they do this? 3. Can they bring suit in court? 4. Is there anything they can do? J. K.

1. The wage earner is the only person who can assign his wages. If he has not executed an assignment, then the creditor's only remedy is to take judgment and follow it up with garnishment. In garnishment proceedings, the exemption to the head of the family is $20 per week, but there would be no exception against a wage assignment.
2. In general, the fact that a debtor is willing to pay what he can is no legal defense.
3. Yes.
4. See preceding answers.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAMBURG.—Deported by one country after another, disowned by their native land, escorted across Belgium and France under police guard to the frontier, one band of 68 gypsies is still wandering around Europe. To the gypsies it seems the alleged curse placed upon them in 400 A. D. by King Bahram Gur of Persia is being fulfilled.

The group is lodged in Hamburg pending efforts to return them to Belgium whence they came. Their wailing filled the police station at the frontier for several days and drove the guards frantic. They are homeless, penniless, without household equipment, wagons or horses, all of which they had sold in order to return to Norway, where they were born.

Several years ago the gypsies left Norway and started on a long tour of Europe. They ended up in Spain. They remained for some time, until their participation in revolts led to their deportation over the French border. Police escorted them across France to Belgium, across Belgium to Germany.

In Belgium, homesick for their native Norway, they sold their belongings for $1,000 and bought tickets for Goeteborg, Sweden. But at the German port of Sassnitz, where the brown skinned wanderers planned to embark, the authorities learned that Sweden would not permit them to land.

So back they went to Hamburg. With their last pennies the gypsies bought tickets for Norway through Denmark, but this attempt, too, failed. Their passports had expired. They were wanderers without a country. And now they are to be sent back along the route they just covered.

Historians have traced the origin of these gypsies. In 400 A. D. King Bahram Gur of Persia asked the Indian king, Shankal of Kanaudsh, to send him 10,000 gypsies able to play musical instruments. He hoped to inspire, in this manner, the usually melancholy Persians to a happier frame of mind.

The gypsies were given cattle, land and grain. They butchered and sold the cattle, ate up the grain, and neglected to cultivate the land. Bahram Gur, outraged, the legend goes, laid a curse upon them, dooming them to wander forever. And so the great trek started.

Today European countries are attempting to create gypsy settlements. Hungary and Rumania made the first attempts. The Russians and Jugo-Slavians have tried out the plan. The raj, or chieftain, of the gypsies in Jugo-Slavia receives an income from the state. Sweden, which also has a settlement, apparently did not want this new group to disturb the progress already made. In England schools have been built where gypsy children are taught handicraft.

THE TREES ON FOSTER AVENUE.

Chicago, March 3.—It seems a shame to me that the beautiful trees must be cut down when a thoroughfare is widened. I am a property owner on Foster avenue and understood that just that will happen to our trees. After going into the situation I found out that the work is to be done by the state and there will be no assessment on the adjoining property owners.

Of course, I agree that the street should be widened. That would naturally mean the destruction or removal of the trees. However, with the CCC and CWA transplanting trees over the entire country they could do the job very successfully. I suggest that the property owners consider seriously the moving of their trees to within their property lines. I am sure that since there is no assessment due the property owners would be pleased to stand any reasonable charge for moving the trees in line with their property, considering, of course, the size of the tree, in the event it is not possible for the CWA to take care of such work. GUSTAVE EBBET.

QUOTATION MARKS.

Effingham, Ill., March 1.—Now that you have introduced simplified spelling of some words in your newspaper, why not dispense with unnecessary quotation marks? In THE TRIBUNE of Feb. 26 we read that Mrs. Massie is "resting well" after "celebrating" her divorce. On Feb. 27 we are informed that members of the family of Gerald Peck, who was murdered, were "crushed by the news." In today's TRIBUNE we read of New Yorks "worst winter," of Lady Sibell's "sincere public apology," and of Dr. Wynekoop's "confession," all appearing on the first page. On the back page a line under an illustration tells of the walls of ice that almost "hide" the tall buildings. If the use of quotation marks in certain instances is intended to convey a hidden meaning, kindly explain your system. JOSEPH A. FELDHAKE.

EXPLAINING THE FUNNY TASTE OF THE WATER.

Chicago, March 4.—At the Lake View pumping station, where I work, is a gigolo who holds his job through appointment of a ward committeeman. If it wasn't for that the other men would have spoiled him long ago. This lad comes to work with his hair marcelled, face powdered, and his mustache full of mascara. He does not know a wrench from a hammer. He gets to work at 9:30 and quits after strutting around two hours, and the other men must do his work. He never comes to work Mondays or Saturdays. He also keeps his car in a warm garage. If committeemen must make appointments in pumping stations, please send us men that use a spanner wrench, not a powder puff.

BLUE SHIRTS.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—Faix! The Irish are now making a grand hullabaloo about their blue shirts, the spalpeens! Maybe they want the world to know that they are now wearing real shirts, big boasts that they are.

I remember when the gossoons went about dressed up in their flannel baneens, and played football in shirts made from Minneapolis flour bags with maybe a neckband of real fancy shirting.

Ochone! Ochone! What's this world coming to at all, at all? Shirts! Shirts! Mavrone! J. M.

ARE P. O. CONDITIONS BETTER?

Chicago, March 1.—In reading your editorial in condemnation of government control of communications it occurred to me that from an investor's standpoint such a move may prove disastrous, but, on the other hand, has any one considered the employés of companies who are compelled to adhere to unfavorable working conditions?

The editorial states that because these communication companies have "extended their service, protected investments, paid dividends, and constantly pleased their users" the government regards them with suspicion.

If "success, solvency and progress" are to be gained through the indiscreet cutting of wages that never were on par with competing companies, and other forms of extortion from their employés, I am of the opinion that it is high time the government take hand and apply such control as would give workers in this category a new deal.

MERE TELEGRAPHER.

EXPLOITED IMMIGRANTS.

Chicago, March 5.—The statement of Secretary Ickes, in his recent address in Chicago, that foreigners have been "enticed" to the United States and "exploited" by heartless private industry appears to be exciting considerable interest.

It is well known that these "exploited immigrants," "enticed to the United States" by heartless corporations, have sent to the countries from which they came enormous sums of money. For example, according to a report of the United States department of commerce, immigrants in 1929 sent out of the United States back to the countries from which they came $246,219,000. During the depression year 1931 the same "exploited immigrants" sent back to the countries from which they came a total of $172,630,000.

In this connection it should be pointed out that, though for about fourteen years there have been restrictions on the entrance of aliens into the United States, there has never been any restriction on their departing. HENRY BROWN.

THE SONG OF THE LARK.

Chicago, March 4.—The world renowned painting by Breton called "The Song of the Lark," which hung in the permanent collection of paintings in the Art institute for many years, has been missing from this section and from the exhibition of paintings for about a year.

No one at the Art institute seems to know definitly just where the painting is at the present time, with the exception of one of the guides, who gave out the information that it was in storage.

I trust that a group of public spirited art lovers will soon have this painting restored to its old place in the Art institute galleries.

Lisle, Ill., March 5.—Hello, TRIBUNE! Raving again, as usual, in your editorial about the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Listen! Washington's soldiers were hungry, too, but they finally got the best of the Tories. And the boys in shiny pants will get you yet. Don't worry about that.

WOMAN CHOSEN AS ASSISTANT TO PROBATE JUDGE

For the first time in the sixty year history of the Cook county Probate court a woman has been appointed an assistant to the probate judge. She is Miss Phyllis M. Kelley, 46 years old, who has been practicing law in Chicago since October, 1911. She will take her oath of office from Probate Clerk Mitchell C. Robin today and begin her duties immediately.

Miss Kelley's appointment was approved by the county commissioners and by a number of judges of both the Circuit and Superior courts. The county board adopted a special appropriation for her salary and for the pay roll of a staff of twenty Public Works Administration employés who will work under her direction.

18,000 Will Cases Waiting.

Miss Kelley has been assigned to the special job of terminating the probation of some 18,000 to 20,000 wills which have been accumulating in the court's files for the last seven years. Most of these cases involve small estates which should have been closed at the end of the thirteen month period set by law for the completion of probate proceedings unless "good and sufficient reason" can be shown for their continuation.

"My job will benefit the widows and heirs whose property is tied up in the courts," Miss Kelley said. "It will provide immediate payment of debts owed to small creditors who perhaps do not know how to press their claims, and it will bring into the county coffers a large amount of fees which are paid when estates are fully probated.

"Most of it probably will aid the widows and heirs whose property has remained in the hands of administrators. In literally thousands of these smaller estates the widows and heirs did not know how to get their bequests.

"The staff of PWA workers has been digging into the files at night for a week now and I will send out notices to administrators and lawyers tomorrow. They will be ordered to come before me and show cause why the estates in which their interests are involved should not be closed. A calendar will be made up immediately and I will be in full stride within a week."

Long Experience in Court.

Miss Kelley has had long experience in the Probate court, having served as secretary to former Judge Charles S. Cutting at a time when he was on the Cook county Probate bench. She was admitted to the Illinois bar while thus employed. Later she was employed by Judge Cutting in his law firm, Cutting, Moore, and Sidley.

Miss Kelley said her appointment "is not political in any sense." She said that she had never taken part in "ward politics" and added that she had been an independent voter.

EMPEROR PICKS COMMONER FOR BRIDE IN ANNAM

SAIGON, Cochin-China, March 8.—(AP)—Emperor Bao Dai, youthful Europeanized monarch of Annam, has chosen a commoner for a bride. His engagement to Miss Yuen Hu Hao, daughter of a wealthy Cochin-Chinese family, was announced today. The wedding will be March 20.

Bao Dai succeeded to the throne of Annam, small French protectorate, eight and one-half years ago. He returned in 1932 from Paris, where he had studied for ten years, and took up the powers of his kingly position in a week-end of receptions and ceremonies, pomp, dancing and fireworks.

One of his first acts, after the festivities, was to issue a declaration that he intended to modernize the administration of his empire. He is the only son of the late Emperor Khai Dinh, and was born in 1913 at Hue.

BARBED RETORTS DOT SENATORS' SEAWAY DEBATE

Open Final Arguments as Vote Nears.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 8.—[Special.]—Pointed personalities punctuated debate in the senate today as the friends and foes of the St. Lawrence seaway treaty with Canada began their final arguments.

Cloture is to be imposed by agreement next Tuesday and the vote deciding whether or not the senate shall ratify this favorite project of President Roosevelt is to come upon the following day, March 14.

Through Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.], the group of radicals befriending the treaty sought to pin the "power trust" label on the opposition. But the choice of the Montana senator, an ardent free silverite, as spokesman, left a flank exposed, and the error was quickly taken advantage of.

Lewis Scores Point.

"Because certain Democratic members disagree with the President concerning this treaty," said Senator J. Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.], leader of the opposition, "the senator insinuates that the influence of the power trust is somehow making itself felt. I would like to draw a parallel. The senator is an advocate of the free coinage of silver at 16 to 1 and thereby opposes the President's monetary policies. Does he think it fair, then, to infer that the influence of the silver mining interests—the 'silver trust'—is having its effect?"

Senator William H. Dieterich [Dem., Ill.], and Senator Huey Long [Dem., La.] met with a vigorous denial when they declared that the Canadian power interests, "in order to get 75 per cent of the power developed under the treaty and at Niagara Falls," had supplied the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater association with a large portion of the half million dollar fund used by the association for publicity and lobbying purposes.

Vandenberg Defends Fund.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] declared the fund had been contributed by 23 states through proper legislative action.

Senator Long was both archer and target as shafts of debate, some good natured, some barbed, were tossed across the party aile. When the "Kingfish" took a seat upon the Republican side, Senator Wheeler complimented the Republicans on having an advocate for whom they might find need when they sought to run next fall after having opposed the President on the treaty.

"And I would like to employ the tactics of the senator from Louisiana by suggesting an apt quotation from the Bible," supplied Senator Vandenberg. "I recommend Ecclesiastes, tenth chapter, thirteenth verse."

Press Finds Passage.

The press gallery borrowed a King James version from the senate library and learned that the Michigan senator thought the following was applicable to the "Kingfish":

"The beginning of the words of his mouth is foolishness and the end of his talk is mischievous madness."

Unabashed, Senator Long likened the senator from Michigan and other advocates of the treaty to those in Ezekiel 12:2: "Which have eyes to see and see not; they have ears to hear and hear not."

Senator Wheeler chided Senator Lewis for an earlier speech in which the Illinois senator had asserted that behind the treaty was a British plot to win a military water route into the heart of the United States.

"Under that theory," suggested Senator George W. Norris [Radical, Neb.], a treaty advocate, "the British could now shut off the Mississippi river."

Long Interjects Retort.

"The British thought of that first," interjected Senator Long. "That's exactly what this treaty does; it shuts off the Mississippi."

Senator Wheeler placed great dependence on the favorable report of the army engineers, but Senator Long had a word to say on that, too. The engineers had made their report after the President had indicated his wish to have the treaty go through and the waterway built, he said.

"Those army engineers are just like an army mule," he declared. "They will go whichever way you pull the lines."

Group Calls at White House.

Meanwhile, a committee of lakes states mayors and other city representatives, led by Mayor D. W. Hoan of Milwaukee were calling upon the President to pledge their support of the treaty in the fight against the "powerful groups" in opposition. They termed the treaty "a bill of rights for 40 million people of the midwest," and said the opposition had "resorted to fallacious and imaginary contentions," based on sectionalism.

The President was quoted as agreeing with his visitors, as having said that fears as to the inadequacy of the Chicago water diversion were "silly," and that arguments against the treaty were based on imaginary fears and doubts.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

Boss Rooster Picked.

March 8, 1934.

TWO Plymouth Rock roosters today settled differences that have been brewing in the barnyard for several days. The weather has been marked by blustering winds for several days here on THE TRIBUNE'S Kendall county experimental farm, but comparative calm today gave the two feathered monarchs an opportunity to determine who is boss.

The finish was no one round affair. In fact, the fight was renewed several times in the morning before the younger of the two roosters proved that among the poultry flock for this season he is going to rule the roost and the feedlot.

One admirable quality of these fights for domination is that once settled they are not renewed until some new claimant for the title announces his intention of trying his spurs. The flock is getting oyster shell grits, meat scraps and laying mash in self feeders. These cafeterias are open for service at all daylight hours. In addition the poultry house floor is covered twice a week with clover chaff in which the chickens can get their exercise in scratching.

Charles Sleezer has been hauling gravel to the feedlots. In spreading this gravel around near the feeding troughs and racks, the animals are provided with better footing, and less feed is wasted. The steer that was under the weather a few days ago has responded to the veterinary's care and is now in good shape.

Clarence and Louis Thurow Jr., with a weather eye out for the approach of spring, have been checking over the horses and harness today. This preparation for work in the fields will save time when land is to be prepared for seedbeds.

The horses have been getting more exercise the last few days to prepare them for more strenuous work later on. They are all in good shape, according to the inspection today. Coats are a little rough, perhaps, but that is because they have been foraging outside as much as possible to keep them from putting on too much fat. A too plump horse would be handicapped for the season's work.

Feed for the hogs is being measured out carefully these days to keep the sows from getting too much or too little. They must be in good condition to take care of themselves and the little pigs. Rations today were four bushels of ear corn and four bushels of oats. The little fellows have been venturing out in the open again, enticed by the sun. But they stay fairly close to their mothers.

Three pairs of twins and a single lamb were born early this morning. John Rawlings to date has had the care of 34 ewes, who have given birth to 20 pairs of twins and 14 single lambs. Two lambs couldn't be saved, so the flock now consists of the ewes and 52 frisky lambs as playful as their wobbly legs permit.

Rawlings saw a big hawk flying over the pond today and a little later three sea gulls took the same route. There may be some typical March weather coming, for sea gulls flying very far inland are often a lake fisherman's guide to raw winds and a rough storm from off the lake.

This idea of looking ahead is affecting the food supply. Some of the meat cuts from a recent butchering have been selected for next summer's table on the farm. Hams and shoulders of pork are hanging in the smoke house and the fire will be lit tomorrow to begin the smoking period. Since butchering the meat has been preserved frozen, awaiting this operation.

MASTODON'S HEAD IS DUG UP BY CWA MEN NEAR AURORA

The skeleton head of a huge mastodon, a member of an extinct species which roamed the North American continent 20,000 years ago, was dug up near Aurora yesterday by workmen employed on a Civil Works administration project. The head stands 4 feet 9 inches high and measures 2 feet 10 inches horizontally. It weighs 350 pounds.

It was classified by E. S. Riggs of the Field museum and Prof. Clarence R. Smith of Aurora college. The two men said the finding was the first evidence that mastodons ever roamed the middlewest. Prof. Riggs said there was evidence that a lake once covered the area where the head was found.

The teeth in the upper jaw of the head are intact and the molars measure 9 inches in diameter. The scapula of the skeleton was dug up two weeks ago near the scene of yesterdays discovery. Workmen will resume digging today in the hope of discovering the remainder of the skeleton. If found it will be turned over to the Field museum. The first bones were found by excavators digging a peat bog in Phillips' park which is to be the site of an artificial lake.

DRIVERS REJECT MILK COMPANIES' MERIT PAY SCALE

The Milk Wagon Drivers' union last night voted unanimously, in a meeting at their headquarters, 220 South Ashland avenue, to reject a proposal of the employing dairy companies that a so-called merit system of compensation be accepted as the basis for a new wage scale.

At present each driver receives $40 a week for delivering 1,333 quarts of milk, or equivalent products, each week. Any excess over this number of unit sales brings the driver 6-10 of a cent a point. The new proposal was that the drivers be paid 2¼ cents a quart or its equivalent up to 271 points a day, with 6-10 of a cent a point over 1,879 a week. The drivers figured that each would have to work a full seven days a week to earn as much as they now earn in six.

Approximately 6,000 drivers of the total membership of 7,000 attended the meeting. A committee of the drivers will notify the employers of the rejection and wait for a new proposition. The meeting last night was presided over by James G. Kennedy, vice president of the union.

STUDIES OFFER KEY TO BROWN STUDENT LIFE

University Shows Spirit of Rhode Island.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Providence, R. I., March 8.—[Special.]—One of the distinctive features of Brown university, seventh oldest college in America and the third in New England, with a charter granted in 1764, is the "departmental community." Its purpose is enlargement of contacts between students and faculty, a problem which has different aspects at Brown than at many other institutions.

Brown always has stuck to the ideal of maintaining the atmosphere and tradition of the small college while keeping strictly up to date in scholastic attainment. Instead of going in for wholesale expansion, as most colleges did a few years back, Brown limited the number of its students to twelve hundred undergraduate men; three hundred graduate students, and 500 undergraduate women in Pembroke college, a separate college, Brown not being co-educational.

Studies Basis of Contacts.

The "adequacy of contacts" has always been a fundamental policy of Brown. With only 1,200 undergraduates, life on the campus, the college holds, has retained its old intimacy and democracy.

Where Yale has established the residential college plan and Harvard the house plan to break up the student body into small compact groups, each a cross section of college life, Brown's conception of a solution of the problem is the departmental community.

This plan, as set forth by the university, looks to the development of communities of interest among students and professors in the places where the students do their work. It is "in the fields of their intellectual interests rather than in their places of residence."

A group of departments, such as biology, botany and psychology, under the plan would have joint physical facilities. The professors' offices and the laboratories would be housed in close proximity. A departmental library gives students easy access to necessary books.

Professors and Students Close.

In these departmental communities the undergraduates find not only an atmosphere conducive to study but the intimate associations with professors and graduate students which Brown always has promoted as a fundamental policy.

The system has been established in some departments, its completion awaiting larger funds, and already, the university reports, the departmental communities have become one of Brown's characteristic features and have proved of the highest practical value. Stimulation of student interest is the outstanding result.

Brown has laid stress upon "intellectual ignition" of students by contact with scholars, and the community system is being studied by other colleges as having demonstrated its value as an intellectual spark plug.

The educational policy in force at Brown says:

"Education shall be presented as a high adventure which the student shares with his instructor, one that stimulates initiative and responsibility and develops the capacity for getting things done."

To the visitor Brown still seems to breathe the colonial air of independence and freedom. The college was established in Rhode Island because of the spirit of religious liberty in the commonwealth founded by Roger Williams, who was banished from Massachusetts because he stood against the intolerance of Puritanism. It was founded by Baptists, but with the aid of three other denominations, which were admitted to a share in the corporate control.

No Religious Disputes.

As Rhode Island was an example of freedom of conscience within a civil state, Brown was one of the early examples of freedom in teaching. Its charter, 170 years old, which the professors seem never to weary of quoting, says that into the institution:

"Shall never be admitted any religious tests, but on the contrary all the members hereof shall forever enjoy full, free, absolute, and uninterrupted liberty of conscience," and that "sectarian differences of opinion shall not make any part of the public and classical instruction."

On the dome of the marble statehouse here is a collossal statue of the "independent man," while the traditional spirit of Rhode Island against intolerance was registered again fifteen years ago when it was one of the two states which refused to ratify the 18th or prohibition amendment. The historical setting seems to be reflected in the spirit of the university itself today.

Four Secretaries of State.

Among its graduates are four who became secretaries of state: William L. Marcy, Richard Olney, John Hay, who was secretary to President Lincoln and secretary of state, and Charles Evans Hughes, now chief justice of the United States Supreme court. One of its early graduates was Horace Mann [1819], father of the American public school system.

University hall, the first building, was used as a barracks and hospital for American troops and for the French soldiers of Rochambeau during the revolution, when the college was closed while faculty and students were in the army. And in 1790 President George Washington with Thomas Jefferson visited the building.

A hundred years ago or so Brown was among the first to reorganize on the basis of the elective principle.

Andrews Former President.

E. Benjamin Andrews, who later became superintendent of schools in Chicago, as president of Brown in the nineties ushered in a new era. He built up the faculty; many he brought in forty years ago are now eminent professors, and the Brown faculty has been known for its strength and constructive attainments.

As the year book describes it, in the eighteenth century Brown was a colonial English college; in the nineteenth century a typical American college, in the twentieth century a collegiate university. It has no professional or technical schools.

The campus is on College hill, an acliviy which keeps business from encroaching and gives the college a certain isolation which encourages a distinctive college life. Walk down the hill and one is in the center of things in the city of Providence, a natural laboratory. Its hospitals, museums, social welfare agencies, are utilized for the educational experience of the students. The university cooperates with the Rhode Island school of design, its museum of art, the state and city boards of health, the state fisheries.

Advanced students in biology have the privilege of visiting operating rooms of the state hospital, students in education teach classes in schools under department supervision, and to students of political science the state caiptol gives first hand understanding of politics.

Link Studies to Life.

Brown sets forth that it is profitable that students compare academic principles with the actual operation of human agencies, and that in college as well as afterward students should relate their academic education to actual every day life.

One interesting illustration of the articulation between college and the every day world is in the art department. Prof. Will S. Taylor is in charge, and in a studio adjacent to the campus he is painting his murals for the Museum of Natural History in New York, and his classroom work is right there in the studio where the paintings are being produced. Another feature in which other colleges are displaying great interest is the circulating picture gallery, framed pictures of various schools of art, which students take out for one month at a time and hang on their walls.

In athletics the Brown slogan is "a team for every man and every man on a team," today more than 90 per cent of the students participate in some form of athletics, of whom half derive the benefits of competition in more than 200 intercollegiate contests held each year with some sixty rival colleges and schools. Brown was one of the pioneers in intercollegiate athletics, and today stands in the front ranks of intercollegiate sport.

PANAMA SEEN AS STRATEGIC POINT FOR U. S. TRADE

Offers Center to Expand Through Latin America.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, March 1. — [By mail.]—Across the old gold road of Spain, the isthmus of Panama, the United States has built a highway of blue water which has changed the commerce of the world.

With free ports on the Pacific and Atlantic sides of the canal, with manufacturers' stocks on hand for quick delivery, with a great, permanent industrial exhibit of American products here, the United States might make this central point in the Americas a key position for extending its markets into Latin America.

100,000,000 Prospective Buyers.

There are twenty Latin American countries, with a population of 100,000,000, with increasing purchasing power, within easy reach of Panama. The merchants of this country pass to and fro along this highway. Japan, Great Britain, Germany, and other nations use it to strengthen their trade. The United States, which produces all that these people need, and needs most of the things produced in the tropical states, has the natural geographic advantage over all its rivals. The Canal Zone is the place to concentrate and exploit this advantage.

Such a suggestion, particularly the building of a commercial museum here, has been made and the Panamanian government is willing to donate land for the purpose. France and Germany and more recently Japan were said to be interested in a similar project for their own products. With the Pan-American highway put through from Mexico, the proposal should become more attractive to the United States.

There is also a project here for a great tourist hotel which would take care of all the visitors to an industrial fair. Coöperation of shipping companies would be necessary.

High Point of Trade in 1920.

The Canal Zone is already a base for Ford, Parke-Davis, Standard Brands, Inc., Singer, British-American Tobacco, Ingersoll-Rand, and other big concerns.

The high point of Latin-American trade was recorded in 1920, when the aggregate of United States exports to the group was $1,568,000,000 and aggregate of imports from it $1,809,000,000. In 1929, with a much lower price level, corresponding figures were $972,900,000 and $1,106,000,000. In 1932 they had fallen to $217,000,000 and $358,000,000. In the meantime conditions have changed, and while the trend is upward, there is more competition and studied effort to take new markets. Such export markets may mean the difference between prosperity and depression for any nation.

Panama City and Colon, on the edge of the zone, have changed greatly in the last ten years. The influence of this standardized, machine controled belt of American life has been felt in many ways. The old slums and dives have been curbed. Life has been made safer and more healthful. The governments have improved, streets are paved and kept clean, homes have been beautified and the whole tone of things is Americanized to a degree not found outside Manila or Honolulu.

Great Help for the Poor.

The upper class of Panamanians, of course, have always had their own luxurious homes, but the effect among the poor has been great. The zone with its comparatively high wages has attracted thousands of country boys to the city, and unemployment has become a problem here. There is not enough work on the canal now for the laborers brought here from the West Indies and they may be sent home. A West Indian laborer getting $1.20 an hour, as they must get according to the recent demand of the Metal Trades council, is something to cause a revolution in any Caribbean island.

The government pay roll, the occasional visits of the fleet here, and the purchasing power of the 40,000 Canal Zone population forms the chief industry of Panama, coupled with the tourist trade, which rolls in here with four or five boats a day. The visit of the fleet is supposed to be good for $2,000,000. The imports to the zone, in fact, constitute about one-half the imports to the whole of Central America.

The Canal Zone and Panamanian governments coöperate in many ways, and in the matter of increasing American stocks here, the establishment of an industrial exhibit, and a general drive for business and visitors would act as a unit. Panama is not greatly developed outside the zone area. Its northwest province is now beginning to raise coffee and American planters in the hills there have fine estates, with trout streams flowing through them.

Part of Country Primitive.

A highway traverses the republic in this direction. There are bananas and fisheries, but parts are unexplored and parts are inhabited by most primitive types of Indians. The San Blas Indians have been untouched by the waves of this new world washing at their doors.

Gold, iron, silver, ivory nuts, timber, sugar, sarsaparilla, copper, kapok, and oil present some of the other possibilities of Panama, which is four times the size of Belgium, with 300 rivers running into the Pacific and 180 into the Atlantic. The population is 467,459, and according to the country standards life need never be difficult or unemployment ever a problem. They need never be hungry in the country, and yet a boy in town was sent to jail yesterday for stealing a loaf of bread and another was given a ten year sentence for snatching a purse. The government is now pushing many of them back into this rich country, establishing farm colonies with apparent success.

Panama City's main street, the Avenida Central, winds from the presidential palace, where armed soldiers patrol the entrance, through one of the most cosmopolitan quarters in the world, ending in the tenements of the West Indian Negroes, who live in a medley of noise and color, and in that delightful proximity to street and to each other which they love.

Syrians, East Indians, Japanese, Chinese, Spaniards, Germans, and Americans have shops, stores, and restaurants along the street, all competing for the American dollar. It looks thriving. New buildings are going up. Some of the shops are ultra modern, some old Spanish, where the goods are hidden away.

Soldiers and sailors stroll along the narrow streets of Harlem Heaven. Japanese barber shops, French perfume shops, Indian silk shops, American restaurants, theaters, Kelly's Ritz, Sloppy Joe's, Pop Steinberg's, make this the most colorful and varied of streets. Blacks are predominant in the street population. There is no color line or zone, and the population is increasing here too fast for the Canal Zone to support it.

A TRUE STORY

By A MOTHER

"In olden days," she writes, "when my mother was a girl she was a delicate child. She tells me that at nine in the morning she was given a patent medicine for biliousness; at noon she took another for chronic constipation; and at three she took a blood builder. She has often told me people didn't know much about health when she was a girl.

"I often contrast my four fine, healthy youngsters with mother. We don't fill them up with medicines the way people used to in mother's day. Thanks to my doctor's directions we just use Nujol regularly. It has not upset their stomachs, and even when they had whooping cough they only had serum and Nujol.

"I could write a book about Nujol from my fourteen years of married life. My husband's father uses it, too, and at seventy-four he is well and takes long walks.

"The children are Bud, age thirteen; Royal, age ten; Elaine, age nine; and Joyce, age four. All of them, thank goodness, are bright, active, and alert. They are advanced in school, and up to standard in weight and height. They love outdoor sports—hiking, swimming, and so on. We think we're pretty lucky to have discovered such an easy way to keep in good shape.

"You can publish this if you want to—maybe it will help some other families to keep well!"

Nothing we could add to Mrs. Strong's letter would make it any more convincing. We hope you will follow her example. Try Nujol yourself. Bring your children up on it to be regular as clockwork. It can't possibly do them any harm and it keeps millions well. You can get it at any drug store, now in two forms, plain Nujol and Cream of Nujol, the latter flavored and often preferred by children.

What is your Nujol story? If you have been using Nujol for ten years or more, if you are bringing up your children on it, tell us. Address Stanco Incorporated, 2 Park Avenue, New York City.

U. S. COMMERCE BODY, LONDON, PICKS TRIBUNE WRITER AS DIRECTOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 8. — Appreciation for the pioneer work being carried out by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in creating new business opportunities throughout Europe for American firms was marked by the American Chamber of Commerce of London at its annual meeting today by the appointment of John Steele, London correspondent of THE TRIBUNE, as a director of the chamber for a period of three years.

Other directors appointed were H. S. Goldey, W. Churchill Tweedy, A. H. Rowan, G. M. Cassatt, Chadwick H. Moore and Tarleton Winchester.

In his report Francis E. Powell, president of the chamber, pointed to indications of widespread improvement in international trade. Upon the repeal of prohibition, he declared, the chamber was flooded with inquiries from American firms and individuals anxious to contact liquor interests in Great Britain. Other queries were received from British distillers and liquor dealers.

Later Lord Trent, chairman of Boots Pure Drug company, addressed 150 members of the chamber at a luncheon at the Hotel Victoria. He praised President Roosevelt's achievements. Mr. Roosevelt's most remarkable achievements, he declared, was that after a year in office he remained the idol of the American people. Great Britain, he added, needed the Roosevelt spirit applied to its cabinet.

4,000 FIRE CALLS IN YEAR DUE TO BURNING RUBBISH

Frank C. McAuliffe, chief officer of the fire insurance patrol, told representatives of women's organizations yesterday that 4,000 fire alarms turned in last year were the result of fires originating in rubbish found in alleys. He spoke in the office of the Chicago Association of Commerce in connection with the association's annual "clean up, paint up, plant up" campaign.

Rankin H. Roberts, head of the committee in charge of the campaign, said the activity was confined principally to children, embracing the pupils of Chicago's 350 grammar schools and 34 high schools. The Chicago Association of Commerce donates a prize to the school showing the best results.

The organizations represented at the meeting were: Chicago Women's Aid, Mrs. C. Appel; Big Sisters, Mrs. George J. Aste; Chicago Culture club, Mrs. Joseph F. Novak; Women's Club of the People's Church, Mrs. J. J. Reynolds; Clean City commission, Mrs. E. O. Brooks; Garden Club of Illinois, Inc., Mrs. O. W. Dynes; Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations, Mrs. H. W. Hardy and Mrs. Walter H. Hermsdorf.

OLIVER W. HOLMES, 93, SPENDS DAY QUIETLY; HUNDREDS GREET HIM

Washington, D. C., March 8.—(AP)—Ninety-three today, former Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the Supreme court has lived to see the ideas he so often expressed in dissenting opinions become the final law of the land.

Phrases of the opinion by Justice Owen J. Roberts upholding New York state's right to fix the price of milk read as if they might have reflected much the same point of view as that which guided many of Holmes' famous dissents when his school of legal philosophy was a minority on the court.

The author of "The Common Law," spent his birthday quietly, paying it no more heed than was necessitated by hundreds of messages and the calls by intimate friends.

The aged justice's health continues good. His old ailment, lumbago, has bent the body that he liked to carry with soldierly erectness, but the mind within it still has the keenness which by common consent made him a great writer and jurist.

This honest HIGH TEST gasoline

Says LET'S GO

"HIGHEST TEST" AND anti-knock at the price of ordinary gasoline

There is more zip and action, more energy and power in every drop of this sensational motor fuel. And longer mileage, too.

Over and over again, every mile you drive your car proves the superior performance and the money-saving of high test Phillips 66.

Note, below, the definite gravity figures which prove how high the "test" is. The very fact that we publish them is evidence that Phillips 66 is higher test, indicates that we fear no comparisons with other motor fuels. Remember, Phillips is the world's largest producer of natural high test gasoline.

In freezing weather, our greater gasoline delivers split-second starting. In any weather, it improves acceleration and flexibility. This is insured by our pioneer principle of CONTROLLED VOLATILITY. As temperature falls, Phillips 66 gravity rises—scientifically protecting motor performance against changes in weather.

Besides, you get high anti-knock value. Phillips 66 eliminates the carbon knock in old motors, the compression knock in new ones.

All of which explains why no other motor fuel has ever received so much enthusiastic word-of-mouth advertising.

Frankfort, Ky., March 8.—[Special.]—Vance Armentrout, associate editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, who was freed on a writ of habeas corpus after he had been jailed by the lobbying investigating committee of the Kentucky house of representatives, today found a champion on the floor of the house.

The editor was held in contempt for refusing to divulge the name of the author of a letter published in his paper, which criticized the legislature. Armentrout was freed soon after his arrest by County Judge L. Boone Hamilton, of Franklin county, who held the action illegal.

Praises Writer.

Today Representative John W. Taylor, a Republican of Princeton, introduced a resolution commending the writer of the letter, called the "Psalm of Politics." The letter, which is said to have been written by a member of the house, was critical of the rules committee and the speaker of the house, W. E. Rogers Sr.

The resolution introduced by Taylor held the committee had become ridiculous by its action. The resolution said:

"Whereas, the legislative lobby investigating committee has degenerated into a committee investigating insignificant, irrelevant, and immaterial things and calling witnesses to learn who wrote the pointed, true, and humorous article, the 'Psalm of Politics,' to the 'Point of View' column in the Courier Journal, and Become Ridiculous.

"Whereas, said committee has become ridiculous and it's conduct greatly discredits this legislature.

"Therefore be it resolved by the house of representatives that

"1. The unknown writer of the 'Psalm of Politics' be and is hereby commended for his acute insight into the workings of this house, for his sense of humor as shown in his writing of the 'Psalm of Politics.'

"2. That said committee be censured and condemned for taking up such investigations and that said committee is hereby repudiated and discharged from further duty.

"3. That this house has refused to investigate an unfaithful public officer and is now investigating silly matters."

Push Jail Fight.

Meanwhile the committee had not given up the idea of landing the editor in jail. A committee of five was directed to make an immediate investigation and report to the house, and if recommending further attempts at punishment to decide whether the statute making it a misdeameanor to be in contempt of the house should be invoked. The maximum penalty under that statute is six months in jail, a $1,000 fine, or both.

The investigating committee reported sadly that orders to put Armentrout in jail had been defied by the county judge and that it would "be vain" to try that method again.

Judge Hamilton in his decision had held that, as the editor had been adjudged in contempt without form or trial and without being permitted advice by counsel, the committee had failed to comply with legal procedure.

Refused to Give Name.

Armentrout had been called before the house and asked the name of the writer of the letter, which pointed out that an audit made by legislature appropriation had not been presented until Feb. 27 on the day when the rules committee took complete charge of the legislation. The apporpriation had called for the audit to be ready at the opening of the 1934 session.

"The powerful rules committee," the anonymous writer said in part, "takes charge of everything we do. They have us by the tail and will go that way with us for the rest of the session."

Editor Armentrout held that the letter was confidential and said that he could not conscientiously divulge the name of the writer.

LABOR BOARD REJECTS MINE UNION'S PLEA FOR ILLINOIS REVIEW

Washington, D. C., March 8.—(AP)—The national labor board rejected today a proposal of the Progressive Miners of America that they review the decision of the national bituminous coal labor board.

The appeal had to do with the progressives' request that the national board consider a complaint that the contracts at the Peabody mines in Saline county, Ill., were illegal inasmuch as they failed to represent the wishes of the regular miners.

CRAWFORD AV. FORMALLY MADE PULASKI ROAD

Mayor Kelly announced yesterday that the name of Crawford avenue has formally been changed to Pulaski road. He said that the street signs will be changed at the end of a 30 day period which has been allotted to enable business men and property owners along the thoroughfare to change their advertising and stationery. He asserted that the city would fight any further appeal on the injunction which the Appellate court dissolved in an opinion given earlier in the week. Several members of the group of Crawford avenue property owners who opposed the change in name have announced that they would take the case to the state Supreme court.

Killed on Way from Burial; Eight Others Hurt in Crash

Hoopeston, Ill., March 8.—[Special.]—Returning from a funeral last night the car of John Witzig of Morton, Ill., collided with an auto carrying nine persons. Witzig died of his injuries, and John Frintz, a passenger in his car, was scalped and may die. A baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Lou Neukomn, who owned the other car, suffered a skull fracture and may not recover. The car with the nine persons was standing on a side road waiting to turn onto state route 49, near Cissna Park. Miss Irene Witzig was driving her father's car and said the lights of the other car blinded her. Six other persons in both cars received injuries. The funeral attended by the Witzig's was that of Philip Schmidt, killed by a stove explosion.

OFFICIAL FIGHTS NEW YORK MART CHICKEN RACKET

New York, March 8.—[Special.]—The New York housewife is unwillingly contributing $16,000,000 a year for the support of poultry racketeers. That charge was made today by Commissioner William Fellows Morgan Jr. of the department of markets. He announced an investigation.

About eight cents of the cost of every retail pound of chicken goes to the racketeers, Commissioner Morgan said. There are 60,000,000 chickens consumed here every year, he declared.

He explained that this is theoretically the cost of coops in which chickens are transported from the farm to the city dealer, but that the tribute is actually levied even though the farmer takes the chickens to the dealer's door in his own truck.

INJURY IN FALL FATAL.

COMMITTEE POST FIGHTS CLARIFIED BY WITHDRAWALS

As the election board began a three day grind of hearings on contests filed in ward committeeship fights yesterday the lineups for these party battles in several wards became clarified by belated withdrawals which were accepted at County Clerk Sweitzer's office.

One notable example of this was a Republican shift in the 6th ward. There, for the purpose of ousting Patrick Sheridan Smith, one of the Crowe-Barrett rebels against the county committee last month, there was a concentration behind Bernard J. Kelly, for several years a lieutenant of B. W. Snow. Three candidates, Hamlet C. Ridgway, Walter M. George, and Lawrence B. Jacobs, withdrew.

The most important development in the contest hearings was a withdrawal of objections against the petitions of four candidates opposing the reelection of James J. Sullivan, Democratic committeeman of the 8th ward. Two of these opponents, Sheriff William D. Meyering and Ald. David L. Sutton, are considered strong contenders against Sullivan, but he was one of those who effected a withdrawal.

California Again Imposes Death Under Kidnap Law

Los Angeles, Cal., March 8.—[Special.]—The death sentence under the new California kidnap law today was imposed for the second time in one week here. The man consigned to the gallow is Harry Brooke, who, with William Tanner, was convicted on a charge of forcing Attorney William Bodkin to drive with them to his home and burning him with flaming torches of paper while demanding the whereabouts of money and jewelry. Tanner was sentenced to hang last Monday.

Heavy Laughers Are Warned of Durante Film

Snozzle Has Difficulties Managing Fighter.

"PALOOKA."
Produced by United Artists.
Directed by Benjamin Stoloff.
Presented at the United Artists theater.
THE CAST.

Knobby Walsh	Jimmie Durante
Nina Madero	Lupe Velez
Joe Palooka	Stuart Erwin
Mayme Palooka	Marjorie Rambeau
Pete Palooka	Robert Armstrong
Anne	Mary Carlisle
Al McSwatt	William Cagney
Trixie	Thelma Todd
Doc Wise	Franklyn Ardell
Whitey	Tom Dugan
Sista	Guinn Williams
Blacky	Stanley Fields

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Well, the United Artists' screen is simply alive with Jimmie Durante! If you've never had your fill of him are this—the feast is before you.

Colossal, stupendous, suave; crooked as a cork screw, lively as a cockroach and funny as a sitting mule—there he is, all for you—this gentleman with the schnozzle that is making history.

Only don't get the idea that he's Palooka. He'd crush you in your tracks if he ever heard that you mistook him for that dumb cluck. Palooka is a prize fighter [don't make us laugh!] and "Schnozzle" is his ambitious manager. Palooka's papa before him had been a pug. His mother was a chorus girl. And Knobby Walsh has great hopes that by fair means or foul, preferably and probably foul, he can mold the great, big numbskull of a farm boy known as Joe Palooka into a paying proposition.

Fancy then, the humiliation, the mortification, the unutterable confusion experienced by Mr. Walsh when Mr. Palooka's mental discrepancies start to really discrep—leading the white man's hope into a maze of unforeseen circumstances of which his affair with one Nina Madero is the pièce de rèsistance, the dernier cri, or to be succinct, the most unforeseen.

Stuart Erwin and Robert Armstrong are respectively amusing as the bone-headed Palookas, son and father. Marjorie Rambeau delivers an elegant characterization as Mama Palooka, who, in the early days before she walked out on her two-timing Pete, had worn mean tights and swung a wicked hip before the footlights. In her present characterization she startlingly resembles Ethel Barrymore. Her lines and delivery are rich and racy.

All rôles are handled with the most perfect aplomb. One laugh chases another, with Mr. Durante being personally responsible for most of the mirth that rocks his observers.

He is here, there and everywhere with a cascading vitality that will not be dammed. He even sings—in a shop window—"Inky Dinky Do," his own composition, and the film ends with a closeup of the Durante phiz in a baby bonnet, child in question belonging to none other than those two proud parents, Knobby Walsh and his one time anathema, Nina Madero. . . .

At this juncture, the audience gives up completely, and ushers rush water. . . .

This week's program includes a four reel feature—"Film Parade"—which you'll enjoy. It was produced by J. Stuart Blackton, who founded the old Vitagraph company and is an historical history of the movie business—beginning with the Egyptians, who, according to Mr. Blackton, drove their chariots rapidly by pillars on each of which there was the same character in a different pose—to get the illusion of that character in motion—and ending with Mickey Mouse.

The piece is quite informative, and entertaining in spots. I surmise that you'll care most for the bits of old films and the sight of favorites of another day. You see Maurice Costello, Earle Williams, Anita Stewart, Mary Pickford, John Bunny, Flora Finch, etc., as they were when pictures were new.

The film closes with a flight of imagination—what will the future bring? Mr. Blackton delivers the accompanying lecture.

Dean Gilkey Sees Morale as First Chicago Need

A recovery of morale is more of a major concern for Chicago than her reputation and the state of her internal affairs, Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, dean of the University of Chicago chapel, declared last night in an address before the Women's Civic council in the Chicago Woman's club. The council aims to encourage women to take an active interest in government such as in honest elections and reliable candidates.

"Reb" Russell May Be New Cowboy Hero

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 8.—[Special.]—"Reb" Russell, remembered both by partisans of Northwestern university football and all the teams he played against, is back in Hollywood in the movies, and this soft spoken but hard hitting young fellow in the purple sweater may prove the answer to the movies' question: "Where are we going to get a new money making cowboy hero?"

"Reb" is here with three or four horses from his old home place in Oklahoma sparring around which offer of cowboy movie rôles to take. At one time he was lined up to succeed Ken Maynard as the horseback star of Tiffany studio, but the studio underwent financial reorganization and that plan was shelved.

Russell has appeared in six or seven films, most of them western for Universal since coming out here the first time a few years ago in the football film, "The All-American."

Norman Foster, who has been fighting off a hospital trip for an ailing appendix while trying to complete "Strictly Dynamite," busted up a scene in the story at Radio studio when Marian Nixon turned to him and said, "Gee, you look terrible."

Foster, who had been thinking about how he felt, forgot his dialog and said, "Do you really think so?" Marian was much confused; the question she asked him was in the script. They had to re-shoot the scene.

Jean Muir was riding a spirited horse at Warner ranch yesterday during a sequence in "Dr. Monica" when the mount broke for a clump of trees and a heavy branch banged her a hard bump on the head, dazing and almost unseating her. The discolored left eye which was her memento was fixed up by the makeup man to look normal, and although still groggy and in pain the slim New York blonde girl finished her scenes for the day.

Kay Francis may repopularize hat pins. She wears them with her new picture hats. . . . Universal announces a plan to release a modern version of Richard Brinsley Sheridan's "School for Scandal" as a 1934 special.

You've all heard how exclusive the Hollywood stars are getting. Well, it's passed the point of exclusiveness and now it's isolation. The following have had phones removed so no one can reach them except by calling in person or telegraphing messages in which case they can exercise their own volition about responding to calls: Ann Harding, Richard Dix, Greta Garbo, Frances Dee and Joel McCrea, William Gargan.

Will Rogers has a phone at the ranch but he can't be reached on it. Warner Oland craved isolation so that he went to live on a Mexican island in the Gulf of California, and Leo Carrillo got the same result by buying a place you need a Mexican guide to find in the mountains back from the ocean near Malibu.

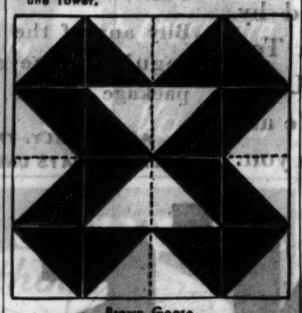
Museum Will Open Exhibit of Aardvark; Only U. S. Specimens

A new habitat group showing one of the world's strangest animals—the aardvark, a native of South Africa—will be opened at the Field Museum of Natural History today. The exhibit shows two aardvarks—the name means earth pig and was given by Dutch settlers in South Africa—near the burrows in which they live. This is the only group of these animals in any American museum.

The aardvark, according to Dr. Wilfred H. Osgood, curator of zoology at the museum, is about the size of a large fat hog, weighing up to 150 pounds, and further resembles the hog in that it has a pigiike snout. The aardvark's only food consists of the termite—or white ant—and it is nocturnal in habit.

Quilt Is Pieced Entirely in Brown and White Blocks

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn or Tribune Tower.



Brown Goose.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Those ludicrously dignified creatures of the poultry yard furnished the theme for this good looking quilt block. One spread made from this "Brown Goose" block is entirely composed of brown and white pieced blocks, which make a tremendously effective coverlet. There is a bit of encouragement for the quilt maker in the fact that only one tiny triangular pattern is used.

English Visitor Helps Infant Welfare

Miss Elizabeth Dawson (left), who is visiting Miss Mira Lee Benoist (right), did not dream when she left her home near Liverpool, England, that she would enter so deeply in American life that she would be sewing for the Winnetka infant welfare. This is the case, however, for her hostess, the daughter of the William F. Benoists of Winnetka, is a member of the newly formed Junior auxiliary to the Winnetka infant welfare, and Miss Dawson is one who when in Rome does as the Romans do. The young Englishwoman will be a visitor here two months longer.

Two Plays Will Be Presented on North Shore

Tonight theater-conscious folk will be heading for the Glencoe Central school auditorium, where the Threshold players, that ambitious organization of amateur actors which two years ago presented "Death Takes a Holiday," is presenting another difficult play, "Berkeley Square."

The Threshold players include such actors and actresses as Mrs. Norman MacLeish, who tonight will play Helen Pettigrew, the love of Peter Standish, as portrayed by Joseph Shippen; also Mrs. William Sidley Jr., who has driven out from town three nights a week for the last six weeks to rehearse her part of the older sister, Kate Pettigrew; Horatio H. Chandler, who will portray Mr. Throstle; Arthur Siebold, who is certain to do splendidly in the rôle of the younger brother of the Pettigrew girls; Mrs. L. Harrison Mettler, who in everybody's opinion is a perfect Mrs. Pettigrew as well as a most charming person to have as a member of the troupe, and Mrs. Theodore Schulte, who makes a lovely Duchess of Devonshire.

Mr. MacLeish and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Joseph B. McCall of Philadelphia, who is visiting the MacLeishes, are taking several guests to the auditorium, and after the show Mrs. MacLeish will return home with them to play hostess at a supper party that she is giving for her mother.

At a tea and reception in their Durand House apartment this afternoon, Headmaster and Mrs. John Wayne Richards will greet Lake Forest academy's out of town and local midwinter week-end guests.

Presiding at the tea tables this afternoon will be Mrs. Cornelius M. Trowbridge and Mrs. Logan T. McMenemy, whose husbands are alumni and trustees of the school. During the tea the guests will inspect the exhibition of water colors by La Force Bailey and Pierre Bezy, as well as the diversified and highly spirited portraitures done by Frederick Kaeser II.

Charles F. Glore Jr. with his accordion will be one of the highlights tonight in the 1934 edition of the Academy follies to be presented in the academy chapel. Others who will be the "big men" in the day's festivities are Le Roy A. Kling Jr., son of the Le Roy Klings; Edward Fleer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Fleer; Roger Allan Crowe, son of the Burt A. Crowes; Walter Cherry Jr., Andrew Rebori Jr., and Hugo Sonnenschein.

Tomorrow afternoon all of the academy students and their guests will fill the Deerpath theater for the première of "Ellsworth of the Zouaves," the civil war play written and directed by Louis E. Laflin Jr. The play is being presented by the Academy Gargoyle club with the assistance of several Lake Forest friends.

Mr. Laflin has carried out the period idea in the programs and tickets, as well as in the costumes and settings. The programs, according to a remark made last night by a Lake Forester of the younger generation, "look like laundry lists." The type styles used on the programs, long since out of use, were copied from the yellow pages of the Lake Forest academy catalog and programs of the 1860-'61 period.

Taffeta Comes to Town in Big, Noisy Parade

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Taffeta has come to town to rustle in practically every costume and costume accessory you select. Taffeta scarfs, new and made in square formation with fringed edges, are giddy enough and bold enough to look like the flag of some mythical, excitable kingdom in the Balkans, but they are honeys snuggled in the necklines of thin wool dresses and tweed ensembles.

Taffeta blouses are as breezy and crisp as anything you care to wear . . . from the demure tailored affairs made with high collars [usually coming to a good end in bows] to the daring new affairs of pastel printed models made with the deep, deep new neckline.

They will make you gasp, but the gals who have grumbled over tight, sore throat looking necks ought to cheer for these. A high double ruff forms a collar that can stand or be pulled over the coat and short puffed sleeves and a fitted silhouette that really fits are features that make them instantaneous hits.

Plaid glories in taffeta still flutter madly in all new collections, some startling examples of what plaids will accomplish when cut on the bias and fashioned with long fitted sleeves. Stunning models in huge black and gray or white combines, or the same scramble in red and rose and white, are "finds" for a dark colored suit.

But the best bets are the new two piece taffeta frocks . . . tailored as to seams, pockets, collar and silhouette. They can be worn now under your winter coat or new early tweed coat, and later without the topcoats. They are made of checked navy, black and brown taffeta, a check that looks like a white open square. Short sleeves cuffed with white organdy match the small wisp of white organdy at the neck that ties in a clerical looking bow.

Business Men Will Give Concert to Aid City's Allied Charities

More than 200 members of the Glee club of the Chicago Association of Commerce and the Chicago Business Men's orchestra will participate in a joint benefit concert Sunday afternoon at Orchestra hall. Proceeds will be given to the Allied Chicago charities.

In former years the Association of Commerce Glee club, organized in 1912, and the Chicago Business Men's orchestra, formed in 1921, have given individual public appearances in Chicago and other middle western cities. Their combined appearance for the community fund marks their first point musical effort.

Originally the concert was planned by the late George Lytton, merchant and cellist in the orchestra. Following Mr. Lytton's death arrangements were assumed by W. Bradshaw Egan, investment banker and president of the of the glee club, and Avern B. Scolnik, attorney and president of the orchestral group. Others sponsoring the concert are Bruce MacLeish, George W. Young and Frank Adams Mitchell.

Ann McKeown to Be Guest at Kitchen Shower

Start Prenuptial Parties for Spring Bride.

BY JUDITH CASS.

EVERYTHING from an egg beater to a cook book will be showered on Miss Ann Winifred McKeown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Crawford McKeown of Hubbard Woods next Tuesday afternoon when she is entertained by Miss Joy Fairman at the first of many prenuptial parties. Miss Fairman is giving a kitchen shower for Miss McKeown at the Winnetka home of her parents, the Fred W. Fairmans.

Three days after spring has winged its way into town, at 4:30 the afternoon of March 24, Miss McKeown is to become the bride of William S. Miles Jr. of Peoria in a service read by Dean Gerald G. Moore of St. Luke's pro-cathedral, Evanston, at Crawfordsburn, the McKeown home, 935 Private road, Hubbard Woods. After the ceremony there will be a small reception, also at Crawfordsburn.

Another of the large parties for Miss McKeown for which invitations have already been issued is a luncheon and bridge a week from this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hampton Ripley [the former Janet Kirk] in Winnetka. The bridal dinner will be given by Mr. and Mrs. McKeown the night before the wedding at their home.

Mrs. George Bacon Moore is here from her home in Waban, Mass., to attend her sister as matron of honor and to enjoy the prenuptial festivity. Miss Louise Dunn of Tenafly, N. J., who was Miss McKeown's roommate at Leland Powers, a school of the theater in Boston, will come to be the maid of honor. Miss Fairman will be one bridesmaid and Mrs. Kenneth Crawford McKeown [the former Carroll Slade] another.

Theodore Page of Peoria is to be the best man for his cousin. Ushering will be Kenneth Crawford McKeown and Howard Kellogg of Peoria, who is coming from Yale especially for the wedding.

Mrs. D. E. Jerrems Moves to Hotel.

Yesterday was moving day for Mrs. Donald E. Jerrems and her daughter, Miss Eleanor Jerrems, who have sold their handsome residence at 1541 Astor street and taken an apartment at the Ambassador East. Donald E. Jerrems Jr. will join his mother and sister there during his spring holiday from Hotchkiss. Mr. and Mrs. Clay Judson have purchased the Jerrems residence. They will occupy it after the first of May.

Quite a number of Chicagoans are sailing today on the Mauretania for a ten day cruise to the West Indies and South America. Some of those from this city who will disembark and enjoy the strangeness of Trinidad, La Guaira, Curacao, and Nassau are the Richard Bentleys, Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Welles, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Warfield III., the Keith Carpenters, the Washington Flexners, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Wirtz, and Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Bryce.

The Charles Garfield Kings, who were waiting for news from their son, Garfield, before planning where to spend his Easter vacation, left yesterday for Miami where young Mr. King will join them from Yale. On March 28 Mrs. King and Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy will leave Miami for New York where they will meet Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine and have a little holiday before attending the annual Red Cross meeting in Washington early in April.

A TALE that links two eras in American history concerns a piece of property in Jacksonville, Ill., owned by George W. Dulany III. of Evanston, son of George W. Dulany Jr. of 936 Lake Shore drive. A decade or so before Lincoln signed the emancipation proclamation, young Dulany's great-grandfather bought a Negro slave for $500 on the auction block in Missouri. She became nurse to his children, and eventually married the family coachman. After the emancipation proclamation, Mr. Dulany gave a sum of money to each of his former slaves and told them they were free. Most of them declined to leave, however, and he installed some forty of them on a Missouri farm. Among those who stayed was the Negro nurse. Eventually, however, she moved to Jacksonville, where she and her husband purchased a little piece of property. Her husband died and she, then an old woman, called in a lawyer to make her will. She wanted the property left to the great-grandson of the man who had purchased her as a slave in the middle of the nineteenth century. Asked why she wanted to do this, she made succint answer:

Sentiment—Sign—Eliot—Eve—Newspapers.

"Ah been doin' a little back thinkin," she said.

* *

SIGN on northside tea shop:

"Courteous service until 7 p. m."

It doesn't say what to expect after 7, though.

* *

"Very well," she said. "Among other things my sister gave me a lovely set of George Eliot."

The salesman looked blank and asked:

"Well, what is it—dishes, cosmetics, or what?"

The sequel to the story occurred when the episode was repeated to an advertising man just back from Hollywood. He remarked:

"Imagine that, when his five foot shelf is known all over the country."

* *

EVE herself probably could have taken a lesson from blue-eyed 3 year old Mary Jane Cassidy. Her older brother, Jack, of high school age, had several companions over for the evening, and the boys had gone to the basement for a game. Mrs. Cassidy found Mary Jane sitting on the top step crying. When asked what the trouble was, she answered:

"I thought if I cried the boy with the nice face would sit with me."

LEST the public get the idea that members of the Wells Street Open Air Literary society are merely literary, it should be chronicled that they are practical, too. The newspapers given them by elevated line passengers descending the stairs are read, but after that many of them are tucked under shirts or vests as protection from the cold, or are used as bedding—giving the lie to the old maxim, "Nothing is so dead as yesterday's newspaper."

HERE ARE SOME NEW WAYS TO SERVE SALMON

Tempting Dishes Easy to Prepare.

The "problem of the month" for thoughful kitcheneers is what to serve and how to serve it these pre-Easter days. One good solution is salmon, which has so many possibilities, and it's a gay, glad feeling to have the shelves stocked with cans of this inexpensive and nutritious protein food.

This tempting breakfast dish combines creamed salmon with eggs.

CREAMED SALMON WITH POACHED EGGS.

2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 cup milk
1 No. 1 can salmon
6 eggs, poached
Salt and pepper to taste
Parsley

Make a white sauce of the flour, butter, and milk. When thickened and smooth add the salmon, flaked coarsely, and the seasoning. When hot pour into a service bowl or casserole, arrange the poached eggs atop the salmon, and garnish with tiny parsley sprigs. Serve an egg and plenty of creamed salmon onto buttered toast for each hungry diner.

A little lemon juice adds tastiness to these salmon cutlets that are almost a meal in themselves.

DEEP FRIED SALMON CUTLETS.

3 cups cooked, chopped macaroni
4 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons butter
1 cup milk, scalded
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, separated
Pepper to taste
2 teaspoons peppery sauce
1 cup flaked salmon
Bread crums
Juice of ½ lemon

Make a white sauce of the flour, butter, and scalded milk and season with salt, pepper, peppery sauce, and lemon juice. Beat in the egg yolks and stir in the salmon and macaroni. Spread on a plate and chill well. Form into cutlet shapes or into little balls or cone forms. [The mixture should be quite soft, but if it is too much so add bread crums till it will hold its shape.] Now roll in the crums, then in the unbeaten egg whites and again in crums. Fry in hot fat until a rich golden brown. Keep the fat at 380 degrees F. and, if possible, use a frying basket to keep the cutlets in good shape. Serve very hot with a well seasoned celery white sauce.

For a tempting luncheon salad salmon may be combined with a sour cream dressing made of evaporated milk.

SALMON AND SOUR CREAM SALAD.

1½ cups flaked salmon
1 cup minced celery, apple, or cabbage
½ teaspoon minced onion
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon mustard
1 cup evaporated milk

Blend the salmon, onion, and celery. Mix the vinegar, mustard, and salt, and slowly beat into the milk. Add this dressing to the salad mixture and chill. Serve in lettuce cups garnished with sliced hard cooked eggs and stuffed olives.

A most colorful dish is this salmon and corn souffle when served up with a green vegetable and potato chips.

SALMON AND CORN SOUFFLE.

1 pound can salmon
1 cup canned corn
2 cups thick white sauce
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 drops tobasco sauce
2 egg whites
½ cup buttered bread crums

Flake the salmon, add white sauce and all the seasonings. Beat the egg whites until stiff and fold them into the mixture. Sauté the corn slightly. Pour half the first mixture into a baking dish, add the corn and then the rest of the salmon mixture. Cover with the buttered crums and bake in a slow oven [325 degrees F.] about 25 minutes.

Parker House Rolls

3 cakes compressed yeast, dissolved in
2 cup water
2 pint milk, scalded and cooled
4 tsp. salt
3 tbsp. lard
2 tsp. sugar

Put salt, lard and sugar into the hot milk. Stir enough flour into the milk to make a stiff dough, not too stiff, however. Knead 15 minutes until smooth and elastic. Toss on floured board, roll ¼ inch thick, cut out and form into Parker house rolls. Put rolls in greased pan in a warm place and let rise 45 minutes. Bake in a quick oven about ½ hour. Yield: 4 dozen.

Sherry Vital Ingredient in Lobster a la Newberg

BY MABEL BRYANT.

No miser ever held onto his bags of gold with more avidity than we did with the little sherry and port wine which was in our possession when prohibition sounded the knell. We knew only too well the magic it wrought to otherwise plain fare.

To certain foods a little sherry adds that something which the seasoned epicurean gets immediately and judges the food accordingly.

A ragout of lamb kidneys becomes a most delicious morsel when a tablespoonful of sherry wine is added to it. Puddings, pudding sauces, hard sauce, and jellied desserts are greatly improved by the addition of this most delectable flavoring.

Try It on Grapefruit.

When you are serving grapefruit for company breakfast some time, pour a dessert spoonful of sherry over each half and see what it does for it.

When a substitute had to take the place of sherry wine during the "dry era" to make lobster à la Newberg, the last word in a late supper dish was lost to the connoisseur whose delight it had been to prepare this most luscious sea food in a chafing dish.

There just isn't any other flavor to compare with sherry for this particular dish. But now a fairly good brand of domestic sherry may be purchased at a reasonable price to use for this "food for the gods" which is made by following the method given.

Here Is Recipe.

Put into the chafing dish the meat of a freshly boiled lobster cut into large dice. There should be about two heaping cups full. Add a good sized lump of butter and stir gently together until the butter is melted and the lobster heated through. Then mix a wine glass of sherry with one pint of thin cream and the yolks of two eggs, first blending the yolks with enough cream to make thick as a mayonnaise. Pour this mixture into the chafing dish over the lobster; let all simmer together a moment and serve. If you can be a wee bit extravagant pour a glass of sauterne wine over all just before serving on warm golden brown toast. If you don't think it the last word in something good to eat, well, we miss our guess. One pint of shrimps may be used in the same manner.

White Bread

[One loaf]

1 cup half and half water and milk
1 cake compressed yeast
1 tbsp. sugar
½ tsp. salt
1 tbsp. shortening
About 1 qt. flour

Scald the milk and water separately. Combine them and remove ¼ cup of the liquid. Add the butter, salt and sugar to the remaining hot liquid and let cool until lukewarm. When the reserved ¼ cup liquid is lukewarm crumble into it the yeast cake and when thoroughly dissolved add to the first mixture, also lukewarm. Stir in the flour and mix until the dough is thoroughly blended and clears the sides of the bowl in mixing. Turn out onto a board and knead until the dough is elastic and small white blisters may be seen on the surface. Let stand, covered [where it is about 80 degrees F.], until double in bulk. Punch down and shape into a loaf. Place in a greased pan. Brush lightly with butter. Cover again and let stand until again double in bulk. Bake until well risen at 375 degrees F. Then turn the heat to 450 degrees F. and let bake until done.

CANNED FOOD, IF FROZEN IS SAFE WHEN CANS HOLD

Frozen cans should be kept in a cool place while they are thawing so that they may thaw slowly. Seals, injured in any way, should be discarded. The freezing process alone does not injure the foods and does not cause formation of harmful acids or gases, as is sometimes supposed, nor is the food value of the product affected. A can of tomatoes that froze in January is just as good for the family in March as it would have been before freezing.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

When preparing bread crums in the food chopper put a paper bag over the mouth of the chopper to keep the crums from scattering.

HOW TO MAKE SURE YOUR FISH WILL TASTE DELICIOUS

Ocean fish are caught by fishing fleets which bring them into the great fish market of Boston. This market grades all the fish. It grades them number 1, 2 and 3 grade, according to quality and according to how old the fish are.

All three grades are sold to you as being of fine quality, but at all kinds of prices. It is hard for you to tell whether you are buying number 1, 2 or 3 grade. But you can be sure of better than number 1 grade if you ask your dealer for 40-Fathom Fish and get them in the 40-Fathom wrapper.

For 40-Fathom Fish are caught by the 40-Fathom fleet, cleaned, boned and rushed to your dealer. They fairly fly from the 40-Fathom sea-nets to your dealer with the fresh-caught flavor of the sea all through them. They are like Grade A Milk or a choice cut of meat—the tenderloin of the sea—ready for the fire—easy to cook as bacon.

You can make sure you are buying better than number 1 grade and you can make sure your fish will taste delicious, if you ask your dealer for 40-Fathom Fish by name and see to it that the fish come to you in the 40-Fathom wrapper with the name 40-Fathom Fish printed on the wrapper. But if the fish are not in the 40-Fathom wrapper, they are not 40-Fathom Fish.

MAPLE SIRUP MEN CONSIDER MARKETING PLAN

An arrangement is being considered in Wisconsin whereby uniform maple sirup may be marketed by producers. The sirup producers will boil down the sap to one-third, after which the concentrate thus obtained will be taken to a plant where it will undergo final processing, and will be packaged and marketed.

Concentration of the sap on the farm will be carried on to save hauling costs, but the final processing will take place at one plant in order to standardize the produce and obtain a uniform quality, lighter in color than ordinary sirup because of the lessened danger of carmelizing or scorching. This is to make the marketing easier.

One of the present difficulties in the successful cooperative marketing of Wisconsin maple sirup has been the variation in quality of the product. The problem is the same as that confronted by dairy farmers in the days when every farm churned individually and every tub of butter was different in color and quality.

MANY USES FOR BAKED HAM MAKE IT ECONOMICAL

Parboiling Unnecessary for Good Results.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a weekly radio feature—will be presented today by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 2 o'clock for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

There's something about having a whole baked ham sitting snugly in the family larder that positively doubles one's love of life. Had you noticed? For what emergency, we complacently ask ourselves, could possibly arrive which couldn't be handled grandly by that ham?

If it's to be a husky company dinner, by all means bake it and then go adventuring the second day with the leftovers. Likewist, if yours is a large family, baked whole ham's the answer.

Or if you've but a few to feed buy a ham anyway for economy's sake. Then have the butcher cut it to supply enough for baking, several slices for frying, broiling, or casseroling, and the shank for cooking with vegetables. And if your refrigeration is good there's no need of serving it every day. Spread the days apart with vegetable dinners or other one day meats. That way the ham will be nothing but a ham bone before you have even imagined that you were tired of it!

As for the job of baking it, don't bother about parboiling it first. If it's a good sugar cured ham baking the whole time will do the job and save lots of woe. Mrs. L. of Chicago wrote in for this method particularly, but every one's welcome to it and I'm guaranteeing that it's good.

SPICY BAKED HAM.

Wash the ham lovingly and nose it into a roaster, turning it fat side up. Pour over it enough hot water to cover the bottom of the pan. I'll guess that will take about one quart, although I've never seen your roaster. Put on the cover and bake the ham in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Allow 21 minutes per pound. But don't wait until it's completely done. When the time has passed remove it from the oven and, carefully protecting yourself from burns, remove the rind. Now sprinkle the unjacketed ham with dry mustard or glaze it with a tablespoonful of prepared mustard. Pour over it likewise one cupful of fruit juice. Pineapple, orange, lemon, rhubarb, grape, or apple juice—any one will do. Or try ginger ale or cider. Either are top notch pourers-over. Then chuck it back into the oven and continue baking, basting frequently with the juices. One-half hour before the ham is finally cooked ease it out again and poke in whole cloves at intervals, sprinkle it generously with brown sugar, and bake, uncovered and without basting, until tender and well browned.

And if there's still ham left after all your bright thoughts for it have run out my suggestion is:

HAM FRITTERS.

1 cup chopped cooked ham
2-3 cup water
1-3 cup evaporated milk
1½ cups flour
1 teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 egg, beaten
1 tablespoon drippings

Sift together the dry ingredients. Combine the milk, egg, and fat, and stir it into the first mixture. Mix in the ham and drop from a tablespoon, either into hot, deep fat or into a heavy frying pan containing half an inch of hot fat. Brown on both sides, cooking about two minutes. Drain out the fritters and serve them on grilled slices of pineapple.

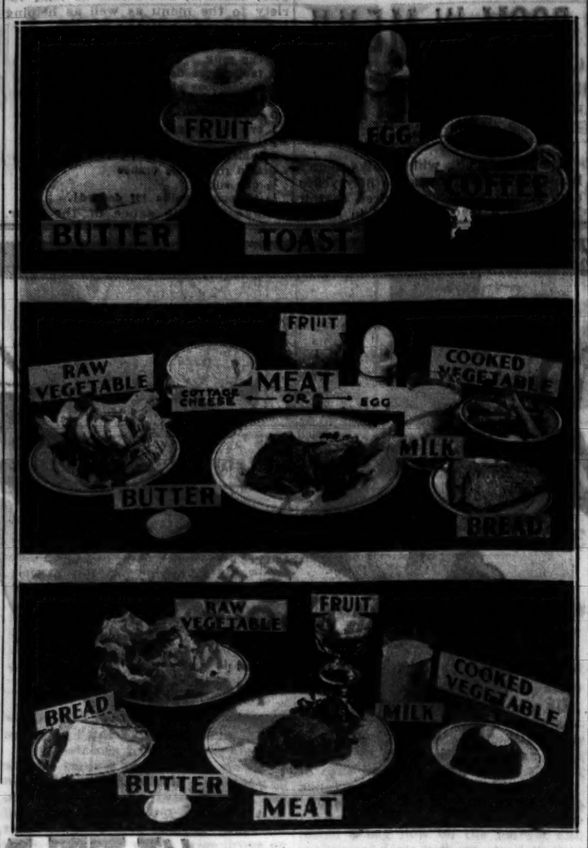
HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Grapefruit juice makes an excellent marinade for seasoning fish. It adds a sharp and distinctive flavor to all shell fish and sea foods, both cold and hot.

Comfortable Reducing Diet



Who wouldn't enjoy reducing with such an array of appetizing eatables? Research workers say it can be done; that this business of taking off weight need not be a hardship. The diet used, of which the above foods are typical, is as follows:

Top: Breakfast—1 serving of fruit, 1 egg, 1 slice of toast, 1 pat of butter, coffee (black or with very little cream and sugar).

Center: Luncheon—2 servings of vegetables (1 cooked and 1 raw), 1 small serving of lean meat, or 2 eggs, or 2 tablespoons cottage cheese, 1 slice of bread, 1 pat of butter, 1 glass of milk, 1 serving of fruit.

Bottom: Dinner—1 large serving of lean meat, 2 servings of vegetables (1 cooked and 1 raw), 1 slice of bread, 1 pat of butter, 1 glass of milk, 1 serving of fruit.

Tested Recipes

MOLDED PINEAPPLE AND WATERCRESS SALAD.

1 cup water
1 package lemon flavored gelatin
1 cup canned pineapple juice
½ cup chopped watercress
½ cup canned crushed pineapple
1/3 cup chopped almonds.

Dissolve the gelatin in the boiling water. Add the pineapple juice and chill until slightly thickened. Fold in the chopped watercress, pineapple, and almonds, pour into individual molds, and chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce leaves and garnish each with a tablespoon of mayonnaise.

PINEAPPLE BAVARIAN CREAM.

1 package lemon flavored gelatin.
2 cups boiling water.
¼ teaspoon salt.
2 cups crushed pineapple and juice.
1 cup heavy cream, whipped.

Dissolve the sugar and gelatin in boiling water. Cool and add salt and juice drained from pineapple. Put in refrigerator until slightly thickened, then beat with egg beater and fold in pineapple and whipped cream. Turn into serving glasses, return to refrigerator until chilled. Garnish with tart red canned cherries and whipped cream.

GRAPE JELLY BUFFINS.

4 tablespoons sugar.
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt.
1 cup milk.
1 egg.
2 tablespoons fat.
Grape jelly.

Sift together flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Combine the melted fat, beaten egg and milk together. Blend the dry and liquid ingredients only until smooth. Fill greased muffin tins 2-3 full. Place one teaspoon of grape jelly on the top of each muffin, pressing it in slightly. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 410 degrees F., 25 minutes.

BUNNY BUNNY.

1 cup milk.
1 tablespoon butter.
¼ teaspoon mustard.
1 cup canned tomato soup.
1 cup chopped cheese.
2 tablespoons flour.
¼ teaspoon tabasco.

Beat eggs and add milk. Heat the butter and blend with flour. Mix milk and flour thoroughly and cook in top part of double boiler until creamy. Then add tomato soup, cheese and seasoning. Serve while hot as soon as cheese is melted on toasted bread or crackers. Sprigs of parsley may be dropped over top.

Soliloquy by a young lady who had just a perfectly lovely time: Yes, darling, I must. I'm sorry I have to leave early but I really, really must. I had a grand time. (I suppose she thought we couldn't tell a "bargain counter" coffee by its taste. She wouldn't put tin-plated knives and forks on the table. But she would serve us a cheap coffee. Oh well.) Yes, I'll see you soon, darling. I want you and Harris to have supper with us soon. (When she comes to my house I'll serve her Hills Bros. Coffee and give her a real treat. Too bad she doesn't realize that even though you buy coffee by the pound you drink it by the cup. Hills Bros. always tastes better and is really less expensive in the long run because of more abundant flavor.) And I had just a perfectly lovely time.

4-H CLUB GIRLS SET HIGH LEVELS IN CANNING WORK

Four-H club girls made new marks in their canning work last year, according to a summary of thousands of records in a national contest conducted by the national committee on boys and girls' club work of this city. Over 150,000 canning members in 37 states took part.

The largest amount of home canning reported was 6,582 pints by Kathryn Casto, Lorentz, W. Va., which she did in eight years. Pauline Martin, Bedford, Va., using the commercial facilities of her family, showed 10,862 pints in eight years. Kenneth Benson, Winchester, Mass., put up 6,791 pints, most of which he produced the last few years in a small commercial plant he operates. Elena Shoup, Ramona, Okla., canned 6,112 pints in nine years, winning national championship for her more complete records and the fact that she produced much of the raw material in fruit growing, garden, and poultry projects.

The average of the state champions was 2,460 pints. This included meats, vegetables and fruits. State champions had won an average of $106 in prizes, and their gross income averaged $942. This was realized in the six years they averaged in canning projects.

Salmon Salad

1¼ cups celery, cut in pieces.
3 tablespoons lemon juice.
2 hard boiled eggs, chopped.
½ teaspoon salt.

Flake the salmon, discarding skin and bones. Add celery, eggs, lemon juice, salt and paprika. Stand in ice box to chill. Mix with enough mayonnaise dressing or cooked salad dressing to moisten well. Serve on any crisp salad greens and garnish with midget gherkins, olives and slices of egg.

SYNOPSIS.

Barbara Brawne, aged 23, is completely domingted by an adoring though jealous father, who is against every modern idea and improvement. Lynwood, their home, is in the prim and proper village of Oxbridge, a place of intellectual sanctity. Barbara seems predestined to join the ranks of the village spinsters. Her father scares away any would-be suitors. She contemplates rebellion. Gregory Rance, popular novelist, is visiting her cousin, Laurie Chiswick. They are mutually attracted. Barbara overhears Rance asking Laurie about her. He says she is the sort of girl he'd want to marry. Barbara proposes to Rance. But Rance is divorced and her father hates divorce and uses this as an excuse to oppose their marriage. When Barbara determines to marry Rance, regardless, her father has a stroke. Barbara fears he'll kill himself deliberately. She promises him she won't marry Rance without his consent. Gregory goes away and Barbara strives futilely to put him out of her mind. Disbrough, her father's partner, is a frequent visitor at Lynwood. Her father approves of him as a husband for Barbara, knowing she is not in love with him. In desperation, Barbara marries Disbrough. It is to be until Barbara decides otherwise, a marriage in name only, Barbara sharing her fortune with him. Then with his daughter safe from his enemy Brawne loses his grip on life. His mind becomes definitely blurred. Rance returns for a visit to the Chiswicks.

INSTALLMENT XLVII.

A MONEY SETTLEMENT.

"I will never give you a divorce!" Allen cried violently.

"We will never get anywhere like this," Barbara said quietly. "Please calm down. I know it's a shock and very unpleasant to you. But after all there's never been any pretense of affection between us, and you have not the slightest right over me. So let's talk over what's to be done as friends—as we did when you suggested our marrying."

He turned an began to pace the floor, his bare ankles showing through the bathrobe, to his further irritation.

"I'm at a disadvantage in this ridculous costume," he thought. "And nothing to be gained by losing my temper. I've got to think clearly."

He came back.

"You're right. Give me ten minutes. Wait here."

He went up to his room and dressed slowly, trying to formulate a plan of compaign in the crisis that threatened him. When he returned she was sitting where he had left her, elbows on her knees, hands clasped.

"Now, I'm ready."

He sat down opposite her, his arm on the table, shading his forehead with his hand. She looked up. With the putting on of his social armor he was himself again. Controlled, dignified, alert. The metamorphosis had an element of the ridiculous, but it did not strike her at the time.

"There is no decent life for me except with Gregory," she said in a low voice."

"Before you say anything more," he interrupted coldly, "let me state my position again. I have my rights as well as you. And my rights are those of a man who entered into a serious engagement, and I expect those rights to be respected as I have respected yours. In plain words, I shall not allow you to ruin my career by covering me with ridicule."

"Ridicule?"

"Exactly."

"Yes, I expected you to take this position. You certainly have every right to be protected. That is only just."

"I'm glad you see it."

"Before we go any further, Allen, you must understand one thing. To do that you must understand me—and this may be difficult for you. I can not do things as you can do them. I cannot become like you any more than you can become like me. You know the story of my mother and my grandmother?"

"Yes, I know."

"They rebelled as I've rebelled. They were suppressed as I cannot and will not be suppressed. I have given up nothing in marrying you. I have never been your wife. I have never loved you or you me. I sacrificed myself for my father. I won't for you. I warned you once of the risk. Wait. Even if Gregory had not come I would never have belonged to you."

"I don't believe that."

"I don't hate you, I've not disliked you, but I never could have loved you. If there had never been Gregory, perhaps I could have gone through with it—but not afterwards. I'm going to him because I can't remain in decency here, under the same roof with you. I love him and I belong to him. I've always belonged to him."

A question came hotly to his lips, but he suppressed it.

"There is your father," he said desperately.

She shook her head.

"What I do will mean nothing to him now—if he ever notices it. I feel a certain responsibility—yes. To look after him and see that everything is done for him as it should be done. While he is alive, I want to be free to return here always. No, that's not the point. The only one to be considered, Allen, is yourself."

"You are assuming that I shall agree to whatever you decide?"

"Yes, when you have considered it calmly and fairly, I think you will."

"You are wrong. I won't agree to a divorce."

She thought a moment.

"Is it ridicule you're afraid of, Allen?" she said, drawing her eyebrows together. "Yes, it's always that."

"Of course, it is. To the world ours is an ordinary marriage. At the end of ten months you divorce me abruptly and immediately marry another man. What will the world say? What can one think? That I'm some one so brutal, or so repulsive, or so degenerate that no woman can live with me."

"Absurd!"

"And this to happen to me at the moment when my social background is of special importance to me! Your own common sense will tell you the difference it is going to be to me to be established in my home with my wife as hostess, where I can form the proper social connections—or to appear in the equivocal position of a man whose wife deserted him the first year."

"You exaggerate, Allen," she said resolutely. "You are arguing like a lawyer now. You know perfectly well that divorce means nothing nowadays, particularly when there are no children involved. Still I recognize that you have certain rights."

"Indeed! I'm astonished!"

"You have the right to receive from me what you expected when you agreed to marry me on my own terms," she said coldly. "I recognize that right under the bargain we made. If you allow me a divorce now, without putting any difficulties in my way, at my father's death I shall settle on you half of what he leaves me."

He jumped up.

"You expect me to listen to such a proposition?"

"Why not?"

"Never!"

"Then you force me to an open separation," she said, frowning. "I shall leave tomorrow and go abroad. O, there will be gossip, of course. People will talk for a while. But I shall strictly observe the appearances. To the world it will be an ordinary separation. It is not what I want to do, but every one would understand that I would be doing it because you refused to set me free. That would put you in a rather unsympathetic light, wouldn't it? Because, Allen, whatever you and your world would like to believe, no man any longer denies a woman the right to dispose of herself as she wishes, particularly when there are no children."

While she spoke his mind had been feverishly turning over the financial arrangement she had suggested. For a brief moment his imagination had thrilled at the temptation. If he only could accept! Millions! But a quick reflection convinced him that the thing was unthinkable. No public man with the searching light of publicity to encounter would dare to lay himself open to his enemies. He dismissed the idea reluctantly and immediately felt a moral indignation.

"You know, of course, that it is quite impossible for me to accept a cent from you now. For you even to propose it is grossly insulting."

"Why? Don't let's think of what other people will say. Let's decide on what is right between us. Your position, your career, entitle you to a fortune. Dozens of women would have been glad of the opportunity. I married you on that basis. If I wish my freedom, it is only right that I recognize your rights. Men who divorce provide for their wives."

He shook his head.

"No, Barbara, it is impossible. The world will only say one thing: Allen Disbrough was bought at such a price."

"Why are you always thinking of what the world will say?"

"Because what the world will say is everything to a man whose career must depend on public approval." All at once a suspicion struck him. After all he owed his present fortune to her. "Is that why you settled that money on me when we married? Was it to keep your right to do this?"

"No." But immediately she reconsidered. "No, not consciously. Instinctively there might have been that, too."

THIS LEGEND EXPLAINS START OF BOCK BEERS

Court Ladies Attend Big Drinking Bout.

There probably is no fact in connection with the history of brewing about which more has been written and a greater number of explanations offered than the origin of Bock beer. One of the latest and best gives the honor to a medieval knight of Brunswick, who, having cast aspersions upon the beer offered him by Duke Christoph of Bavaria, was challenged by the enraged brewmaster to a formal drinking bout. Upon the day of the contest the castle of the Bavarian lord was beautifully decorated and the ladies of the court were present in great numbers to witness the outcome. Suddenly the band, which had been discoursing martial airs, stopped and a keg of Brunswick beer and one of Bavarian ware placed side by side.

Noble Contest Starts.

The brewmaster drank from the Brunswick keg and the Brunswick knight from that of Bavaria, two immense vessels holding more than two gallons each being the bumpers. Each drained his gigantic cup, the gentleman from Brunswick still making sarcastic remarks about the strength of the court beer of Munich.

The brewmaster, however, was confident that his opponent finally would succumb, despite his bold front, and as he handed him the second cup, said, "Now we will empty another to your health, and, in half an hour, the one who can thread a needle while standing on one foot, shall be declared the winner."

When the vessels had again been emptied, a maid was sent for needles and thread, but on returning she carelessly left open the gate of the court yard. At the very moment that each contestant was preparing to stand on one leg and attempt his task, a pet goat frisked into the yard. The Bavarian brewmaster succeeded in threading his needle, while the Brunswick knight dropped his three times and concluded by falling and rolling on the pavement, claiming that the "bock" had thrown him. Duke Christoph and his court were convulsed with laughter, remarking, "The Bock that threw you over was brewed by me."

Custom Spreads from Munich.

It is said that, in commemoration of this event the Court brewery at Munich first brewed a strong, sweet beer named Bock, and that the custom spread to all lager beer brewing countries.

The well known goat's head emblem now is displayed announcing that this famous special spring brew again is available. For the benefit of the uninitiated, Bock beer is a rich, dark, heavy-bodied, mellow beer of exceptional smoothness and fine flavor.

SPAGHETTI BAKED WITH VEGETABLES ON LUNCHEON LIST

SPAGHETTI MILANAISE.

1 cup of spaghetti
½ cup of carrots
¼ cup of turnips
½ cup of cabbage
½ cup of celery
½ cup of onions
1½ cups of milk
3 tablespoons of butter
3 tablespoons of flour
1 teaspoons of salt
3 egg yolks

Brown the flour. Make a sauce of the butter, browned flour, milk, and salt, and stir it constantly. Put the vegetables on to cook in boiling salted water, and cook them uncovered until they are tender. Then drain them. Cook the spaghetti in rapidly boiling salted water until the spaghetti is soft. When it is done, turn it into a colander and pour over it a dash of cold water. Combine the spaghetti with the cooked vegetables; add the chopped yolks of three hard cooked eggs and one teaspoon of salt. Add the sauce and toss lightly together. Bake in a moderate oven for thirty minutes.

EACH MEAL HAS ROOM IN MENU FOR GRAPEFRUIT

The grapefruit, which folks didn't like and wouldn't eat some fifty years ago, is now so much admired that it has found a place for itself in luncheons and dinners as well as breakfasts. So, while the fruit is so low in price, it may be used in inexpensive pies, desserts, and salads to lend variety to the menu as well as helping supply vitamins B and C.

GRAPEFRUIT SOUFFLE.

1 cup milk
4 tablespoons flour
4 tablespoons butter
¼ teaspoon salt
3 eggs, separated
1 cup cut up grapefruit sections
1 tablespoon lemon juice
3 tablespoons orange juice
Grated rind of ½ orange
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon vanilla [if desired].

Make a white sauce of the flour, butter, and milk. Cool. Add the rest of the ingredients except the egg whites. Beat these very stiff and fold in last. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake in a moderately slow oven [325 degrees F.] about one hour.

A fluffy grapefruit soufflé may be offered to the most sophisticated of diners.

In salads, grapefruit sections combine well with orange sections, slices of avocado, tomato slices, or flaked crabmeat. The crabmeat and grapefruit combination may be attractively served in the grapefruit shells, or lobster may be substituted for the crab meat if desired.

Great successes may come overnight, but invariably back of them are long study, work, experimenting, testing. Appert did not count time while developing a basic method to preserve food. In applying that method to modern needs, we are equally patient. Months, years may be spent in developing a product. Results justify the effort. MANY BARGAINS AWAIT THRIFTY FOOD SHOPPERS

Attractive Prices on Meat and Canned Goods.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Retail price tags on meats, fresh fruits and vegetables, other perishables and staples reveal changes sufficient to reward Chicagoland's food purchasers for searching today and tomorrow for bargains in grocery and meat displays.

The housewife will find, for instance, that in most stores the price for butter continues its gradual advance due to curtailed production in the middle west. The prices of hams, fresh pork cuts, and select leg of lamb or lamb chops are 50 per cent above a year ago in many stores.

Bargains Reward Seekers.

But there are sufficient other changes which offer more welcome news for the market basket shoppers. A leg of veal or a veal shoulder roast may substitute for the higher priced lamb. Or the shopping list may be revised to include, for the sake of economy, a porterhouse steak, a rolled rib of beef, or a beef pot roast.

In the less perishable grocery stocks the effect of the Lenten season continues the opportunity to stock larders with bargains. There is macaroni and spaghetti in bulk or in packages in dry form, as well as ready prepared in tins and glass jars. Rice prices are advancing due to federal price boosting, but substitutes include specially priced cans of pork and beans as well as dry navy and lima beans.

Bargains in Vegetables.

Lenten purchases for salads and special entrées have taken much of the available supply of eggplant and peppers shipped here from Florida. But low prices on other fresh vegetables offer bargains in head lettuce, carrots and beets, spinach, celery, cabbage, broccoli, and fresh green beans and peas.

Additional shipments of Cuban pineapples have kept this early crop from the luxury price class. Red Malaga and Cornichon grapes and nectarines and plums from the Argentine and Chile offer variety. In two weeks the new crop of Valencia oranges will start rolling northward to Chicago from Florida.

Grapefruit Low Priced.

Meantime some of the southern citrus fruit may advance slightly. Lemons are not quite as plentiful as they were a month ago. Grapefruit are especially low priced, however. Marketing restrictions are again operating to keep low quality cull fruit from shipments, the culls from the orange orchards being purchased by the Federal Emergency Relief corporation.

Other citrus crops with which Chicago is becoming better acquainted this winter include the Temple and King oranges. Rougher skins than other oranges hide the fruit inside which has what orange experts describe as "fine eating qualities."

New potatoes from Florida are still about 5 cents a pound. The supply of northern grown baking and cooking potatoes from the 1933 fall harvest has been brought out of storage in greater quantities during the last week, permitting slight price drops on the Colorado and Idaho types.

Pastries at Bargain.

Breads and pastries, which command prominent places in the menus at this time of the year, are available in variety at economical prices. Many stores offer the traditional and seasonal hot cross buns.

Egg prices are again at bargain level this week-end. Other major food items in which little or no advance will be found today or tomorrow in shopping for the week-end supply include flour, sugar, bacon, packaged and bulk sausage meat, stewing hens, and fresh Florida strawberries. Many stores are offering special bargains in coffee, bananas, and canned and packaged foods.

Household Hints

Dark potato chips with a burnt flavor may be caused by potatoes in which the potato starch is partially changed to sugar. Storage in a cold place is responsible for this sugar content in potatoes. For light, crisp potato chips use potatoes which have been stored at room temperature. Sprouting potatoes are undesirable for chips because they contain a large proportion of sugar.

DRIED SKIMMED MILK IS USEFUL TO HOUSEWIFE

Container Problem Is Now Solved.

Dried skim milk is a food that should be on the shelves of every grocery, according to Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the bureau of home economics. It has not been because it is a somewhat perishable product likely to cake and spoil unless packed in a suitable container.

The bureau of dairy industry of the U. S. department of agriculture has tested a bag now on the market and the limited tests indicate strongly that it will be possible to pack and market dry skim milk in the small quantities housewives want.

The tests in the dairy bureau were more severe than would be encountered in retailing and the new package protected the dry skim milk perfectly for as long as three weeks, and for four months under favorable conditions of storage.

A duplex laminated bag already on the market was found satisfactory in a limited number of experiments; not a single bag failed to protect the powder from moisture. This bag consists of an outer bag of bond paper and an inner bag made of two layers of glassine, with paraffin between the layers.

In recommending dry skim milk as a valuable food product, Dr. Stanley says it should be possible to sell it at prices low enough so that it could be used in any home. It is cheap now, she says, when bought at wholesale, and is used largely by commercial bakeries and ice cream factories. It is a semi-perishable product, however, and lack of a suitable small low cost container has kept the price too high for a universal retail market.

Dried skim milk contains practically all the food value of fresh skim milk, says Dr. Stanley, and it can be used in many ways to supplement a too scant food supply or to improve the average diet.

It lacks, of course, the fat that is in whole milk, but it contains everything else except the water. It provides the calcium and phosphorus which are among the chief needs of children.

CUPID: "And a very good idea, too."

CLAUDETTE: "Using your Lux Toilet Soap is certainly the simplest way to have lovely skin. How did you get onto it originally, Dan?"

CUPID: "I wanted some leisure in my old age—and I found that when a girl uses Lux Toilet Soap I don't have to work. The beaux just hang around her doorstep 'til she marries one of them."

Has Cupid given your skin his approval? Of the 694 important Hollywood actresses, including all stars, 686 have taken Cupid's advice—they use fragrant, white Lux Toilet Soap. You can have just as glamorous skin as theirs—win hearts as easily.

Persistence of Boys' Kissing Puzzles Girls

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Why is it that boys should be so persistent about kissing?" ask two girls, 19 and 20.

You tell us, boys! Is it that the girls are so irresistible you just can't help putting your arms around them?

But don't you think you might wait a minute and see if the girl is for or agin the idea? Yes, honestly, some of the very modern misses are agin being mauled the first time out, the second, third even. You may not know it, boys, but the old "meet 'em and kiss 'em" idea is considered pretty passe by the smarter members of the generation of which you're a member. Not that the girls have gone so prudish on you. Only more particular. Choosier, so to speak. And lots smarter, we think. You've got to be something worth kissing. You got to give yourself time to prove you're worth the osculatory rewards.

You see, drinking is not what it used to be. That messy business of mauling, and petting, and dark corners, and parked sedans went out with the hip-flask's passing. So, you boys who pounce on every girl, just because she accepted your invitation for an evening, are dating yourselves as back numbers, pursuing the jazz-age conduct.

And don't go reproaching the girls, who prefer not to distribute their favors willy-nilly, that they're slow or high hat. Don't tell them they're acting. Whether they're acting or not, it is a good act. And the slow members are those boys who fail to take note of the fact that a new era has set in and with it a new program of conduct. We don't mean to imply that you can't get kisses from nice girls. But we do mean to instruct you that in our smart girl circles the chap who asumes that it is either expected of him to ask for a kiss or take it boldly on a brief acquaintanceship just isn't considered up on his stuff.

The thing would work around the way it has. You boys who are afflicted with the itching arm or the hasty lips haven't been any too gentlemanly about this kissing business. You spoiled your own easy game by talking out of turn. You slipped word around among your friends about who was easy and who was not. In fact, the girls heard that you had a code classifying this and that one according to her amorous propensities. So, if you're being punished, believe that it was coming to you and, in future, be pretty wary about your amatory attacks.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 8.—[Special.]—Mrs. John N. Garner, wife of the Vice President, was entertained at luncheon today by Mrs. Henry Wilder Keyes, wife of the Republican senator from New Hampshire. Mrs. Fred H. Brown, wife of the Democratic senator from New Hampshire, was a joint hostess with Mrs. Keyes.

The German ambassador, Dr. Hans Luther, entertained at dinner tonight in compliment to Walter Gieseking, famous German pianist, who gave a program of music after the dinner, for which a larger number of additional guests were asked.

Mrs. Claude A. Swanson, wife of the secretary of the navy, has gone to Atlantic City to spend ten days.

which time Mr. Benn will address two groups on the situation in Austria.

At noon today he will speak before the Executives' club and at noon tomorrow he will address the Council on Foreign Relations at the Palmer house. On the latter occasion Dr. Walter Lichtenstein, president of the council, will make the introduction.

Durand Smith is especially anticipating Mr. Benn's arrival since he made his acquaintance several years ago while a student at Cambridge university in England. One of his good friends was Mr. Benn's nephew, Glan [a Welsh name] Benn in whose wedding he was an usher. Another nephew, John Benn, was a Princeton undergraduate with several Chicagoans.

Wedgwood Benn, former junior lord of the British treasury, former British secretary of state for India, and for many years a member of parliament, speaks on Austria because of the exhaustive study he has made of European affairs since his retirement as secretary of state for India in August, 1931.

Following the advent of the National Socialist government in Germany he visited the reich and adjacent nations, conversing with Nazi leaders and also with prominent exiles. He found that a study of the German situation invariably took him to Austria and in 1933 spent considerable time in that nation conferring with leaders of all shades of political opinion. He discussed the situation with Chancellor Dollfuss late in 1933.

White Elephant Shop Holds Hat Sale Today.

By 9:30 this morning the White Elephant Rummage shop on East Ohio street will be seething with excitement at the annual spring hat sale which benefits the Children's Memorial hospital, and which is always run by the Junior auxiliary of the hospital. This year, in addition to the hats, which are varied and in good condition, having been steamed, pressed and mended by Mrs. T. Lloyd Kelly, Mrs. Horace Wetmore and Miss Betty Coit, all members of the Junior auxiliary, the shop is featuring blooming potted plants.

Miss Lydia Swift is chairman of the hat and plant sale. Assisting her as salesgirls are, besides Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. Wetmore and Miss Coit, Miss Betsy Needham, Miss Helen Marie Castle, Miss Jean Wilhelm, Miss Louise Dewey, Miss Laura Thorne and Miss Betty Brawley.

John Roots Will Attend N. Y. Wedding.

At 5 o'clock today Mr. and Mrs. John Root will be present at the wedding of Mrs. Root's brother, Edmund Coffin Stout Jr., and Mrs. Jean Potter Soldwedel, daughter of William Chapman Potter and Mrs. Harry Guggenheim, in the New York apartment of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Charles H. Sabin.

The ceremony is to be a very quiet affair attended only by the immediate families. Mrs. Charlotte Potter Lewis will be her sister's only attendant.

The bride's most immediate Chicago connections rise from the fact that Paul Morton, secretary of the navy under President Theodore Roosevelt, was her grandfather. Among her kinsmen here are the Joy Mortons, the Sterling Mortons, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy.

Mr. Stout, the son of the Edmund C. Stouts of East Orange, N. J., is associated with a New York banking institution.

Baldwin Alumnae to Entertain Officials.

Mrs. Arthur Tobin is president of the Chicago Baldwin School Alumnae association, which is giving a luncheon at 12:30 today at the College club for Miss Elizabeth Forrest Johnson, head mistress of the school, and Miss Frances Oakford, president of the alumnae association. Other parties planned for Miss Johnson and Miss Oakford are a luncheon tomorrow that Mrs. Dudley Palmer is giving in her Hubbard Woods home and a tea tomorrow afternoon in Winnetka at which Mrs. Howard R. Stone will be hostess.

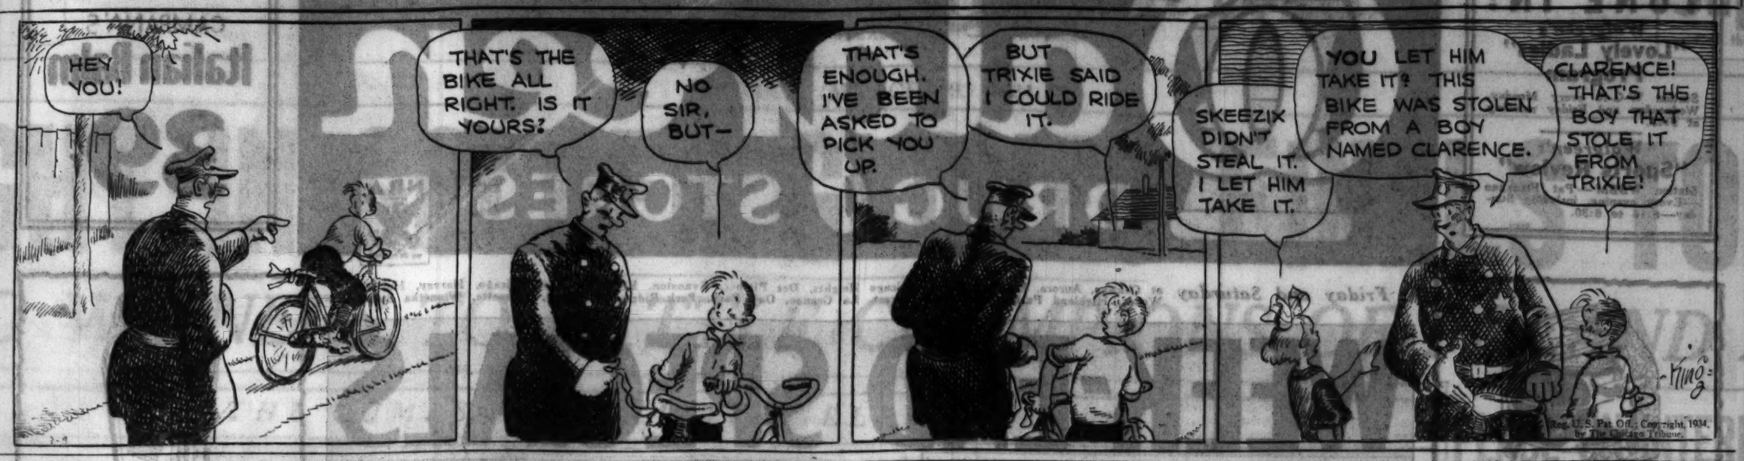
Mrs. Carl Bricken will be hostess tonight to a large dinner party, later taking her guests to hear her young husband conduct the University of Chicago Symphony orchestra in a concert at Mandel hall. Following the concert the conductor and his wife will give a supper party at their home for Jacques Gordon, the violin soloist of the evening.

Hull House Play

MISS FRANCES BURKE.

Miss Frances Burke of 828 North Laramie avenue will play a lead this evening with the Hull House Players when they celebrate their 34th season with the presentation of a new Irish play, "Drama at Inish," by Lenox Robinson, in the Hull House theater. The Players are the only little theater group in Chicago with an unbroken record of 30 years' playing. They were first sponsored by Jane Addams in 1898 at Hull House.

GASOLINE ALLEY—WHO STOLE THE BIKE?



HEY YOU!
THAT'S THE BIKE ALL RIGHT. IS IT YOURS?
NO SIR, BUT—
THAT'S ENOUGH. I'VE BEEN ASKED TO PICK YOU UP.
BUT TRIXIE SAID I COULD RIDE IT.
SKEEZIX DIDN'T STEAL IT. I LET HIM TAKE IT.
YOU LET HIM TAKE IT? THIS BIKE WAS STOLEN FROM A BOY NAMED CLARENCE.
CLARENCE! THAT'S THE BOY THAT STOLE IT FROM TRIXIE!

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

We've spent the last few days thrusting our pink tipped fingers almost into people's eyes getting opinions of what we think is the most interesting event in nail polish history since the blood red blight descended so startlingly a few years ago. The reports: Every man we asked, with the exception of one who gallantly allbied that he objected to lily gilding in every form, liked our new nail finish. And women, with the exception of those who simply crave vivid polishes, shared the enthusiasm of the men.

Ours has been almost a lone feminine voice crying out in the wilderness all these years against the blood red polishes. But we had to admit defeat, comforting ourselves somewhat meagerly with the realization that most male voices were raised in accord. Women went their way, using the vivid polishes with what might literally be called abandon. It may have been because we antis had so little that was interesting to offer in substitution.

Today we have nail polish news that is really exciting—as exciting, speaking rather largely, as the advent of the blood red blight was a couple of years ago—and much nicer, to our way of thinking. It's a nail finish that is completely feminine but not genteely uninteresting. The nails look like pink pearls, actually luminous, but NOT too theatrical.

We'll admit to being ultra conservative in our opinions about nail polishes—and our practices. This new finish is, to our personal way of thinking, ideal for evening—but most women to whom we showed it liked it immensely for daytime as well. It's just that we're a bit mousey about such things.

The finish is achieved with two polishes—one a pink with a very faint tinge of violet. This is brought from the upper rim of the half moon to the lower rim of the white tip; when this is dried the second coat goes on. It sounds more garish than it is. This second coat is a misty silver, brought from the base to the very tip. It's colorless—permiting the rosy glow beneath to glimmer through. And the final effect is as feminine as a filmy frock.

You'll find both shades in some local shops. And we think you'll find the new finish truly lovely.

ELEANOR NANGLE.

Noted Russian Cellist Plays at Symphony

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Gregor Piatigorsky, a mighty man of the cello, was the soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra last night, and between him and Frederick Stock three of the five numbers on the program bore the label of having their first performance in Chicago. Wherefore it was well for ears to be open and attentive.

Mr. Piatigorsky is one of the trio of sensational young Russians—Nathan Milstein, the violinist, is another, and Vladimir Horowitz, the pianist, the third—who have been making musical history in the last few seasons. He is one of the few able to make the cello a dramatic as well as a lyric instrument. He did both last night.

His first number, one of the new ones, was a concerto by Mozart. Rather curiously, it was originally written for the horn, and only a few years ago revised and rewritten for the cello by Gaspar Cassado of Spain. Here is Mozart at his most tuneful, with some of the most charming melodies he ever wrote.

From here Mr. Piatigorsky passed to Ernest Bloch's "Schelomo," which is not new, though so seldom played that it is nearly so. You may never be able to feel the affection for it that Mozart's piece inspires, but you are thrown into excited admiration, at least in the Piatigorsky performance. For he, Mr. Stock, and the orchestra joined hands in making it one of the most stirring performances of the season, and the audience was hardly willing to let the program go on from that point.

The piece is first rate theater, whatever else may be said about it, impulsive, colorful, exciting even in its apparent formlessness, and though its spirit may be a bit exotic to the average listener, it has an emotional throb that carries everything with it.

One of Mr. Stock's new pieces was a specimen of what is being highly favored in soviet Russia. This was the Dance of the Sailors from Gliere's ballet, "The Red Poppy," one of the greatly popular attractions of the U. S. S. R.

Had this information not been given one would have thought that it was merely an excerpt from the music of some one who knew his ballet. It is a simple, brief tune, repeated several times in different tempos and with different orchestral treatment, a work that ought to make a good dance, even if it gives little light on soviet political philosophy.

The third of the new works was the second or "Romantic" symphony by Howard Hanson. Hanson, born in Nebraska, a musical student in Evanston and Rome, is now the director of the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N. Y. He has been a fluent composer in the more complex modern manner, and for that reason his music sometimes needs closer study than a single hearing is able to afford.

One doubts the accuracy, for instance, of the label "Romantic," except in the sense of being untrammeled, but a little more attention will convince the listener that this is the same Hanson who wrote the opera, "Merry Mount."

It is told that those who tune in on station W-G-N this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock will hear "The Singing Lady" give an account of Mr. Stock's early childhood. It should be told in connection with Mendelssohn's "Fingal's Cave," with which he began last night's concert in most delightful fashion.

Fortune Gallo paused in Chicago yesterday long enough to sign a contract promising to bring his San Carlo Grand Opera company to the Auditorium for at least six weeks beginning Monday, Oct. 8.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

SUMMARY OF RESPONSES DISCUSSED PREVIOUSLY.

YOU WILL remember that both the one-over-one response and the takeout in two of a lower ranking suit can be made with both weak and strong hands. After a one-over-one, you are assured of a further opportunity to clarify matters because your partner must keep the bidding open. The takeout in two is not a forcing response and partner is not obliged to bid again, but the basis of our original bids is such that he generally does make another bid, resulting at least in a safe—or safer—partial score contract. Only if he can feel sure from his own hand that game is almost impossible unless you could have made a forcing takeout of three in your suit will he pass your minimum suit takeout.

In connection with both these responses, therefore, our message as responder is delivered in one or more instalments. When we make a one-over-one this is always so, as partner may not pass. When we make a minimum suit takeout we have also told the opener that the hand does not have one strength limitation—it did not warrant a forcing takeout of three. The guesswork involved in these two responses is thus only temporary, sure to be cleared up before harm can come.

Further Implications of the No Trump "Signoff."

The response of one no trump, which opener is at perfect liberty to pass, and does pass more often than he will pass a minimum suit takeout of two, is extremely negative in its meanings. It says, "I do not want to pass. I cannot raise you in your suit, and may have a positive misfit in it. I have no suit to bid myself. Make no further move except on your own undivided responsibility." Nevertheless, the real weakness implied in this response is the inability to bid any suit itself or to assist the suit already bid. The minimum requirements which divide it from a pass have already been explained. Its maximum range, however, is in my system substantially higher than you would infer from the "signoff" label attached to it.

The upward limitation of the one no trump response is this: While still unable to assist the opener's suit or to bid another suit, it is not strong enough for a two no trump response. You will now see that you can have a fairly strong responding hand with which, because of its even distribution, you can only make the signoff bid of one no trump. That is because you need a stronger hand to respond with two no trumps under my system than you do, strangely enough, under systems which allow for far weaker opening bids than ours.

At the same time, do not be afraid that by bidding only one no trump instead of two you will miss games that others will reach. If opener decides to pass, your one no trump game is highly improbable. If his distribution will not suggest his naming a second suit, even if only as a safety measure, then thank the system that you are not in a game contract. Also you will often thank it that you are playing the hand at one no trump instead of two. Others would probably get this bidding—one heart, two no trumps, pass—which generally indicates a predicament. This sequence of bids is almost unknown in the Sims system.

The Two No Trump Response.

You may discover that when I advise you to make this response your strength is such that you would feel more like jumping to three no trumps for fear the partner would not rebid over two no trumps. However, I have by now made it clear that in my system the least cause for worry is that partner will not rebid when he should. We do not lose games through any gap in the bidding caused by conservatism in responses. To respond with two no trumps you should hold cards with which you must be extremely unlucky not to make game, judging them in conjunction with a reasonable visualization of your partner's opening bid.

Colds Threaten Child Who Plays Too Vigorously

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Winter's back is broken," we say by the end of February. But March is a tricky month. We're still low on sunshine, though spring is just around the corner. And we have the accumulation of the sunless months to combat.

Watch your children's rest. Guard against overfatigue. Tiredness lowers the youngsters' resistance and makes them more susceptible to colds and other diseases than they would otherwise be.

So see that they have plenty of sleep and if they are young enough, a nap or daytime rest. And even when they are not actually resting, plan so that their day is not all violent activity. Have some quiet play at intervals. We have to be the ones to conserve children's energy—they don't know how to conserve it themselves.

Another thing to look out for is overexposure to the elements. Wet clothes, wet feet, being out long enough in cold weather to get the body chilled lowers a child's resistance and so makes him susceptible, as fatigue does.

Some children are, for instance, exhilarated—almost intoxicated—by snow. Or they love the outdoors so that they would never think of coming in unless some one called them.

Also some boys and girls are so vigorous that their parents get careless about them. Or they are so spirited and enthusiastic that they go to extremes and need some older, wiser head to check them. "Aw, mom, I don't want to come in—I'm not cold," or "O mother, let me stay out a little longer—I'm not wet," makes us relent often against our better judgment.

Be careful in March. See if your children can't come through with flying colors. Guard against overfatigue and exposure. Don't feel that, just because your child is strong and healthy he can stand anything. And remember too that generally speaking resistance is lower the younger a child is—and that as he grows older his resistance to disease increases.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Rowe of Oak Park announce the marriage of their daughter, Edith Adelaide, to Willis Stewart Baur, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Baur of Chicago, which took place on Feb. 24.

Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Sonnenfeld of the Plaisance hotel, 1541 East 60th street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Bunne, to Dr. Gerald M. Greenspahn, son of Dr. and Mrs. S. Greenspahn of 3639 North Pine Grove avenue. Miss Sonnenfeld will finish at Northwestern university in June, where Dr. Greenspahn was graduated.

Mrs. Meeker Reads Paper at Fortnightly

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

The members of the Fortnightly and their guests who had the pleasure yesterday of hearing Mrs. Arthur Meeker read a paper about South African architecture and saw pictures illustrating that subject are certain that John Hays Hammond was right when he said to Mrs. Meeker after a visit to her home in Montecito last summer, "It is a faithful reproduction of a South African homestead, but none there is so lovely."

Mrs. Meeker was anxious to have Mr. Hammond's opinion about her beloved Constantia, inspired by and named for one of the famous old plantation houses in South Africa, because of his many years in that country as a mining engineer.

Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Meeker ever has taken a trip to Cape Town, but they chose the style of the country houses near it for their own home in California, and judging by the pictures we saw yesterday of the old and new Constantia, we feel sure that their son-in-law and architect, Ambrose C. Cramer [he hasn't visited South Africa, either], has kept all the charm and dignity and added a few improvements of his own.

How Mr. and Mrs. Meeker can bear to spend the whole winter in Chicago when they have such an enchanting spot as the one they own in Montecito, with its background of mountains and the Pacific, we don't know, but undoubtedly it is because, as Mr. Meeker said yesterday, they like Chicago and Chicagoans so much. They will be going west to occupy Constantia on May 1, however, and until then former Gov. and Mrs. Livingston Beeckman of Rhode Island are enjoying the winter sun on the grass stoep or in the—like Mrs. Meeker, we don't the Dutch word for patio of Constantia.

All the members of Mrs. Meeker's family who are in Chicago were in the audience yesterday, including Mr. Meeker, Arthur Jr., Mrs. Cramer [Mary Meeker] and Mr. Cramer, and they all must have felt proud of the enthusiasm with which the crowd of women received Mrs. Meeker's paper.

In spite of the fact that every one says these days "Nobody's at home, every one's away," the audience overflowed from the ballroom of the Fortnightly into the drawing room. After the talk the chairs were pushed aside and tea was served from two long tea tables, Mrs. Huntington B. Henry and Mrs. Alden B. Swift pouring at one, and Mrs. Sewell Avery and Mrs. Bowman C. Lingle presiding at the other.

Mrs. Henry had just returned the day before from Phoenix with her daughter, Mrs. Gordon Kelley, and Mrs. John A. Stevenson, Mrs. Dexter Cummings and Mrs. Oren E. Taft, and, like all returned vacationers from the west and south, she was becomingly tanned by the sun. Mrs. Stevenson, looking exceedingly chic and fit, was there yesterday, too.

Paris' Smartest Swagger Coats Hang Wide Open

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Coats, as I have said before, are getting louder and more dashing as spring comes in Paris. Notable in the eloquent coat styles of the French couture is Jenny's black and white printed swagger coat which is worn over a severe black frock. It is illustrated.

According to the new style rules the coat of this ensemble hangs wide apart down the front so you get an eyeful of the frock that goes with it. The material of this coat is white crepe marocain with double dotted lines in black, worked vertically, so that the wearer looks tall. The coat is held in front by a strap of the material across the chest, and has big bishop sleeves with black marocain cuffs trimmed with dotted bands.

The dress of black marocain is also trimmed with narrow bands of the dotted silk of the coat, these being used to border the bertha collar that is worn over the coat and to trim the lower sleeves and make the hem.

Mothers Must Train Children in Care of Skin

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If the youngsters of this generation are not almost physically perfect by the time they're young women, it will be because they all have not mothers like Doris' far seeing parent. Maybe the fact that Doris' mamma went through three or four painful years, herself as a girl, troubled with that embarrassing complexion ill of blackheads and pimples, that she trotted her thirteen year old to a dermatologist recently for instruction on facial care. After all, children are taken to the dentists twice a year for an overhauling. Why not, if it can be afforded, have a dermatologist look them over occasionally, too?

It isn't necessary, however. But watching to see that at puberty, when the sebaceous glands develop swiftly in the skin, that the face is washed frequently and often with soap and water, is necessary. Also, that the hands are washed frequently enough to keep their dirt from getting into the pores, which, along with the sebum plugged in the duct, creates the spotty complexion. In fact, our best skin specialists will tell you to begin this face and hand washing "policing" earlier than twelve or thirteen, for the complexion's sake. It's this excessive cleanliness of skin, and attention to daily bowel movement, that will prevent the spotty skins which so often make the tender years a perfect nightmare to youngsters.

You mothers know that you can't trust the girls, without a certain amount of policing, to use the washrag thoroughly in and around the nostrils' edges. Here blackheads often get a start. They're still youngsters enough to think that if they make a lot of noise and do a lot of water splashing they're getting away with it. So, they need to be looked in on and "ordered" to wash properly.

A clear complexion today is just as advantageous to a girl as good teeth. The foundation for each of these assets is mother's job. Mother knows pretty well her responsibility about the teeth, but toward the complexion she often is guilty of that old misconception: "She'll outgrow it."

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Isn't this a darling dress for spring and summer daytime wear? It's unbelievably easy to make, and it's practically a one piece affair, cut along princess lines, with the side skirt sections at the front and back of the dress. The sleeves are shirred into drop shoulders. Pansy blue, a heavenly shade in a printed silk crepe made the original dress.

The pattern, No. 2575, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

32 FIGHT IN GOLDEN GLOVES FINALS TONIGHT

THE GUMPS—POOR LITTLE NELL

COME—LITTLE NELL—COME TELL WHAT HAPPENED TO YOU SINCE I LEFT YOU WITH YOUR GRANDPA—HOW I'VE SEARCHED FOR YOU—
I HOPED YOU'D COME BACK—I WATCHED AT THE WINDOW FOR YOU FOR A LONG—LONG TIME—AND I ONCE SAW YOU IN YOUR AUTO—
AFTER YOU LEFT, THE MEN CAME AND MADE US MOVE OUT OF OUR LITTLE HOUSE—GRANDPA AND I HAD TO GET IN THE BOAT AND ROW DOWN THE RIVER TILL WE FOUND ANOTHER LITTLE CABIN—BUT GRANDPA WASN'T WELL—I DIDN'T HAVE ANY MONEY FOR MEDICINE AND HE GOT SICKER AND SICKER—THE DOCTOR CAME AT LAST—BUT HE COULDN'T HELP. THEN A MAN CAME TO THE CABIN AND SAID HE WAS MY FATHER—GRANDPA WAS GLAD TO HEAR THAT AND IT MADE HIM HAPPY—BUT THEN HE DIED—THEN THE MAN TOOK ME AWAY—

Crowd at Stadium Bouts to Exceed 20,000.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The championships will be decided in THE TRIBUNE'S seventh annual Golden Gloves tournament at the Chicago Stadium tonight.

All that is necessary now is for 8 o'clock to come around so that amateur boxing's greatest program can begin.

This morning 32 boys—the flower of the physical manhood of the central states—are on the scene with but one thought in mind. Each believes he will win a title. Twenty-four of them, after weeks and months of training and fighting while they battled their way through the ranks, are destined for disappointment, for only eight can become champions.

Crowd to Pack Stadium.

This thrilling situation, the spectacle it promises to present, and the accompanying excitement, have aroused the interest of sports followers to a new zenith. Twenty thousand and more of them are ready to move into the Stadium and pack it to capacity. Other thousands will listen in on radio station W-G-N for the broadcast of the show.

Tonight's final program will consist of twenty-four bouts, each lasting eight minutes or less. There will be sixteen semi-final battles in eight weights, with the winners fighting it out in the eight championship bouts.

The most feared of the invaders from out of town arrived yesterday afternoon when the Cleveland and Detroit teams checked in. They brought ten of the strongest contenders for the diamond studded Golden Gloves, six from the Ohio city and four from Detroit. Their numbers, however, did not awe the boys from Chicago, Peoria, and Grand Rapids, and certainly not their followers, who kept trooping into town throughout the day to make up the greatest and one of the most confident visiting delegations in the seven years' history of the tournament.

The weighing in ceremonies and physical examinations will be conducted at the Stadium between the hours of 2 and 6 this afternoon, for all of the 32 contestants. This arrangement allows the boys and their trainers plenty of time for dinner or a rest period. If they so desire, they may report at 6 o'clock and await their entrance time. There will be a number of cots in the Stadium dressing rooms, upon which the boxers may rest before their turns come.

Five States in Finals.

Boys from five states—Tennessee, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and Michigan—have come through to the grand finals of the Golden Gloves. The representatives of Nebraska, Indiana and Iowa were eliminated in the Tournament of Champions.

Each champion will be awarded a diamond studded golden glove; the runners up will receive silver gloves set with emeralds, and the alternates chosen on the team to fight New York March 23 will receive bronze gloves set with rubies.

But these trophies, much as the boys may prize them in later years, are not the only rewards for which the 32 champions will be punching this evening. With them go the trip to New York and Madison Square Garden, where Gotham's best will be met in the inter-city finals. The eight champions, eight runners up and eight alternates will comprise the squad which will attempt to increase Chicago's edge in the inter-city rivalry. Chicago teams have won three tournaments, lost two, and tied one Everybody Will Be There.

Tonight's show will be presented before a gathering the complexion of which is one of the most interesting in sport, because it involves all walks of life. Yes, your true fight fan will be there, the fellow who sees all the bouts in town the year around. But with him will be many another sport follower, who may go to only one boxing show a year, but for seven years has made sure it's trademarked "Golden Gloves."

Tonight the crowd at the Stadium will include polo fans, hocky fans, race fans, baseball and football fans, lacrosse fans, ping pong and checker and bridge fans. It is the diverse nature of the attendance which is the greatest testimonial to Golden Gloves.

Aside from the individual prizes there will be a reward for club and home town effort in the annual team trophies, given on a point basis. Even a defeated semi-finalist is certain to bring one point to his team, and a loser in the finals will collect three points.

Fans Urged to Come Early.

Five points will be scored for each championship won. Team trophies will be awarded to the leading Chicago and out of town teams. The Catholic Youth Organization has dominated the Chicago picture, with George Trafton's gymnasium its principal rival. Last year was the first year an out of town trophy was offered, but the winner, Davenport, Ia., will not be represented tonight. Cleveland appears the most likely winner among the visitors.

Poles Plan Tourney to Select Squad for Trip.

BY ARCH WARD.

Poland's amateur boxing champions will be the opponents of Chicago's Golden Glove winners in the fourth annual international amateur boxing bouts sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The match will be held at Chicago Stadium May 18.

Formal acceptance of the invitation to Poland was received yesterday from the Polish Boxing union. Warsaw officials requested that the bouts be held in May, thus necessitating a shift from Soldiers' field, where the previous international contests have been held, to the indoor arena in West Madison street.

Boxing Flourishing Sport.

Amateur boxing has flourished in Poland since the world war. The German champions, who opposed the Chicago winners two years ago, rated Poland the strongest boxing team in Europe in 1932. The country was not represented in the Olympic games of that year because of limited finances.

Poland was chosen as Chicago's 1934 foe in compliment to the huge Polish population, which is said to exceed 500,000 in the metropolitan district. Several European teams were hopeful they would be selected for the trip to Chicago.

Whip Trench in 1931.

International Golden Gloves had its beginning in 1931 when the champions of France were defeated by a combined New York-Chicago team at Soldiers' field, 5 bouts to 3, before 40,000, the largest gathering that ever had seen an amateur boxing match. Germany's champions fought Chicago to a 4 to 4 tie in the same arena in 1933 before 45,000, and last summer 48,000 saw THE TRIBUNE'S team whip the strongest squad Ireland could send over, 6 bouts to 2.

Like other European countries which have sent their fistic ambassadors to Chicago, Poland will conduct a national tournament to determine the personnel of its team. The Polish Boxing union in accepting THE TRIBUNE'S invitation made it clear that the boys who will represent that nation at Chicago Stadium will be the strongest and bravest that can be developed.

Will Fight Five Rounds.

There will be eight international contests, one in each weight division. All bouts will be five rounds of two minutes each, a new international regulation. The Polish team, accompanied by a coach and a representative of the Polish union, will arrive in Chicago at least a week in advance of the match.

Tickets will not be placed on public sale for a month, but mail orders will be accepted immediately. There will be no increase in prices. The same scale that prevailed for tonight's finals will be in effect. The best seats will cost $3.30. There will be thousands of others at $2.20, $1.65, $1.10, and 55 cents.

If you want to make sure of obtaining choice locations, send in your order at once to the Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 9.—Officials of the Cubs staged an impromptu celebration tonight upon receipt of word from bone specialists in Los Angeles that the left ankle of George [Tuck] Stainback, $75,000 rookie outfielder, injured in practice today, was sprained, not fractured, as was feared at first.

Stainback, who slipped on the dew laden turf while engaged in an apparently mild bunting game, was carried from the field to the island hospital, where an X-ray photograph indicated a probable fracture. The negative was rushed to the mainland by plane for scrutiny by a specialist, who flashed the cheering news back to President William Walker that there is no indication of a break.

To Be Out a Week.

Thus, instead of losing the former Coast league slugger for a good part of the season, the Cubs will have him back in uniform within a week and as good as new long before the season opens.

Followers of the Cubs' spring activities during the last decade would not have been surprised if the worst had happened to Stainback. It would have been merely another sad chapter in the chronicle of grief that has marked their camp doings since Rabbit Maranville suffered a fractured leg in an exhibition game in 1925.

Last spring Kiki Cuyler was a victim of the broken leg jinx and in 1929 a dead arm kept Gabby Hartnett out for the season.

Pitchers Suffer, Too.

There also has been a long string of other mishaps, such as pitchers' arms going wrong.

To offset Stainback's withdrawal from action, some of the other cripples of the squad showed great improvement. The two one eyed infielders, Bill Jurges and Woody English, have nearly conquered their optical affliction. Pitcher Lynn Nelson, however, is still confined in a Los Angeles hospital and will not be released until the doctors are certain that a mastoid will not develop. Incidentally Traveling Secretary Bob Lewis was able to join the official corps in the throne room back of first base. Lewis was down for two days with an attack of sciatic rheumatism.

Drill Shows Results.

For all around result today's drill was the most beneficial of the conditioning grind. The sun was on the job with midsummer effectiveness.

The boys sweated profusely as they went through all the daily motions which concluded with a prolonged batting practice in which Chuck Klein and Ernie [Babe] Phelps, the rotund catcher, lost a number of baseballs in the bungalow village behind the right field wall. Phelps also was given considerable attention in other ways by

Regulars Beat Sox Goofs, 7-3, in Six Innings

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 8.—The White Sox—Regulars vs. Goofs—today played six snappy innings to provoke the compilation of the first Chicago box score of the year. The Regulars won, 7 to 3, with Mule Haas turning in the best of the hitting and Lee Stine the best of the pitching.

Haas got the Regulars off to a 1 to 0 lead in the first inning, when he followed Swanson's single with a double off Pomorski which enabled Evar to tally. In the fourth inning, off Wyatt, the Mule crashed a homer with Pasek on base.

Six Pitchers Do Stuff.

Six pitchers took two inning turns, Gallivan, Mills, and Nitcholas working for the Regulars, while Pomorski, Wyatt, and Stine labored in behalf of Fonseca and his Goofs. The Regulars made five hits each off Pomorski and Wyatt, but Stine shut them out with one single. Stine also accomplished two strikeouts in the final inning.

The game was surprisingly well played, especially in the infield, where three double plays were completed in the first two innings.

Al Simmons, who has averaged a third of an error a year on fly balls during the last nine regular American league seasons, was impressed with the fact that the easiest of pop flies can leap from the glove. Al has spent much of the winter explaining how a potential game ending easy fly got away from him at Comiskey park last year. And then, in his first competitive chance of the year, he virtually duplicated the error on his only chance of the day.

Pasek Gets Two Hits.

Two of the Regulars' eleven hits and their only base on balls were registered after the name of Johnny Pasek, whose catching technique has been winning high praise from Manager Fonseca and other surprised observers. Zeke Bonura, the personable ravioli fancier, looked good at first base, but was trying a little too hard at the plate. He managed to rap out one single, however.

Routine drilling will be on the bill tomorrow with a little lighter work scheduled for Saturday, when the lads will tune up for the opening of the 1934 exhibition season against the Los Angeles Angels at Wrigley Field, Los Angeles. Score:

FROSCHAUER IS ELECTED CAPTAIN OF ILLINOIS FIVE

Champaign, Ill., March 8.—[Special.]—Frank Froschauer was unanimously elected captain of the University of Illinois basketball team for 1934-'35 tonight at a dinner to the squad given by the Kiwanis club. Froschauer is a product of Lincoln, Ill., also the home of Charles Bennis, co-captain of the football team for next season. He is a junior, was fourth high scorer in the Big Ten this season and is also a regular half back on the football team.

BO M'MILLIN TO START WORK AT INDIANA MONDAY

Bloomington, Ind., March 8.—[Special.]—A. N. [Bo] McMillin, Indiana's new football coach, has telephoned from Manhattan, Kas., that he will be here next Monday to open spring football practice.

McMillin is married and will move his family here later. He stated that he has not yet completed negotiations with the line coach he expects to bring here.

NOW FOR THAT TEAM TROPHY!

LAYDEN STARTS FOOTBALL DRILL AT NOTRE DAME

At the same time news reel cameras ground out hundreds of feet of film. Before the cameras Layden greeted his new staff, consisting of Joe Boland, Donald C. [Chet] Grant, Tom Conley, and Jake Kline. He also shook hands with Dominic Vairo, 1934 captain and left end. Conley, 1930 captain and end coach last year, and Kline, last year's freshman coach, are the only returning members of last year's staff.

LEVINSKY BOXES NEUSEL TONIGHT IN GARDEN RING

New York, March 8.—[Special.]—Walter Neusel, German heavyweight, will fight King Levinsky of Chicago in a ten round bout at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. Because of his greater experience Levinsky is favored to win at the odds of 7 to 5. The boxers will be evenly matched physically, each expecting to scale 200 pounds.

Hold North Central Track Meet Tonight at Naperville

Don't Be Left Out

You still have time to get your tickets for the finals of the Golden Gloves tournament at Chicago Stadium tonight. They will be on sale until 6 o'clock at THE TRIBUNE Public Service Office, 1 S. Dearborn street, and at Tribune Tower. The sale at the Stadium will open at 10 A. M. at the Madison street box office.

Provision has been made to take care of late comers. One thousand general admission tickets will be placed on sale at the Stadium shortly before the first bout.

Low prices and the peak in thrills. No boxing fan can afford to miss this show. $3.30, $2.20, $1.65, $1.10 and 55 cents.

In the Wake of the News

FLORIDA JOTTINGS.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., March 8.—Because of the many Cubans in this section this winter seek sanctuary from home turmoil, both the Miami newspapers print several columns in Spanish daily, giving a digest of world news.

Havana hotels, stores, airplane and steamship lines, however, advertise lavishly, emphasizing the safety of travelers over on the sugar island in an effort to attract tourists. These ads bring fair results, but traffic managers admit the usual three and four day jaunts to the Cuban capital are much below normal.

In addition to the majors, several minor league aggregations are about, including Buffalo, with Manager Ray Schalk, former White Sox, here in Fort Lauderdale.

In previous years exhibition games have not drawn many spectators. Therefore there is curiosity to know what the presence of the New York Giants may do to stimulate interest. The New York Giants are understood to have received a guarantee of $10,000 for their presence, a Miami Beach syndicate underwriting the amount and taking the gate receipts. The Giants are quartered at one of the leading hotels on an American plan rate of $7 per day, two in a room.

Col. E. R. Bradley, turfman, is said to be interested financially in the merger of two Palm Beach newspapers, although the fact, if a fact, is not widely heralded.

A Boob There Was.

[With apologies to R. L.]

A boob there was (he says "no more")
Even as you and I.
He paid his way to a fistic bore,
He knew 'twas folly, he'd been before.
But a boob's a boob (this please ignore)
Even as you and I.

O fighting days! Alas, they're gone
It pugs must have a "round"
Of night clubs gay with laughs and lights,
Where twists enchant with fans—sans tights,
Where cooks and waiters stage the fights
And boobs galore are found.

Even as you and I.
"No, more I'm done, no more," he sighed,
But as he passed the gate he cried:
"Gimme a seat, next show, ringside,"
Even as you and I.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The title of "Eadie Was a Lady," a ballad of recent memory, became "Ebbie Was a Defense Man" last night at the Chicago Stadium to the complete dissatisfaction of 11,000 customers who saw the Detroit Red Wings spank the Blackhawks, 3 to 0.

The Ebbie in question is a large fellow named Goodfellow, who was listed in the programs of the evening's joust as a defense man. The gentleman responsible for this was Mr. Jack Adams, sitting in the Detroit dugout, who had suddenly made Goodfellow a defense man in midseason after Ebbie had been one of the ablest forwards in the National Hocky league and a scorer of talent.

Needs No Help.

Ebbie must have resented the transformation last night, for he went about his old business and scored two goals without the assistance of any of his fellows in addition to more than carrying his share of the defense duties. The first goal, scored by Capt. Herb Lewis, of course, might have been sufficient, but even there you could not overlook Ebbie, for it was h who was the source of the goal. In other words, he scored two goals and an assist in the course of convincing the Hawks why Detroit is still leading the American division of the league.

The Hawks' defeat dropped them into third place, a half game behind the New York Rangers, who in turn are three games back of Detroit. The champions will have an opportunity to get even Sunday night at Detroit.

Officials Get Bird.

The crowd immediately notified both officials that it recalled their work in the recent Hawk game with the Rangers by giving them several varieties of the bird prior to the game.

The customers howled for the first ten minutes, but witnessed not a goal or even a goodly threat, and only one penalty, that being meted out to Williams on a charging violation. The Wings distressed Gardiner in the first few minutes before Gottselig and Couture came on to worry Cude. Lewis then dashed down the ice and wound

THORNTON BEATS MONEE, 85-2, IN STATE TOURNEY

Prep Quintets Compete in 64 Districts.

The sixty-four district tournaments for the Illinois state high school basketball championship were in full swing last night. From all sections of the state scores of games were trickling in. The district winners, who will compete in the sectional tournaments next week, will be determined by tomorrow night.

Outstanding in last night's play was the auspicious start of Thornton of Harvey, winner of the state championship last year. The Harvey squad hung up one of the largest scores in the history of the meet as it vanquished Monee, 85 to 2, in the opening of the Chicago Heights district tournament.

Play for the district championships will continue until tomorrow night, when the titleholders will be determined. The four Chicago semi-finalists in the heavyweight division will be eligible for sectional play.

CATHOLIC FIVES TO PLAY

Fourteen games—seven heavyweight and eight lightweight—will end the sectional races in the Chicago Catholic High School league tonight. Two teams, Joliet's heavyweights and St. Mel's lightweights, already have clinched titles and have qualified for the final round. Both Joliet and St. Mel are undefeated, the former winning 13 games in capturing the east division heavyweight title, while St. Mel scored eleven consecutive triumphs to clinch the west section lightweight crown.

Joliet will seek its fourteenth victory against Leo at the latter's gymnasium. St. Mel ends its schedule against St. Michael on the St. Michael court. Joliet, which clinched the sectional title two weeks ago, also qualified for the eleventh annual National Catholic tournament which will be held at Loyola university gymnasium March 21 to 25.

St. Philip vs. St. Patrick.

A victory over St. Patrick will give St. Philip the west section heavyweight championship. If St. Patrick succeeds in defeating St. Philip, it will tie for the crown. St. Philip has won ten games and lost one, while St. Patrick has won nine games while dropping two.

Leo's lightweights also need only one victory to capture the east division championship. They will oppose Joliet. Leo's closest rival, Mount Carmel, plays St. Rita at St. Rita gymnasium. Leo now rests in first place with eleven triumphs and two defeats, while Mount Carmel is in second place, having won 10 out of 13 games.

City League Plays Tomorrow.

The finalists for the Chicago Public High School league lightweight and heavyweight championships started preparations for the games which will be played tomorrow afternoon. Lane Tech meets Tilden Tech for the heavyweight crown at White City, while Phillips plays Roosevelt for the lightweight title at Loyola university gymnasium.

MISS HADFIELD, MISS MILEY BID FOR GOLF TITLE

Belleair, Fla., March 8.—[Special.]—Frances Hadfield of Milwaukee, Wis., will meet Marian Miley of Lexington, Ky., in the final round for the Belleair women's golf championship tomorrow. In the semi-finals this afternoon Miss Miley defeated Jane Douglas, Beverly Hills, Cal., 5 and 4, while Miss Hadfield triumphed over Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, Wis., 2 and 1.

George Demetrio Named Irish Football Manager

Notre Dame, Ind., March 8.—[Special.] — George T. Demetrio, New Haven, Conn., was named senior manager of football tonight at the annual Notre Dame manager's dinner. His assistants will be W. Raymond Oakes, Chicago, and Thomas W. Thompson, Detroit. Other managerial appointments made were: Basketball, Philip H. Kirley, Kewanee, Ill.; baseball, Carl W. Weber, Aurora, Ill.; track, Raymond B. Keating, Platteville, Wis., and minor sports, Thomas J. Walsh, New York.

ROY JOINER.

Answer to Cubs' Prayer for Southpaw?

(This is the fifth of a series of articles on rookies now in training with the White Sox and Cubs in California.)

Dispatches from the Catalina Island conditioning base of the Cubs lead one to suspect that the Chicago club finally has apprehended a southpaw pitcher of ability in Roy Merrill Joiner, who last season won 23 games and lost 14 with Oakland of the Pacific Coast league.

An intensive quest for competent left handed pitching talent has been conducted by the north side club for several seasons, but there has not been a real topliner operating with his left hand since the days of Jim [Hippo] Vaughn.

Lone Cub Southpaw.

Joiner, the lone southpaw on the 1934 Cubs' staf, is a native Californian, born at Red Bluff, Oct. 30, 1907, of Scotch-Irish parents. He is 6 feet tall and weighs 180 pounds. He has been in organized baseball since July, 1926, when he was given a trial by the San Francisco Seals.

Subsequently Joiner was with the Portland, Bakersfield, Oakland, Phoenix, and Omaha clubs. Returning to Oakland he swung into his best stride and soon attracted attention of major league scouts. He was one of the hardest working pitchers in the Pacific Coast league last season, appearing in nearly 300 innings.

One of his chief assets is control, a quality that most southpaws lack. It is said he possesses uncanny ability to put the ball just where it does the most harm to an enemy batsman.

Also Can Hit.

On many occasions Joiner has breezed through games striking out a dozen opponents. Moreover, he can hit as well as pitch, for in one of his 3 to 2 victories over Portland last season he made four hits in as many times at the plate.

Joiner was named the most valuable player on the 1929 Bakersfield club. That year he won 15 and lost 5 games and was recalled by Oakland. He compiled three more triumphs for the Oaks before the season closed.

Joiner regards his one hit, 2 to 0 shut out of Hollywood as his master bit of southpawing. His own bat drove in both runs.

CARPENTERS GET STADIUM SET FOR 6 DAY BIKE RACE

As soon as the Golden Gloves bouts are finished in the Stadium tonight Pat Mulvey, veteran track builder, will descend on the Stadium with a couple of hundred carpenters to begin work on the ten lap bicycle track for the six day race which starts Sunday night. Mulvey will only have a day to put in the track and expects to have it ready shortly after the bouts so that the riders can have a workout tomorrow in preparation for the race.

Almost all of the six day riders are due in town today and will head immediately for the Stadium to put their bicycles together and get their tires on the wheels.

There will be a one hour team race for amateurs Sunday night before the six day grind gets under way.

HOLD BIG TEN GYM, FENCING MEET TONIGHT

Big Ten championships in two minor sports, gymnastics and fencing, will be settled tonight at Bartlett gymnasium, University of Chicago, when the annual titular event for both will be held simultaneously on the same floor. Duelists from six universities, Chicago, Illinois, Northwestern, Ohio, Purdue, and Wisconsin, will compete in three events, the foils, the epee, and the saber. Gymnasts from five institutions, Chicago, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, and Ohio state, will meet in five events, the flying rings, side horse, parallel bars, horizontal bar, and tumbling.

Manager Grimm. The idea is to get Phelps in such shape that when he returns to Chicago the fans will think him an athlete instead of a couple of fat men wrapped up in one uniform.

Tomorrow the day's work will take on something resembling baseball. The boys will square off in their first intra-camp game. The regulars will be made up of English at third, Galan at short, whoever is named for Stainback's place in right field, Klein in center field, Cuyler in left field, Jurges at second, Grimm at first base, Hartnett as catcher and Lefty Joiner and Ward as pitchers. The Goofs will line up with Hack at third, Rice in center, Babe Herman in right, Phelps catching, Stephenson in left, Tate, a catcher, at short; Camilli at first, Root in left field and Warneke and Bush as pitchers. The battle will be limited to six innings.

Give Root Running Drill.

The idea of putting Root in the outfield is to give him enough running to make up for the time he lost because of the veteran's refusal to sign his contract. Root now weighs less than he did when the season closed last fall, so apparently isn't in need of much exercise except of his right arm. Speaking of arms reminds one of Stanley Hack, whose right wrist was broken by a pitched ball last September. The arm is so weak the youngster can barely get the ball across the infield. Work may strengthen it. At least, that is what Manager Grimm hopes will happen.

While the boys were waiting for the dew to lift from the grass this morning they initiated all the newcomers into the famous Ear Biters' club. The ceremony consists of pinning the candidate to the ground and biting one ear. Guy Bush is the official biter. A man who resists is given additional punishment. This means a small plug of chewed tobacco is stuffed into the ear. It took ten Cubs to throw Tiger Klein to the ground, so he was given an especially severe bite and an extra portion of tobacco.

Monel Breaks Track Record; Disqualified

Miami, Fla., March 8.—[Special.]—Jocky Lester Balaski of New Orleans was suspended for the remainder of the meeting at Hialeath park today after having ridden Sylvester W. Labrot's Monel to victory and a new track record of 1:35 3-5 for a mile.

Monel was disqualified by the stewards and first place awarded to Quel Jeu, which was a length back at the finish. Balaski, who has been under suspensions before since the winter season opened, bothered Quel Jeu all through the stretch and was guilty of shaking his whip before the second place entry on three occasions.

After Quel Jeu was awarded the purse, Flying Sailor fell heir to second place and Hokuao, victor in six straight starts, was given third money.

82 WRESTLERS ENTER BIG TEN MEET TONIGHT

Bloomington, Ind., March 8.—[Special.]—The complete entry list of 82 wrestlers representing nine universities was announced today for the conference wrestling tournament to be held here tomorrow and Saturday. The first round will be completed tomorrow night, the second Saturday afternoon, and the finals Saturday night.

ENGLEWOOD FIVE WINS IN K. OF C. SOUTH DIVISION

Englewood won the championship of the South division of the Knights of Columbus Basketball league last night by defeating La Rabida, 26 to 18. The victory qualified Englewood for the league championship series. In other South division games Calumet scored a 19 to 17 victory over Perez in an overtime contest; Aquinas defeated McHale, 21 to 15, and Loyola-Hyde Park swamped Auburn Park, 39 to 16.

INVADERS LIKELY TO WIN HONORS IN GOLDEN GLOVES

8 Chicagoans Face 24 from Out of Town.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's six year domination of the Golden Gloves championships probably will end tonight. Never before has so large a number of boys from out of town qualified for the semi-finals, the first of which will start at the Stadium tonight at 8 o'clock.

Eight Chicago boys, that is, boys who qualified as members of the Catholic Youth organization championship team or from the four Chicago sectional tournaments, remain in the group of 32 contestants who tonight fight for the diamond studded golden glove.

Marek a Chicagoan.

This number could be increased if Max Marek, now a freshman at the University of Notre Dame, who last year qualified for the tournament as a member of the C. Y. O. team, and Bill Treest of St. Charles, Ill., are included. Treest a year ago fought through Chicago's west section and placed on the intercity squad. This year, however, Treest qualified in the Joliet, Ill., tournament.

By the same reasoning, the list of eight Chicago boys might be decreased since Joe Minneci, a C. Y. O. boxer, hails from Waukegan, Ill. Minneci fought through the north side trials at Loyola university.

Carry Chicago Colors.

John Brown, C. Y. O., 112 pounds.
Joe Minneci, C. Y. O., 118 pounds.
Andy Scavini, C. Y. O., 126 pounds.
Irving Goldstein, Trafton's gym, 126 pounds.
Phil Kenneally, C. Y. O., 135 pounds.
Charles Wozniak, C. Y. O., 160 pounds.
Fred Caserio, Trafton's gym, 160 pounds
Otis Thomas, Savoy A. C., heavyweight.

If Chicago boys come through, two championships still would be won by boys from out of the city, since Chicago has no representatives in the welterweight and light heavyweight classes. But th most ardent Chicago supporter probably would settle right now for four of the eight titles. Last year Chicago won seven championships, Johnny Baltzer, Davenport, Ia., flyweight crashing the home guard for the only golden gloves won by an outsider.

Five from C. Y. O.

Five of Chicago's eight boys represent the Catholic Youth organization, which practically assures that the C. Y. O. will win the team trophy offered for Chicago teams just as Cleveland seems assured of taking the out of town team trophy.

Since the organization of the C. Y. O. in 1930 and the first boxing tournament sponsored by that group, the C. Y. O. has won Golden Gloves team trophies. Boxing is not the only activity of the C. Y. O., but it probably has the greatest appeal. The first tournament in 1931 drew a list of 1,500 entries; the second, 1,800, and last December the C. Y. O. boxing tournament had 2,200 entries in class A and class B.

Tie Western Boxers.

In intercity competition the C. Y. O. champions have defeated Los Angeles and Panama and in January the present team tied in the intercity matches with San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Three hundred C. Y. O. boys entered the Chicago sectional Golden Gloves tournament in addition to the championship team of eight. The five survivors include both qualifiers in the sections and the C. Y. O. champions.

The contestants in tonight's bouts may report any time this afternoon between 2 and 6 o'clock for their physical examinations and to be weighed. Pairings in the first weight class, 112 pounds, will be made at 7 o'clock.

GOV. HORNER OPENS A. B. C. TOURNAMENT

Peoria, Ill., March 8.—[Special.]—With Gov. Horner and 24 teams from the statehouse at Springfield participating in the opening ceremonies the 34th annual American bowling congress tournament began tonight.

Gov. Horner sent the first ball rolling down alley No. 13 for a strike preceding brief ceremonies in which Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan, Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, Mayor John Kapp of Springfield, Mayor Charles O'Brien of Peoria, and Elmer H. Baumgarten and Judge George Howard, representing the American bowling congress, participated.

Chicago heads the out of town entries with 157 teams, 390 sets of doubles, and 785 individuals. Chicago bowlers have paid $11,750 entry fees and are expected to win a good part of the $57,000 prize money.

DE KALB QUINTET TO PLAY ALUMNI FOR TRIP FUNDS

De Kalb, Ill., March 8.—[Special.]—The De Kalb Teachers, Little 19 conference basketball champions, will meet an alumni team next Monday evening. Proceeds will be used to send the varsity to Atlanta, Ga., to meet the University of Pittsburgh in a series of three games before the National Coaches association clinic on March 29, 30 and 31.

Nine Michigan Hocky Players Awarded M's

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 8.—[Special.]—Nine members of the University of Michigan hocky team were awarded letters tonight by Coach Eddie Lowrey. Two more were given numerals, the secondary award. The letter men are Capt. George David, Avon Artz, Ted Chapman and Tommy Stewart, all from Detroit; John Sheren and Jack Jewell, Calumet; Larry David, Hibbing, Minn.; Don MacCollum, Rochester, N. Y., and Harold Sindles, Sault Ste. Marie. Walter Courtis, Detroit, and Gilbert McEachern, Dearborn, win numerals.

DARING PROPHET PICKS MICHIGAN IN INDOOR TRACK

Recent performances by the leading track and field athletes of the Big Ten indicate that Michigan will win the 1934 indoor championship at the University of Chicago fieldhouse tomorrow, that Indiana will take second, and that Illinois will place third.

W. V. Morgenstern, publicity director at the Midway, has, after due perusal of the available records and with due regard to the chance that he will have to slip out of the fieldhouse unseen after the meet, rashly made the following forecast of the outcome of each event. With the winner first in each event, the advance summaries are:

440 YARD RUN—Fuqua, Indiana; Miller, Illinois; Dean, Iowa; Fleming, Northwestern; Bicking, Indiana.

HIGH JUMP—Ward, Michigan; Varnell, Chicago; Olson, Northwestern; Read, Northwestern; Roberts, Chicago.

POLE VAULT—Seeley, Illinois; Hunn, Michigan; Roberts, Chicago; Divich, Indiana.

If They Come True——.

If these guesses should come true, and in that order, team points would be about as follows: Michigan, 36; Indiana, 31; Illinois, 24; Ohio State, 16; Northwestern, 11; Purdue, 10; Chicago, 10; Iowa, 8; Minnesota, 3; Wisconsin, 0.

In the dash Morgenstern gives a chance for points to Crayne of Iowa and Burris of Minnesota. In the hurdles the outsiders are Clark of Wisconsin and Caldemeyer of Indiana; in the 440 Harpold of Indiana, Lemen of Michigan, Duggins of Northwestern, McQueen of Purdue, and Arnold of Ohio State; in the 880, Lindsey, Baughman and Capoot of Illinois, Campisi of Iowa, and Moore of Ohio State; in the mile, Krueger of Wisconsin and Moore of Ohio; in the two mile, Smullen of Indiana; in the shot, Busbee of Indiana; in the high jump, Weisman of Minnesota; in the pole vault, Jones of Purdue, Droullard of Michigan, Rudolph of Northwestern, and Kirkpatrick of Illinois.

It Would Be No. 6.

A victory for Michigan would give the Wolverines their sixth indoor title since the meet was begun in 1911. Team champions of the past:

1911—Chicago	36
1912—Illinois	31
1913—Wisconsin	33¾
1914—Illinois	36
1915—Chicago	37¼
1916—Illinois	41¾
1917—Chicago	38
1918—Michigan	42
1919—Michigan	36½
1920—Illinois	31¾
1921—Illinois	45
1922—Illinois	44 6-7
1923—Michigan	43½
1924—Illinois	38 1-2
1925—Michigan	22 1-3
1926—Iowa	24 1-3
1927—Wisconsin	28
1928—Illinois	31
1929—Iowa	29 2-3
1930—Wisconsin	21
1931—Michigan	27
1932—Indiana	27 5-6
1933—Indiana	32

Summary of titles won: Illinois, 8; Michigan, 5; Chicago, 3; Wisconsin, 3; Iowa, 2; Indiana, 2; Minnesota, Northwestern, Ohio, and Purdue, 0.

Canadiens Win Cup Playoff Berth, 3 to 2

New York, March 8.—(AP)—The Montreal Canadiens clinched their place in the National Hocky league playoffs and wiped out the scant hopes held by the New York Americans as they fought their way to a 3 to 2 victory over the Americans tonight.

Mathematically the Americans still can tie the Canadiens or beat out the third place Montreal Maroons, but with six points to make up and only four games to do it in, their chances are slim.

Wilder Larochelle, speedy right winger, accounted for the three goals that gave the flying Frenchmen their second victory over the Americans this week. Morenz assisted in two of them. The first bounced off Larochelle's stick, glanced from Rabbit McVeigh's skate and wound up in the net.

SENATORS BEAT LEAFS

The Senators cut loose in the third period, counting twice to break a 1 to 1 deadlock. The final session was only nine minutes and 20 seconds old when Nick Wasnie, right winger, broke through the Leafs' defense to score the winning goal. Carl Voss tallied the third Ottawa goal on a pass from Frank Finnigan in 16:15. Score:

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

SMEAD JOLLEY, once a White Sox, has been holding out on the Hollywood Stars. . . "You hardly can blame him for not wanting to take a 75 per cent cut," said a scribe to an official of the club. . . "We didn't cut him no 75 per cent," said the official indignantly, "I figured it up and it is only 56 per cent." . . . Glen Wright, recently released by the Brooklyn Dodgers, signed with the Kansas City Blues because they offered him more money than the St. Louis Browns, Detroit Tigers, or White Sox. . . . At Kansas City he will play for Johnny Kling, former Cub catcher, who said Glenn volunteered to tear up his contract if his arm hasn't completely recovered from a recent ailment. . . .

George Keogan, who has been relieved by Jake Kline as Notre Dame baseball coach, has taken no salary reduction. . . . He will continue to coach basketball and will help Elmer Layden with his scouting reports during the spring. . . . Moe Goldman, center and captain of the College of the City of New York team, who is regarded as one of the best basketball players in the east, has turned pro with the Philadelphia Spahs of the American league. . . . Pat Malone's favorite joke, after slicing a long drive into the rough, is to throw his driver to the caddy with the remark, "Here, son, see if you can trade it for a horse." . . .

Milt Bocek, former Wisconsin baseball star, had a higher batting average with the White Sox last summer than he did in the spring with the Badgers. . . . A prominent distillery is planning a one day curtain raiser for a "champion of champions" title before the western open golf tournament at Peoria in June. . . . This would include all major title holders, such as American, Canadian, British, Western, Miami Biltmore, North and South, Agua Caliente, and Los Angeles. . . . Frank McCormick, athletic director and baseball coach at Minnesota, formerly was a district attorney in South Dakota. . . . James A. Oates and Harry Wells, members of Northwestern's board of trustees, played football during their student days, Oates winning his monogram in 1892 and Wells in 1912. . . .

Purdue did not have a regular basketball player over six feet tall this winter. . . . The widely publicized "rump wheel" formation in which the guards face the backfield just before the ball is snapped, worked up at Michigan last spring, was used only once last fall and that time it failed. . . . Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette sprint flash, has won six consecutive National A. A. U. titles, the 100 and 200 meters in 1932 and 1933, and the 60 meters in 1933 and 1934. . . . Mick Coffing, center and back guard on Purdue's basketball team about 16 years ago, was elected captain for the following year, but talent was so plentiful he couldn't make the starting lineup. . . . Manager Lew Fonseca had Al Simmons do everything but stand on his head while Lew took movies for his baseball educational series, sponsored by the American league. . . . After Al had done his stuff for both regulation and slow motion the side fell out of Lew's machine, exposing the whole spool of film. . . .

Bob Shipway, member of the University of Chicago's freshman baseball team, played with the South Chicago Post American Legion Junior baseball team which in 1931 won the world's championship at Houston, Tex. . . . Lionel Conacher of the Blackhawks is an outstanding contender for the David Hart trophy, annually awarded to the player named most valuable to his team. . . . Eddie Shore of Boston won it last year. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today.—Lane Tech captured the Chicago public schools heavyweight basketball championship by defeating Wendell Phillips, 18 to 4. . . . Patrick J. Moran, veteran pilot of the Cincinnati Reds, died at the Reds' training camp at Orlando, Fla. . . . Jack Hendricks, coach of the Reds, was appointed manager. . . . Charley Hollacher, who deserted the Cubs in midseason, came to terms with President Veeck. . . . Frank Kair of Chicago was leading in two events in the A. B. C. tourney. . . . The Maroons swimming team defeated Wisconsin, 46 to 22. . . . Egg and Beckman were leading the New York six day bike race.

In the third five minutes of the period, the Hawks were obviously out for a goal at any cost, but Cude and the Detroit offense had other ideas, thrusting them back time and again. The Chicago defense men, Conacher, Couture, and Jenkins were essaying most of the rushes at Cude.

The Wings then went into a huddle and came up with the first goal of the game. Goodfellow inaugurated the play, passed to Aurie, who promptly lined it out to Lewis. The latter then shot the puck home in 17:40. The Hawks' energy was accelerated to even greater speeds after this, but showed no gain for the remainder of the period.

The Hawks returned in the second period and extended Cude considerably, but the score still remained 1 to 0. Conacher initiated at lease five plays which might have resulted in the tying goal with a mite of efficient coöperation. The coöperation was there, but lacked the efficiency. Lionel contented himself therefrom with making a half dozen stops of Detroit shots, but he wasn't looking for Goodfellow's rifle shot from just within the blue line. Neither was Gardiner and the red light gleamed for the Wings' second goal of the game in 2:55.

The Hawks were still making earnest efforts at the outset of the third period, but their passing was not of the best while Cude's stick was competent enough.

Mr. Goodfellow, who had been doing his part in protecting Cude, once more dashed down the ice with the puck and deceived Gardiner again for the third goal of the evening in 2 minutes and 35 seconds. The score board once more was adjusted, this time to 3 to 0.

CRANE TECH WINS ON TRACK FROM LINDBLOM, U. HIGH

The Crane Tech senior track team won a triangular meet at the University High school yesterday, scoring 41⅓ points. Lindblom was second with 36⅓ points, and University High trailed with 24 points.

The junior meet was won by University High, which scored 47 points. Crane had 19 points and Lindblom 7 points. Gagler, Crane senior, was high point man, winning the half mile run and the high jump. Junior scoring honors went to Brumbaugh, University High, with 8 points.

ACADEMY FIVES TO START TITLE TOURNEY TODAY

The fifth annual Midwest Academy conference invitational basketball tournament will begin today in St. Albans' fieldhouse, Sycamore, Ill. Ten teams, four of them from Chicago, have entered. St. Albans is defending champion.

Blue Ribbons Defeat Toronto Sextet, 5 to 3

The Pabst Blue Ribbons of the Chicago Amateur Hocky association defeated the Toronto Maple Leaf Amateurs, 5 to 3, at the Coliseum last night. The victory gave Chicago teams a two game series from the Canadians. Tuesday night the Leafs were defeated by the Baby Ruth Cardinals.

Handicaps for Skeet Shoots Are Discussed

BY BOB BECKER.

Should skeet shooters using small gauges and light loads be handicapped, or should the shotgun loads be brought to one standard, as is the case in 16 yard straight trap shooting?

This is the question which Charles Askins [writing in the magazine, Outdoor Life] brought up recently in order to straighten out this problem of how to get the 20 gauge shooter at the skeet traps on a par with a 12 gauge shooter using heavy loads. Ever since we started to toss shot at the skeet targets we, among others, have been wondering if some sort of a standardization was not overdue. Perhaps this year will see such a step in the skeet game.

Shot Patterns Vary.

There isn't any doubt but what a 12 gauge user who steps up to the skeet traps with shells loaded with 1⅛ ounces of shot can get a much larger pattern than the fellow who is shooting a 20 gauge.

It isn't a matter of guesswork on this point. Ballistic facts back up the contention. For example, the 12 gauge will give a pattern spread as wide as 28 inches [at the distance which the shooter breaks his flying targets] without a chance of the clay pigeon slipping through. When the 20 gauge shooter opens up with his gun his load of ⅞ of an ounce of shot gives him not more than a 21 inch positive [illegible] breaking spread.

Of course there will be shot pellets outside of both the 28 inch and the 21 inch circle, but we can't be sure that there will be enough of them to break the clay pigeon.

Westerners Allot Handicaps.

Having this difference of at least 7 inches in the pattern, it stands to reason that the fellow with a 12 gauge doesn't have to point his gun quite as accurately as the fellow with the 20. On some of the targets the 12 gauge shooter may be slightly "off" and still score his target as a "dead" bird.

Skeet shooters in the middle west will be interested to know that in southern California the Skeet Shooters association has recognized the advantage of the larger shot load over the light load and has adopted a system of handicapping based on loads and not on [illegible]es. Here are the handicaps: "Competitors using shot loads of less than 1⅛ ounces will be awarded added birds to their score as follows: Not more than ⅛ ounce, 2½ birds per 25; not more than ¾ ounce [in 410], 2 birds per 25; not more than ⅞ ounce, 1 bird per 25; not more than 1 ounce, ½ bird per 25. We have a hunch that most skeet shooters will consider this system very equitable.

Here in Chicagoland the game of skeet continues to grow in popularity. In the [illegible]ore you find team shoots being held each week. Knollwood Country club teams recently won class A and B team matches in competition with Onwentsia and Glen View clubs.

Artillery Poloists Fight for Share of Junior Title

Holding a chance to tie for first place in the final standings of the Metropolitan Polo league junior division, the 124th Field Artillery Cardinals will gallop tomorrow night against the Milwaukee Badgers at the artillery armory, 52d steet and Cottage Grove avenue.

The Cardinals can finish in a tie for the lead by defeating the Badgers and handing the same dose later to the 122d Field Artillery, two tough assignments.

While Lieut. Romeo Mura announced that he will stand pat on the Cardinals' lineup used all season, with Lieuts. Don Rice and Lou Levine as his teammates, Bill Wagner of the Milwaukee trio made known that he has revamped the Badgers to give them more speed and hitting power.

Just what the Badgers' combination will be Wagner has not yet revealed beyond stating that he will play the back position and Dick Cullum will hold down the No. 2 berth. Walter Davidson and George Meyer, two of the outstanding poloists of Milwaukee, are battling for the No. 1 post.

Steve Hammond, captain of the Green Bay Rustlers, will be supported by Lieut. Hobart D. Reed and Fred Lange Jr. in a game with the Cleveland Riding club, which will conclude tomorrow night's program.

SIGN FIVE BOUTS FOR RODAK-DAZZO SUPPORTING CARD

Five bouts will support the 10 round bout between Leo Rodak and Paul Dazzo, Chicago junior lightweights, at White City Monday night.

Gene Higgins, local 142 pound fighter, is paired with Johnny Terry of Kentucky in the six round semi-final. A four round match will bring together Jimmy Christy and Freddy Gravelle, featherweights. Other contests:

Sammy Adams vs. George Trapp [4], 150.
Mickey Misko vs. Tom Habel [4], 156.

The show scheduled at Rainbo Fronton tonight has been postponed until next Friday because of conflict with the Golden Gloves bouts at the Stadium. Laddie Tonelli, Marseilles, Ill., welterweight, will oppose Johnny Terry in the eight round windup.

The amateur boxing show set for March 29 at the Northwest gymnasium has been postponed until March 30. Promoter Chuck Logan has arranged the card as follows:

Ernie Newgart and Knute Kristiansen [5], 160.
Levi Pierson and Harry Swanson [5], 170.
Eldon Butler and Frank Baer [3], heavyweight.
Frank Klots and George Falck [3], 158.
John Helstrom and Casimir Kubik [3], 110.
Eddie Helstrom and Tony Settipane [3], 126.
Johnny Saborowski and Buccy Lane [3], 145.

Nate Lewis, Stadium matchmaker, may appoint Al Sweeney as his assistant to replace Mickey (Soldier Boy) Farr.

Indications are that King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight and Charley Massera of Pittsburgh, Pa., may meet at the Chicago Stadium on April 5 or 6. Both have accepted.

Bulls and bears (wolves, too, if you can still stand hearing about the big, bad things) all go in a great big way for Hills Bros. Coffee! Men who are accustomed to making accurate decisions know that this is the coffee of coffees. They know that there was never a more mellow, delicious goodness than in a steaming cup of Hills Bros. Coffee. They know, too, that even though it may cost a few cents more a pound than "bargain counter" coffees, you don't drink coffee by the pound—you drink it by the cup. Why not suggest to your wife, this evening, that she order Hills Bros. Coffee? It goes farther and tastes better. Tell her to order by name and be sure to look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

FOUR KILLED AS BLAST WRECKS DYNAMITE PLANT

600 Periled; Jar Felt for 30 Miles in Jersey.

New York, March 8.—[Special.]—Four workmen were killed when a terrific explosion wrecked the dynamite packing unit of the Hercules Powder company plant at Kenvil, N. J., today.

When the blast, felt throughout all northern New Jersey, roared out, 600 workmen were in the plant, the day shift of 300 having just been relieved by the night shift.

Four Workers Killed.

The four men killed were all at work in the dynamite unit, one of a number of small, one and two story structures scattered at intervals of several hundred feet over the 1,000 acres the plant occupies. Each unit is barricaded by earthworks to keep any explosion from wrecking other units.

Although the blast was severe enough to jar the ground in communities thirty miles away, none of the workmen in other parts of the plant itself was injured, according to the report of the superintendent, L. C. Babcock.

Cause Mystery.

The dead were identified as: Thomas McCahill, 30, of Kenvil; Robert Klile, 33, of Succasunna; William Gustin Jr., 26, of Dover, and Vincent Turoczy, 22, of Wharton.

The men were working on what is known as "the dynamite line." "The dynamite line" is a machine which packs the explosive into cartridges and sticks. What caused the blast has not yet been determined.

In Dover, 8 miles away, and in Netcong, two miles nearer Kenvil, the blast jarred houses so severely that doors burst open and windows rattled until the glass shattered.

In Elizabeth and Westfield, thirty miles away, the ground shuddered, although no noise was heard, and police stations were swamped with calls inquiring whether there had been an earthquake.

The Hercules plant in Kenvil manufactures smokeless powder as well as dynamite and other explosives.

EDITH M'CORMICK MANUSCRIPT IS SOLD FOR $14,000

The Chicago Title and Trust company as trustee of the estate of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, yesterday was granted permission by Probate Judge John F. O'Connell to sell a Byzantine manuscript to the University of Chicago for $14,000. The manuscript, which was purchased by Mrs. McCormick for $25,000 in 1928, is a 12th century document written in Greek. It relates the story of the life of Christ. Its value was appraised at $14,000 by Dr. Arthur Rosenblatt, book collector of Philadelphia.

Jury Trying Indiana Woman for Girl's Death Dismissed

Evansville, Ind., March 8.—[Special.]—Deadlocked after 24 hours of deliberation, the Gibson county Circuit court jury which heard evidence in the trial of Mrs. Grace Bilderback, 45, charged with having performed an illegal operation upon her 15 year old sister-in-law, Helen Pickett, which resulted in her death, was dimsissed today by Judge A. Dale Eby.

Judge's Wife Dies

MRS. KICKHAM SCANLAN.

Mrs. Sarah Conway Scanlan, wife of Judge Kickham Scanlan of the first division of the Illinois Appellate court, died late Wednesday evening in her home at the Edgewater Beach apartments, 5555 Sheridan road. A cerebral hemorrhage which occurred a few minutes after Mrs. Scanlan returned from Lenten services at St. Ita's church, caused her death.

Mrs. Scanlan was a native Chicagoan. She was the daughter of the late Michael Conway, who for many years was fire marshal. Known to hundreds of men and women in public life here, she was called "Mother" by all the family's close friends. She is survived by her husband and by a daughter, Mrs. Anthony Nell. Another daughter, Miriam, was killed in an automobile accident in 1922.

DR. F. S. DENNIS, PUPIL OF JOSEPH LISTER, DIES; FAMOUS AS SURGEON

New York, March 8.—[Special.]—Dr. Frederic Shepard Dennis, founder of the Harlem hospital and professor emeritus of clinical surgery at the Cornell university, died today at his home at 1136 Fifth avenue. He would have been 84 years old on April 17.

To Dr. Dennis fell the highly important mission of introducing Joseph Lister's antisepsis to the surgeons of this country in 1877. He was the first to demonstrate in the United States the Lister theory and technic at a time when he was an assistant demonstrator of anatomy at the Bellevue Hospital Medical college.

Dr. Dennis received his medical degree from the Bellevue Medical college in 1874, two years after his graduation from Yale. The greatest danger in surgery then was from infection after the operations. Lister's work followed the discovery of the germ theory of disease by Louis Pasteur, a French chemist in the fifties and sixties during experiments on wine, beer, silk worms, chickens and cattle.

During Dr. Dennis' studies in the Royal College of Surgeons in London, he went to the royal infirmary in Edinburgh, where he met Lister.

Back in New York Dr. Dennis demonstrated the bacteriological aspects of Lister's antiseptic practice. Gradually, as the knowledge he brought from abroad spread through America, the death rate from surgical infections declined, especially to the satisfaction of those surgeons who championed the introduction of antisepsis.

Dr. Dennis was a fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons and of the American College of Surgeons. He was a member of the Clinical Society of London, the German Congress of Surgeons, the New York Academy of Medicine and the American Surgical association, of which he had been president in 1894.

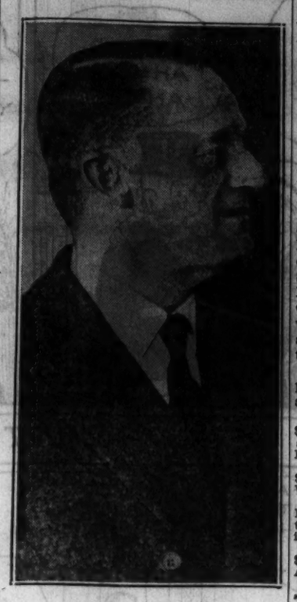
Pneumonia Victim



CAPT. FRANK T. EVANS.

New York, March 8.—[Special.]—Capt. Frank Taylor Evans, United States navy, retired, died early today of pneumonia at the Naval hospital in Brooklyn. He was 58 years old.

Capt. Evans was the son of the late Admiral Robley D. Evans, the "Fighting Bob" Evans of civil and Spanish-American war fame. The younger Evans, just graduated from the naval academy, was aboard the battleship Iowa, commanded by his father, when the Spanish fleet under Cervera made its dash out of the harbor of Santiago de Cuba. The Iowa exchanged broadsides with the Vizcaya and forced her to surrender.

Later Capt. Evans saw service in practically every part of the world. He formerly commanded the cruiser Pittsburgh, the flagship of the fleet in European waters, and later was assigned to the Brooklyn navy yard. During the world war he was senior aid to Rear Admiral Hillary Jones in the United States Atlantic coast patrol squadron. He went on the retired list on Sept. 1, 1930.

U. S. MILLIONAIRE DUCHESS D'ARCOS, 80, DIES IN ITALY

ROME, March 8.—(AP)—The millionaire Duchess Virginia d'Arcos, the former Virginia Whitbury Lowery of Washington, D. C., died today of pneumonia at the age of 80 in her magnificent Roman residence, the Brandaccio palace. She was the widow of Duke Brunetti d'Arcos, who once was the Spanish ambassador to Washington and Rome.

Before her death she stipulated that she be buried in Rock Creek cemetery, Washington, and the body will be sent there. The duchess left a will 15 pages long in which she gave $1,000,000 to American institutions, including hospitals and libraries. It was understood other bequests total $500,000. She also leaves a fortune in art works.

The duchess retained her American citizenship although she married a Spaniard, and had her passport renewed from time to time. She was a distant cousin of Mrs. Breckinridge Long, wife of the American ambassador to Rome. The Italian government, on being notified of the death of the Duchess D'Arcos, immediately ordered her living quarters in the palace sealed up, according to custom.

END TAX EXEMPT BONDS, IS PLEA OF MORGENTHAU

Asks U. S., States Be Free to Levy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 8.—In a surprise appearance before the house judiciary committee, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., today recommended the abolition of tax exempt government securities. In the future, he told the committee, all federal, state, and municipal bond issues should be subject to taxation on a reciprocal basis under which the federal government could tax state and city securities, with federal issues subject at the same time to taxation by local political subdivisions.

Although there is no constitutional bar to the taxation of federal securities, Mr. Morgenthau pointed out that a constitutional amendment would be required to enable the national government to tax the interest on state and municipal obligations. He urged that an amendment be drawn to grant this authority on a mutual basis.

Calls for Permanent Policy.

"The treasury department favors as a permanent policy the elimination of the exemptions from federal income tax now accorded to the interest on federal, state, and municipal securities, insofar as future issues of such securities are concerned," Mr. Morgenthau declared. "I consider it very important that when the exemption is eliminated, it should be eliminated not only in respect to future issues of federal securities, but in respect to future issues of state and municipal securities as well.

"The enactment of legislation requiring federal obligations to be issued in the future on a fully taxable basis, in competition with wholly tax exempt securities originating elsewhere, would be likely to react unfavorably on the market for federal securities, to increase the cost of the government's borrowing, and to complicate our financing operations.

Change in Constitution Necessary.

"I am advised that a constitutional amendment would be required to enable the federal government to tax the interest on state and municipal securities. In my judgment, such an amendment should be drawn on a reciprocal basis; the states should be permitted to tax the income from federal securities, and the federal government to tax the income from state and municipal securities. I favor such an amendment."

Although Mr. Morgenthau's statement of the treasury's position regarding tax exempt government securities represented no new departure from the long-time attitude of the department, it was somewhat unexpected. Within the last several months, the treasury secretary indicated to the house ways and means committee that the department would prefer to leave the subject alone at this time because of the effect that action to remove federal bonds from their tax exempt status might have on the treasury's borrowing program.

Change Previously Advocated.

For years, however, the attitude of the department has been substantially that outlined today by Mr. Morgenthau. Former Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, it was understood, advocated similar action on the ground that the tax exemption privilege accorded state and municipal securities tended to lead states and cities into debt.

Several constitutional amendments along the lines suggested by Mr. Morgenthau are now pending in the house and senate. The advocacy of the treasury department and a considerable congressional sentiment against tax exempt securities is expected to bring them into focus as important matters on the legislative program. But the ratification of thirty-six states, it is admitted, will be exceedingly difficult to secure.

Says U. S. Could Get 145 Million.

Roswell Magill, treasury department fiscal expert, estimated before the committee that federal revenues of 145 million dollars annually could be expected from a tax on governmental security issues. No estimate was given of what would accrue to states and municipalities from taxes on the income of federal securities.

Magill pointed out that there are some $25,000,000,000 worth of such federal securities as compared with seventeen and three quarters billions in those of the political subdivisions. He told the committee that at the end of 1933 the wholly tax exempt federal securities amounted to $11,500,000,000 and those exempt from normal tax but subject to surtax, $13,500,000,000. At the end of 1932, he added, state and municipal securities, which are wholly tax exempt, totaled $17,770,000,000.

Atlas Brewing Co. Earns $2.41 per Share for 1933

After having reported net income of $479,276 for the first five months of 1933, Atlas Brewing company finished the year with net sales of $4,628,059 and net income of $725,760, or $2.41 per share on the 300,000 shares outstanding. This was after deductions totaling $133,353 for special charges.

U.S. Draws on Its Gold to Pay Expenses

Indications that the United States treasury drew heavily upon its holdings of "free" gold last week to meet expenses were contained in the report of the Federal Reserve system for the week ended on Wednesday, made public last night.

The system's holdings of gold certificates were increased over $257,000,000 as a result of transfers from the treasury. Inasmuch as monetary gold stocks of the country rose $155,000,000 in the week, it was presumed that gold certificates in that amount had been sold by the treasury to secure funds with which to buy imported gold. The balance of about $102,000,000 was evidently transferred to the reserve banks to provide the treasury with balances upon which to draw as occasion required.

The result of this use of its "free" gold, which is gold not allocated for use in the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund or for other purposes, enables the treasury to avoid withdrawing any of its deposits from commercial banks and to limit the net reduction of its deposits with the reserve banks to $10,000,000.

Excess Reserves at New High.

The member banks of the reserve system, accordingly, found their reserve balances swollen by the large gold imports. Reserve balances of the member banks rose $220,000,000 in the week and reached a record high estimated at $1,350,000,000.

The total of money in circulation advanced $19,000,000, in accordance with the normal seasonal trend. To meet this increased currency demand there was an expansion of about $23,000,000 in Federal Reserve notes outstanding, but an offsetting decline of nearly $11,000,000 in Federal Reserve bank notes in use. The balance was made up by expansion of treasury and national bank currency.

Member banks borrowing from the reserve banks declined another $5,000,000 to $58,577,0000, a low record since the early days of the system, and bill holdings of the reserve banks dropped $16,000,000. These reductions, together with a decline of $6,000,000 in other reserve bank credit, produced a total net reduction of $28,000,000 for the week in outstanding reserve bank credit.

Gold Stock Over 7½ Billion.

Gold reserves of the system reached a new record at $4,152,948,000 and the country's actual monetary gold stock rose to a new high of $7,556,000,000.

Total bank credit outstanding declined in Chicago, due chiefly to the reduction of $14,000,000 in holdings of governments by the banks here. This compared with New York's increase of $83,000,000 in government holdings. Collateral loans declined $20,000,000. (this shrinkage $14,000,000 represented the decline in loans to brokers.

Gross deposits of member banks in Chicago were down an indicated $3,000,000. In New York there was an indicated gain of $153,000,000 in gross deposits of which $36,000,000 represented additional government deposits.

GOLD SHIPMENTS OVER 15 MILLION; DOLLAR STEADY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 8.—Further gold imports of $15,731,600, of which $7,613,300 made fresh additions to the monetary gold stocks and $8,118,300 consisted of gold previously acquired in France by the treasury and included in the monetary gold stocks, were reported today by the Federal Reserve bank of New York.

Including the transactions reported today there has been reported since Feb. 1, total gold imports of $545,895,400 and transactions, including imports and releases of earmarked gold, resulted in a net gain of $507,419,400 in the country's monetary gold stocks. The gain in gold since the end of January is calculated on the basis of the new dollar of 15 5-21 grains of gold. In terms of the old dollar, this same volume of gold would have amounted to about 300,000,000.

Foreign exchanges were more active, although price changes were small. Sterling declined ⅝ cent to $5.07⅝ and the franc finished unchanged at 6.58 cents. Changes in other currencies displayed no uniform trend but most of them were lower.

The London gold market was active with sales of metal amounting to $3,027,062 reported, part of which was believed to be for speculative interests. The price was equivalent to $34.76 an ounce.

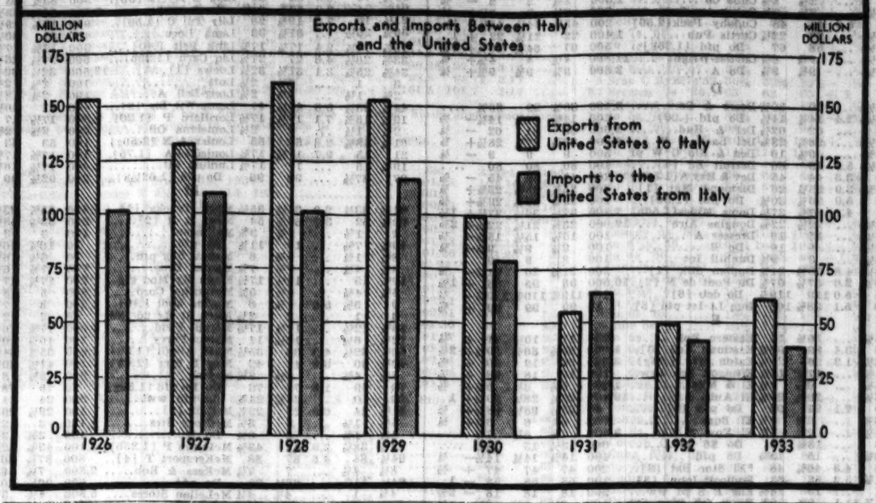
CLASS I ROADS' JANUARY INCOME SHOWS BIG GAIN

Washington, D. C., March 8.—(AP)—The bureau of railway economics reported tonight the net operating income of class one railroads in January was $30,931,205, a large increase from the $13,585,010 earnings for the same month last year.

The return rate was 2.16 per cent on the property investments of the roads, compared with the 0.94 rate for January, 1933. The report was based on earnings of 149 roads with a 239,511 total mileage.

Gross operating revenues for the month were $258,005,695, as against $226,555,138 in January last year, while operating expenses totaled $195,848,887 against $181,679,760 last year. The $20,770,833 paid in taxes was a reduction of 4.5 per cent under the January, 1933, figure.

Trade of the United States with Italy for Eight Years Compared



Warns Less Work Means Poorer Living

A warning that further reduction in the hours of work will inevitably lower the standard of living of Americans was made yesterday by Dr. Harold G. Moulton, president of the Brookings Institute, Washington, D. C., in a talk before the Illinois Manufacturers' association at the Palmer house. His remarks were interpreted as criticism of the policy of the Roosevelt administration of seeking further cuts in the hours of work.

DR. H. G. MOULTON.

Dr. Moulton, who formerly was connected with the political economy department of the University of Chicago, asserted that excessive reduction of the hours of labor and restriction of industrial output have nothing to commend them from any economic point of view. He said it was impossible to create as much national wealth under the shorter hourse of work as under the longer hours and asserted that the matter of standard of living was attached to production of wealth.

Sees Less Wealth Produced.

Dr. Moulton pointed out that this country produced 80 billion dollars of wealth with a 50 hour week in 1929 and he asked whether the powers in control at Washington think that much wealth can be produced with a 36 hour week.

With respect to the immediate business outlook Dr. Moulton expressed himself as being temperately optimistic for 1934. He said the big issue facing this nation is whether it will be able to bridge the gap from public to private employment in the course of the next year or so without suffering a new reaction in business.

"The government is engaged in a tremendous gamble in which the stakes are of incalculable importance," he continued. "We are to pour out some ten to fifteen billions of dollars of public money—or rather credit—with a view to priming the industrial pump. It is the hope that the ensuing business recovery will in due course absorb unemployment and yield sufficient taxes to the government to cover interest and sinking fund requirements.

Cites Heavy Interest Charge.

"Four per cent annually on 15 billion dollars would be 600 million dollars, and our ability to raise this sum is, roughly speaking, the test of future financial stability. Who is prepared to say, for certain, at this juncture that the gamble is foredoomed to failure?"

Discussing the business outlook, Dr. Moulton said that on the whole the prospects for improving business and stable financial conditions throughout 1934 are distinctly good. He based this opinion primarily on what he called the effects of economic momentum. He explained this by saying that once business starts on the downgrade the effects spread cumulatively throughout the entire business and financial system. Each wage cut, each dividend elimination further weakens the business position.

"Similarly recovery once really under way feeds on itself, so to speak," he remarked. "Each increase in production, in wage payments, or in interest and dividend disbursements, gives further stimulus to business activity. The upswing of a business cycle, like the downswing, is a cumulative process."

U. S. REMOVES BAR AGAINST PACIFIC COAST OIL CARTEL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 8.—The administration created a possibly far-reaching precedent today when it agreed to modification of a federal court decree restraining twelve California oil companies from alleged monopolistic practices in order to permit operation of a cartel drawn under the provisions of the national recovery act.

The modification was agreed to after a conference between President Roosevelt, Attorney General Cummings and Secretary Ickes who also is oil administrator, together with a group of legal experts from the department of justice.

The government will not consent to dismissal of the decree but only to relaxation of those features that will permit organization of the oil business in that state while at the same time retaining all of the anti-trust features of the court order.

GENERAL MOTORS CAR SALES INCREASE 70% DURING LAST MONTH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 8.—Resumption of production and distribution in February after the previous month's temporary curtailment in anticipation of new models, resulted in an increase of approximately 70 per cent in world sales of General Motors last month over the corresponding interval a year ago, according to the report issued by the company today.

The total of 100,848 cars sold to world dealers, compared with 59,614 in February of last year, and 62,506 in January this year. The gain over the previous month was about 61 per cent.

An increase of about 15 per cent over 1933 figures was shown for the first two months of 1934 when sales aggregated 163,354 cars compared with 141,731 in the same 1933 period.

Sales to consumers in the United States last month totaled 58,911 compared with 52,280 in February a year ago. In January this year the total was 23,438. Sales for the first two months of 1934 totaled 82,349.

Sales to dealers in the United States in February totaled 82,222, compared with 50,212 in February a year ago. Sales in January this year were 46,190. Sales for the first two months of 1934 totaled 128,412 compared with 122,486 in the same two months of 1933.

BANK ACCOUNTS UNDER GUARANTY NOW 54,682,093

Washington, D. C., March 8.—(AP)—The Deposit Insurance corporation said today that 54,682,092 accounts in 13,529 banks are guaranteed by the temporary insurance fund.

Leo T. Crowley, corporation chairman, said 5,229 are national banks, 909 state banks belonging to the federal reserve system, and 7,391 nonmember state banks. Insured deposits aggregate $15,482,981,016 of a total deposit liability in the insured institutions of $37,923,828,503.

"Although the temporary insurance fund is now well within its third month of operation," Crowley said, "so far no bank which is a member of this fund has closed its doors."

UTILITY PLEADS TAXES AS BAR TO LOWER RATES

Increasing tax burdens during 1934 were cited by utility financial experts as one reason why the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois should not be compelled to reduce its electricity rates in the suburban territory it serves around Chicago at the rate reduction hearing before the Illinois commerce commission yesterday.

The company is charged with excessive profits in past years. According to the testimony of company witnesses yesterday, the utility's 1934 taxes will total $2,490,100, a sum $548,712 greater than the 1933 total of $1,941,388.

U. S. Limited Loan Breaks Bank Bill Rate

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 8.—Surprised by the treasury's action in limiting its new financing to an exchange offer for the $460,099,000 of securities maturing next Thursday, banks today rushed to invest funds for which they had previously expected to find employment in the government's quarterly offering.

The pressure of funds seeking an outlet was increased by the fact that excess reserves of New York City banks had advanced to nearly $450,000,000, while the excess reserves of all member banks of the federal reserve had reached the huge total of about $1,350,000,000.

Cuts Yield on Bills.

The money market responded to the increased urgency of the demand by a cut in the yield rates on bankers' acceptances of one-quarter of 1 per cent and by the virtual withdrawal of all offers of treasury bills. The reduction in bankers' bill rates was the first to be made this year and carried the yields down to levels equal to the lowest on record, previously seen early last November and early last year.

In the market for treasury bills an unprecedented situation was created when bids of one-fifth to one-quarter of 1 per cent discount were made and offers of a yield of zero or no offers at all were made in response. Previously bills had been offered at yields of .05 per cent to .30 per cent.

Gilt Edged Paper.

Acceptances are rated among the highest of gilt edged paper, being second only to United States government securities. They are issued against readily salable commodities.

The new rates are: 30 to 90 days, ⅜ of 1 per cent bid, ¼ of 1 per cent asked; 120 days, ½ bid, ⅝ asked, and 180 days, ¾ bid, ⅞ asked. Yesterday's reduction put the rates back to the levels of January, 1933, the lowest in the history of trading in bills.

Offer Well Received.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 8.—Holders of ¾ per cent treasury certificates, outstanding in the amount of about $460,000,000, have made a ready response to the exchange offering of 3 per cent four year notes announced yesterday by Secretary Morgenthau. The secretary said today that the books would remain open forty-eight hours more in order that western subscriptions may be received.

Secretary Morgenthau said the treasury would have a refunding issue at the time of the maturity of $1,000,000,000 in fourth Liberty bonds April 15. While it was expected that a bond issue would be authorized, the secretary gave no details.

Time Limit for Live Stock Code Arguments Extended

Washington, D. C., March 8.—(AP)—The farm administration today extended until March 16 the date for filing briefs and statements on the proposed code for stockyards operators.

Court Upholds $35,000,000 Detroit Bank Stock Levies

Detroit, Mich., March 8.—(AP)—Stockholders in Detroit's bank holding companies today lost their suit to set aside assessments on their stock, and tonight 24,800 of them faced the prospect of judgments aggregating 35 million dollars.

Judge Johnson J. Hayes, of Greensboro, N. C., sitting in federal court here, today dissolved a temporary injunction which had restrained receivers for the First National bank, Detroit, and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce from collecting assessments for the benefit of the depositors from owners of stock in the holding companies.

Holding Companies Real Owners.

The holding companies, the Detroit Bankers company and the Guardian Detroit Union Group, Inc., owned all of the stock in the two banks and Judge Hayes, in his findings, held that the holding company stockholders, as the real owners of the bank stock, were liable for the assessments.

EDSEL FORD.
[Assoc. Press Photo.]

Judge Hayes said he would enter the formal decree in about 30 days. Attorneys for both sides conceded that an appeal was inevitable.

There are 8,800 holders of stock in the Detroit Bankers company and the aggregate of the assessments against them, at the rate of $14.05 a share, is approximately $25,000,000. The total of assessments against the 16,000 shareholders in the Guardian group is approximately $10,000,000. The assessment against that stock is $6.43 a share.

Edsel Ford Largest Holder.

The largest individual stockholder in the Guardian group is Edsel B. Ford. He is recorded as owning 55,020 shares, and his assessment would be $353,778. Robert O. Lord, former president of the Guardian group, holds 8,620 shares. His assessment would be $55,426.

Among the larger stockholders in the Detroit Bankers company, with their assessments, are: the estate of the late James McMillan, former United States senator, 16,005 shares, $224,962; Dexter M. Ferry Jr., 14,421 shares, $202,698; Fred T. Murphy, 14,800 shares, $208,587; Wesson Seyburn, 12,120 shares, $170,356, and Truman H. Newberry, former secretary of the navy, 13,075 shares, $183,779. Newberry also owns 6,456 shares of Guardian stock and the McMillan estate 5,175 shares.

BANKS NOW ABLE TO BOOST LOANS BY 11 BILLIONS

Problem Is to Find Safe Credit Uses.

BY REUBEN CAHN.

The banks of the country now have the largest amount of unused lendable funds in their history. They are in a position now to increase their loans by 11 billion dollars.

The basis for this statement is the weekly report of member banks to the twelve federal reserve banks. The excess reserves exceed 1 billion 100 million dollars, a figure which has never heretofore been approached. Excess reserves represent funds of a bank over and above what is declared to be sound and adequate by the federal reserve act. Since, for the country as a whole, the reserve requirements average 10 per cent, the billion 100 million dollars of reserve can be made the basis for extending 11 billion dollars of credit. In 1929 the banking situation was considered comfortable and banks were generous with credit when excess reserves amounted to 50 million dollars.

Banks Seek Sound Loans.

The banks are now willing to put these redundant funds to work in sound ways not objectionable to the national administration. The difficulty seems to be to find those who are willing to borrow and at the same time give convincing evidence of their ability to repay. Several banks in Chicago have advertised that they desire to lend money to sound commercial borrowers. In New York banks have done similarly.

Congress in 1932 amended the federal reserve act giving the reserve banks power to make loans to individuals under stated conditions as to eligibility of borrowers and security, provided the borrower was unable to get accommodations elsewhere. Since about the middle of 1932 the Federal Reserve Bank of New York has attempted energetically to make loans where that could be safely done according to law. The bank was able to make only 14 loans. And two of the 14 loans have already gone sour and half of the money has not been paid. With this record it could hardly be said that the leading federal reserve bank had failed to coöperate by having too high a standard for borrowers.

Safe Loans Form Problem.

The problem confronting the banks with 11 billions of dollars to lend is to find willing and reasonably safe borrowers. If so much money were put to work it would clearly have an important effect.

Conceivably the funds could be put to work in the security market, were conditions not just what they are. Loans on securities at one time totaled nearly 11 billion dollars, and now are approximately 4 billions. If individuals were willing to speculate for the rise, and if banks were willing to finance them in doing so, the 11 billions could finance a much bigger stock market boom than we had in 1929. And some considerable portion of the idle funds may eventually get into the market.

At present the Fletcher-Rayburn stock market control bill, which would radically reduce margin trading, is discouraging speculators from borrowing and bankers from lending on stock market collateral. But even before that the doubts about the future were more powerful in discouraging speculation than was the fear of inflation in encouraging it.

Future Commodity Prices Doubtful.

Our idle credit might conceivably be employed to finance rising commodity prices, which was the use to which credit was most prominently put in the business cycle before the last—the one which culminated in a collapse of commodity prices in 1920.

But here again there is a deficiency of confidence in the future. If firms feit that higher prices were reasonably certain they would now be increasing the size of their inventories. This could absorb a considerable amount of our unused credit. But they are not convinced that higher prices are in store. The president of Sears, Roebuck & Co. has just told the stockholders of that company that no further expansion of inventories was contemplated.

Commodities might rise under the influence of commodity market speculators, but the big speculators have been content to stay on the side lines, what with the money plans of the government still uncertain and reports that commodity exchange regulations along the lines of the Fletcher-Rayburn stock exchange bill are in contemplation. Substantial amounts of the idle credit will be employed in purchasing and holding materials, if the success of the recovery program should become more probable or if the fear of inflation should become strong enough to overcome the doubt about the success of the recovery program.

Commercial Loans Lag.

The use of credit which would be most encouraging is in commercial loans to finance business expansion. But as yet there has been no indication that large amounts of credit are thus to be employed. Commercial loans have been declining and in the last weekly report were the lowest since the week of April 19, 1933, and only up 100 millions from the low point of the depression.

Bankers might employ their funds profitably in the purchase of investments eligible for their portfolios, but these securities are chiefly of the kinds certain to suffer in case of inflation. Some institutions have had handsome profits on second grade liens purchased some time ago. But they have been unwilling to go far in this direction. They have preferred to remain liquid with short term governments, pending a demand for their funds from the usual sources.

It should be pointed out that there is some artificiality about the surplus reserves. In calculating the amounts of the excess no allowance was made

Stock Market Control Bill to Be Modified

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 8.—The Fletcher-Rayburn bill to regulate stock exchanges will be reported to the senate next week with many amendments of the more controversial provisions, under the present program of the senate banking and currency committee which expects to end hearings Monday.

Following a conference with President Roosevelt, Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, announced that the bill would be "simplified as much as practicable to direct its features against well recognized evils heretofore disclosed." He said the bill would get action first in the house.

Probable Changes.

Chairman Fletcher of the senate committee said that amendments would probably be made as follows:

1. Minimum margin requirements made more flexible.

2. Over the counter provisions made more definite, but more liberal.

3. Securities of municipalities and railroads, already subject to regulation, to be exempted from provisions of the bill, with the federal trade commission authorized to exempt other securities when warranted.

4. Provisions covering registration to be made subject to modification in the commission's discretion.

5. Provisions fixing rigid regulations for corporation reports as to condition to be modified.

Retain "Outlaw" Practices.

On the other hand the "outlaw" practices provisions, which are criminal offenses under the bill, will remain. These practices, most of them of manipulatory character, including wash sales, matched orders, combinations or pools to raise or depress prices, circulating rumors as to prices on the exchanges, and the disseminating of false information.

One of the main lines of attack against the bill by the New York, Philadelphia, Boston, San Francisco and other stock exchanges has been directed at the designation of the federal trade commission as the administrative authority. The exchanges want a commission to be named by the President, two of the members of which would be members of exchanges, one of the New York and the other of an exchange outside New York City. Senator Fletcher said today that the federal trade commission will remain the administrative agency, and in this opinion he apparently has the support of a majority of the committee.

Treasury Not Opposed.

There was a report today that the treasury department is opposed to the bill in its present form, a report that was promptly denied by Secretary of the Treasury Mongenthau.

"I have not read the bill," said Mr. Morgenthau, "and I have no part in its formulation. We are studying the bill as a matter of routine but only insofar as it affects the market for government bonds."

It was also disclosed that the federal reserve board is making a study of the bill, the report on which will be submitted to the committee probably early next week.

The committee had expected to conclude the hearings by noon tomorrow and would have done so but for the request of Senator Kean that Mr. Black, the heads of the New York, Chicago and Philadelphia Clearing houses; Assistant Secretary of Commerce Dickinson and Jackson Reynolds, president of the First National bank of New York, be called as witnesses. Senator Goldsborough asked that William C. Potter, president of the Guaranty Trust company, New York, also be asked to testify.

STATE AUDITOR OFFERS PLAN FOR WEST SIDE TRUST

State Auditor Edward J. Barrett yesterday outlined to Max Shore, chairman of a depositors' committee, plans for making available 40 per cent of the deposits of the closed West Side Trust and Savings bank. Mr. Barrett's plan, which is based on the condition of the bank as of Jan. 27, 1934, and is subject to change as the bank's assets are liquidated, is as follows:

It is proposed that the receiver try to borrow $2,100,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation from which must be paid secured bills amounting to $1,200,000. Practically all the assets of the bank, other than those to be purchased by the new national bank, yet to be organized, will be offered as collateral to the RFC.

The bank's liabilities to general creditors will be reduced approximately $347,000 by the allowance of offsets against loans and discounts.

General creditors will waive 60 per cent of the amounts of their respective balances voluntarily and in consideration of $400,000 cash to the receiver will voluntarily waive any further claims against stockholders. To make the plan effective approximately $1,800,000 must be waived.

TRACTION LINES GAIN IN TRAFFIC AFTER 5 YEARS

Chicago System Has Increase of 2.8%.

The first yearly increase in Chicago street car travel in five years took place in the year ended Jan. 31, Guy A. Richardson, president of the Chicago Surface Lines, reported yesterday in making public the system's annual statement. Gross earnings, residue receipts, and employment of the system also increased during the year.

GUY A. RICHARDSON.
[Toloff Photo.]

The lines carried a total of 651,602,518 revenue passengers last year, a gain of 17,775,574, or 2.80 per cent, over the preceding year. Large decreases were recorded in the first three months of the year, but in May the trend changed, and in each succeeding month increases were recorded over the comparable periods of 1932. The following table shows the monthly percentage comparisons of increase or decrease in the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, against the preceding year:

February	−14.18	August	+18.19
March	−12.71	September	+10.66
April	−10.30	October	+11.95
May	− 1.97	November	+ 6.70
June	+ 2.61	December	+ 5.06
July	+12.88	January	+11.92

Chicago Fair Boosts Traffic.

The Century of Progress played an important part in the traffic gains during the summer months, President Richardson explained. The pickup in industrial activity late in the year, however, sustained street car travel and traffic held above the preceding year's volume.

Gross earnings of the system were $45,601,728 last year, compared with $44,421,101 for the preceding period, an increase of $1,180,681, while total expenses fell $196,716 to $37,530,218. As a result there was a gain in residue receipts of $1,377,397 for the year. Total residue receipts were $8,071,565, against $6,694,168. Taxes paid by the system increased 15 per cent to $3,480,000.

The improvement in Chicago in electric street railway travel took place in the face of a decline of 6 per cent for the nation as a whole. Street car travel reached its peak nationally in 1926, but in Chicago continued to gain until the end of 1929. The national industry is still running 33 per cent below the 1926 volume. In Chicago passengers carried last year were 27.40 per cent fewer than in the peak year ended Jan. 31, 1930.

Pickup in Business Helps.

After referring to the spurt during the fair season President Richardson said: "Fortunately, as the exposition was coming to a close, and riding might therefore have been expected to drop off materially, the increase in industrial activity and various projects with funds provided by the federal government became more noticeable, and business continued during the remaining months of the fiscal year to show substantial increases."

At another point he said: "Riding habits changed materially as a result of a Century of Progress and the various influences affecting industrial employment, especially the shortening of hours for shop and office workers. The result has been a higher morning peak and a spreading out of the afternoon riding. This is illustrated by the fact that in January, 1929, the afternoon peak was 3.29 per cent above the morning peak, while in January, 1934, it was 1.65 per cent below."

MONTGOMERY WARD PROFIT UP; PROXIES ASKED

The annual statement of Montgomery Ward & Co., which will be issued in about a week will show substantial improvement in earnings and sales, stockholders were informed yesterday by the management. Stockholders were asked for proxies to be voted at the annual meeting April 27.

President Sewell L. Avery asked stockholders to read the annual report before giving their proxies to any other group. The management's proxy committee consists of Mr. Avery, Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the board, and Stuart S. Ball, secretary.

The letter was regarded as an attempt to counteract efforts of the "Montgomery Ward Stockholders' association" to elect several new board members. The association has been circularizing shareholders for several months criticizing the management's policies.

STOCKS RISE AS ALARM OVER U. S. CONTROL FADES

Roosevelt Decision on Air Mail Also Helps.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 8.—Traders celebrated the brightening prospects for a modification of the stock exchange regulation bill with a smart little rally in the final hour of today's market. The professionals took leading issues in hand and pushed them up for net gains of 1 to 2 points in short order. The activity was gradually broadened out to include a host of secondary stocks of all descriptions and the result was one of the broadest markets in weeks. Turnover was around 1,700,000 shares.

Aviation stocks had some extra help in the form of President Roosevelt's overnight announcement of plans to return the air mail to private companies under certain conditions. United Aircraft scored a net gain of nearly 2 points and Douglas Aircraft rallied 2 points from its previous close, but feared from its high just before the close. Others made fractional gains.

Motor Shares Rally.

Motor shares braced up after absorbing heavy selling yesterday due to threats of fresh labor difficulties in the production plants out west. Gains of 1 to 2 points were turned in by General Motors, Chrysler, Auburn, and Mack Truck. Some of the lower priced issues of the group also came in for profitable attention.

In the metals group, International Nickel again showed independent strength, forging ahead for more than 2 points. U. S. Smelting led the "reguler" silver producers with an upturn of 6 points, one of the best individual showings of the day. American Smelting and others of the division were active at substantially better prices.

Utilities Do Better.

Railroad shares, which have been in the doldrums for several sessions, made a strong bid for leadership on the upturn and various trading favorites of the group like Atchison, New York Central, Union Pacific, Pennsylvania, and Lackawanna improved their standing by from 1 to 2 points.

The utilities gave a fair account of themselves under the leadership of Consolidated Gas. The alcohol issues made some progress.

The rally followed three hours of more or less desultory trading with prices showing a tendency to seek lower levels. The announcement of Senator Fletcher, chief sponsor of the regulatory bill, that he was willing to accept important modifications was the signal for the buying wave.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 8.—The listed bond market, led by long-term United States government bonds, moved into higher ground today.

The decision of the treasury to put off action at this time in the matter of taking care of the $1,000,000,000 of Fourth Liberty 4¼s called for April 15 and to confine its March 15 financing strictly to exchanges for the maturing ¾ per cent certificates, caused the long-term bonds to advance 2-32ds to 14-32ds point.

Corporate Loans Strong.

With the treasury issues holding the center of attention, having the most active day since January 11, trading in domestic corporation bonds was slightly less than on the previous day. The utilities showed the best average advance, with the rails and industrials next in that order.

In the rails, the active Alleghany corporation issues were weaker on reports of moves to defer interest payments. However, a number of rail issues mounted to new highs for the year.

German Issues Lower.

The various German issues, which were among the most active of the foreign group today, closed irregularly lower. French government and municipal loans were up 2½ to down fractionally, and United Kingdom issues were unchanged to fractionally higher.

Scandinavian loans were strong in quiet trading, and Swiss government 5½s, advanced fractionally to a new record high. Argentine government bonds showed the best strength in the Latin American group.

Turnover amounted to $14,870,000 against $13,888,000 yesterday.

Caterpillar Tractor.

Investors' Guide: I would appreciate any information you may give me on Caterpillar Tractor.—P. H.

Answer: Caterpillar Tractor company accounts for about 90 per cent of the domestic sales of crawler type tractors. This type of machine is used mainly in industry, only about 10 per cent of sales being destined for agriculture. Largest single source of demand is for road building. Other users are mining, lumbering, quarrying, railroad, general construction, and utility companies.

A sharp reversal in the downward trend of earnings was evidenced about the middle of 1933. A better tone in export sales, substantial government purchases, considerable progress in selling Diesel engines, and improved Pacific coast agricultural sales were the chief factors.

Sales in January, 1934, were $1,570,000 and net income was $223,000, or 12 cents per share. For January, 1933, net sales were $605,000 and loss was $145,000.

	Net sales.	Net income.	Inc. per cshr.
1933	$14,408,000	$ 303,000	$0.16
1932	13,250,000	*1,617,000	*.86
1931	24,142,000	1,361,000	.72
1930	45,355,000	8,715,000	4.63

*Loss.

The sizable 1932 loss was in part due to extraordinary expenses resulting from concentration of manufacturing activities in the Peoria, Ill., plant.

On Jan. 31, 1934, current assets were $24,032,000 and current liabilities were $957,000. With the retirement of the $5,090,000 5 per cent notes, due April 1, 1935, called for payment on April 2, 1934, the company will have no funded debt. Capitalization will then consist solely of 1,882,240 shares of no par capital stock. Dividends in 1933 totaled 12½ cents a share. A dividend of 12½ cents a share was paid Feb. 28, 1934.

Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe.

Investors' Guide: I would appreciate your rating on Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe 4½s, 1962. Are they a sound investment, callable, and in what denominations do they come?—V. A.

Answer: Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railway company first and refunding 4½s [California-Arizona lines], due 1962, are a sound investment. They are available in denominations of $1,000 only in coupon form, and $1,000, $5,000, and $10,000 in registered form. There is a small amount of sterling bonds of this series outstanding in denominations of 100 and 200 pounds sterling.

The bonds are callable on three months' notice at 110.

GRAINS WEAKEN ON LIQUIDATION, THEN RECOVER

Wheat Shows Net Upturn of 1/8 to 3/4c for Day.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain prices dipped early yesterday due to selling pressure, but in most instances the losses were more than offset in later rallies.

On mild liquidation May wheat dipped ⅞ cent to 85½ cents, lowest since Jan. 12. May oats dropped ⅝ cent to 32¾ cents, the lowest recorded since Oct. 20. Stop loss orders were uncovered on the way down, but shorts took advantage of the favorable opportunity to take profits, and all grains turned upward.

May wheat rallied more than 1 cent from the early low and closed at the top, 86⅝ to 86¾ cents. Final quotations on all options were ⅛ to ¾ cent higher for the day. At one time July was within ⅛ cent of May, the narrowest spread of the season.

Corn Recovers Loss.

Corn failed to get as low as it did last week. May touched 50⅛ cents and then rebounded to 50¾ to 50⅞ cents at the close. Net gains for the day were ¼ cent. Oats closed ⅛ cent lower to ⅜ cent higher with May at 33⅜ to 33½ cents. Rye was ¼ to ⅝ cent higher, May at 59⅝ cents. Barley lost ⅛ cent and closed with May at 45¾ cents.

May oats which sold at 56¾ cents at the top level in July, and dropped to 28⅜ cents in October have been under pressure for nearly a week as scattered longs sold their holdings. At one time during the day the nearby future was around ½ cent under July, the widest difference of the season.

Kansas City May wheat sold to 8 cents discount under the same delivery at Chicago or about a shipping difference, but movement of grain from that market is prevented by the premiums which prevail for the cash article.

Argentine Wheat Pressing.

Pressure of Argentine wheat continues to affect foreign markets. It is quoted at a discount of about 17 cents per bushel, duty paid, as compared with Canadian No. 1 northern in the United Kingdom. Liverpool futures closed ⅛ cent higher to ¼ cent lower with hedging by Argentina a factor. Winnipeg was ¼ cent higher with May at 69⅛ cents. There has been persistent selling of the latter delivery on all advances to around 70 cents for some time past, which has been attributed in Winnipeg to the liquidating agent of the pool.

Traders were somewhat surprised at the relative strength in May corn. The latter has sold at 49¾ cents three times of late, but all dips to around 50 cents have found good support.

COTTON STRONG ON REPORT OF BANKHEAD BILL ADVANCE

Cotton markets closed strong yesterday on reports indicating the early passage of the Bankhead bill by the house. Final prices were around the best of the day, Chicago futures being up 18 to 25 points and other markets 14 to 25 points. Spots in New York advanced 15 points to 12.45 cents. New Orleans gained 25 points to 12.30 cents. Galveston and Houston advanced 15 points to 12.30 cents. Prices:

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, March 8.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed today showed declines of 4@5 points early under liquidation, but rallied on increased covering on the more optimistic feeling regarding the security and commodity exchange government control bill. Final prices were unchanged to 5 points higher. Sales were 62 contracts, including 46 in exchanges from May to September at 45 and 46 points difference. Bleachable spot nominal; March closed at 11.47c, May, 5.27c; July, 5.52c; September, October, 5.76c.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 8.—Wholesale commodity prices, led by farm products, continued their climb during the week ended March 3, rising three tenths of one per cent above the preceding week, the bureau of labor statistics of the labor department announced today.

"Present prices," said Isador Lubin, commissioner of the bureau, "are 73.6 per cent of the 1926 average as compared with 73.4 per cent for the week ended Feb. 24 and within one tenth of 1 per cent of the high for the week ended Feb. 17, when the index was 73.7. The advance was due largely to the rise in the market prices of farm products, foods, miscellaneous items, house furnishing goods, and metals and metal products.

"As compared with the low point of 1933 [week ended March 4] when the index was 59.6, prices are up by 23½ per cent. The index is slightly more than 11 per cent higher than for the corresponding week of two years ago, when the general average was 66.2 per cent of the 1926 prices. The general average is about 23 per cent below the average for the year 1929, when the index number registered 95.3.

"Present prices are 2½ per cent over the high point reached during 1933 [Nov. 18.] when the index stood at 71.1. They are four per cent above those for the first week of January."

BANKS NOW ABLE TO BOOST LOANS BY 11 BILLIONS

Problem Is to Find Safe Credit Uses.

for any reserves against government deposits—and these deposits are the largest they have ever been with the exception of a short period in 1918.

Banks Hold Big U. S. Deposits.

The government funds have accumulated in the banks because the government has permitted banks who subscribed to government bonds to keep their subscriptions as deposits. At the present time the New York banks have approximately 400 million of excess reserves and approximately 700 million of government deposits. If the government were to withdraw all of their funds at once to pay for relief expenditures in the interior the surplus reserves at New York would be converted into a deficit. It is hardly likely that this would be done, but the possibility of its happening blinds the New York banks very closely to the treasury.

When the government sells a hundred million dollars of bonds to the New York banks and leaves the money on deposit, two items go up in the bank statements: holdings of government securities and deposits. Since both large deposits and large government security holdings are evidences of strength to the public, this amounts to a form of window dressing.

Van Sweringen Deal Cited.

On Sept. 9, 1931, O. P. Van Sweringen, the elder of the two railroad magnate brothers, was in the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. J. R. Nutt, chairman of the Union Trust company of Cleveland, now defunct, was also in that office at the time. The two Cleveland men concluded a deal by which the Van Sweringens sold the Union Trust company 10 million dollars of government bonds. The bonds were paid for by crediting the sellers with a deposit of 10 millions, which funds remained there untouched until Oct. 9, when the transaction was reversed, the Van Sweringen deposits going down 10 millions and the banks holdings of government bonds also going down by a similar amount.

The bonds at all times were in the hands of the Morgan company. The published statement of the bank on Sept. 29 showed the bank with 10 million more of deposits and 10 million more of governments than they really had. The public prosecutor at Cleveland believes that the transaction is worth having the grand jury look into. Critics point out that the practice of having banks keep as deposits funds owed to the government for bonds purchased from the government bears a close resemblance to the Cleveland transaction now objected to.

LATE UPTURN IN LARD WIPES OUT EARLY LOSSES

Lard prices ran into fairly good buying after selling off early yesterday. The close on futures was unchanged to 2½ cents net lower. Bellies were unchanged. There was fair call for cured meats and lard.

Cash lard prices were stronger, regular being $6.45, loose up 25 points to $6.45, while leaf advanced 12½ cents to $6.62½. Cash bellies were firm at $8.12½.

Lighter offerings of fresh pork loins with an improved call made the market firmer at 12½ to 16 cents.

Liverpool lard was 3d lower on cash and near futures and 6d off on September. There were export clearances of only 118,095 pounds of lard. Prices:

WOOL MARKETS

BOSTON, March 8.—Scattered sales of small lots were reported in the Boston wool market today at figures showing little the quotable change, although the tendency was a bit easier.

Wool men look for a little more business with the placing of government orders for army blankets, bids for which were recently opened.

BETTER SUPPORT BOOSTS PRICES OF HOGS 10 CENTS

Cattle Hold Steady, but Lambs Sag Again.

Hog prices recovered on better support yesterday, both the top and average prices moving up 10 cents to within 20 cents of the highest marks in the trade this winter. While the market was no runaway affair, packers' action indicated that the wholesale trade is in need of fresh pork, since available receipts at the leading market centers the last ten days have been exceptionally light.

Arrivals of hogs at the eleven points the first four days of this week at 231,000 show a decrease of 117,000 head or 33 per cent compared with the four day total of last week. Hog receipts this week are running smallest for this time of the season in more than a quarter of a century.

Practically all interests were back in the market for the first time since the March 1 increase in the processing tax was levied, but orders were not particularly large.

Average Gains 10 Cents.

The top for selected light butchers advanced to $4.75, while the general average at $4.55 showed 10 cents advance over Wednesday's price and 15 cents gain in two days.

Six packers obtained about 2,350 good hogs at $4.60 to $4.70 for the account of the relief corporation. The government is having about 8,000 head purchased daily at all points, but during the last three or four weeks reuef pork has been moving out of storage faster than additional supplies were being bought.

Pork is being turned over to the needy at the rate of more than 1,000,000 pounds daily. On March 3 a survey showed that 51,921,000 pounds remained in storage for the account of the corporation, a decrease of 21.4 per cent from the holdings two weeks earlier. Pork still in storage is the meat processed from about 325,000 hogs. The government orders in the market now are for about one-fourth the number that packers were buying for federal account a few weeks ago.

Cattle Quality Poorer.

In sharp contrast with Wednesday, the quality of cattle yesterday was plain. Prices appeared lower, but considering what comprised the bulk of offerings, the market was about steady. Nothing in the receipts carried good enough quality to bring more than $7.15 which was paid for 969 pound yearlings. Good 1,271 pound steers brought $7 and the bulk at $4.65 to $6.50, compared with $4.75 to $7.15 on Wednesday.

Some extremely heavy steers were in the run yesterday. One lot averaging 1,860 pounds brought $4.85. Some 1,688 pounders brought $6.10 and 1,582 pound cattle sold at $6. Beef cows were steady to strong.

Buyers obtained further concessions in the lamb trade yesterday, with the price list 10 to 15 cents under the preceding session. City butchers paid up to $9.25, the top, while shippers bought about 2,500 head at $9 to $9.10 and packers filled most of their orders around the $9 line. Matured sheep were unchanged with top ewes at $5.50.

EXPERIENCED BUYERS KNOW

1932 PONTIAC.

A De Luxe sport model. We recommend this as the outstanding coupe value in town. It's in the finest of condition. Has wire wheels, side mounts, rumble seat. Special, $395.

1933 STUDEBAKER.

A recent 6 sedan that was used as a demonstrator. Has adv. free wheeling, automatic starting, automatic choke, safety glass. Positively looks and runs as if never driven a mile. It's a de luxe model. Only $795.

1932 FORD V-8.

A beautiful de luxe roadster, finished smart color. Has a big rumble seat. The interior, motor, and tires seem brand new. Has wire wheels, side mounts, metal covers, etc. Only $365.

1932 STUDEBAKER.

You'll be forced to admit it if you see this magnificent sedan, that it's a real beauty. And it runs like clockwork. Many extras; six wire wheels. It's a real buy at only $575.

1930 LA SALLE.

Some lucky buyer is going to get the bargain of a lifetime in this fine V-8 sedan. Nice appointments and a number of extras. It's 100 per cent in every detail. Special today, $495.

1932 HUPMOBILE.

Here's a coach that was owned by a wealthy family who gave it the finest of care. Today it will still give new car satisfaction. Now $375.
